PEACE ON RHINE, BRITISH PLEA

ROOSEVELT TAX TO HIT NEAR 3 MILLION PAYERS

Surplus Split to Add 4 Billions Income.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Two out of every three income tax payers face additional assessments as an indirect result of President Roosevelt's proposal to levy an average tax of 33⅓ per cent upon the undivided net earnings of corporations, treasury experts told a house subcommittee today.

A total of 2,879,000 individuals will be affected by the new tax bill, the subcommittee was informed. This figure included 191,302 persons who now file returns but pay no income tax because of exemptions. An unestimated number who have not been legally required to file returns previously will be boosted into the class where they must make a report on their incomes.

These estimates were based upon the supposition that corporations faced with the surplus tax would distribute all earnings among stockholders.

Would Add Four Billions.

An additional 4 billion dollars in taxable income would be added to the net income of 14 billions taxable under the present law, the experts estimated.

The income taxes of nearly 3 million individuals will be increased for two reasons, it was pointed out to the subcommittee. First, their incomes will be increased because of the distribution of earnings previously withheld as surplus.

Second, the present exemption on corporation dividends from income taxes will be removed under the President's plan.

Two tables were presented to the subcommittee showing the number of individuals and distributions of individual net incomes as estimated for the calendar year of 1936. The estimate of the grand total of net income of taxpayers receiving $1,000 a year and up was 40 billion 585 million dollars.

Exemptions Lowering Hushed.

The subcommittee, headed by Representative Samuel B. Hill [Dem., Wash.] confined its discussion today to the Roosevelt tax proposals. There was no more talk for the moment of lowering the personal exemptions allowable under the present income tax law; of boosting gasoline and other "nuisance" taxes; or of the various other revenue schemes which are conceded no chance of approval by a congress facing an election campaign.

A proposal to assess lower rates on a portion of net undistributed corporate income that would enable corporations to build up reserves remained popular with members of the subcommittee, although the President has expressed his disapproval of any such provision. The treasury experts, representing the President's views, have suggested tax rates ranging from 20 to 37½ per cent on surpluses.

Make 8 Billion 308 Millions.

The treasury estimated total corporate net income for 1936 at 8 billion 308 millions and the number of tax returns on such income at 257,586. Net corporate income in the bracket under $1,000 annually was placed at 32 millions and ranged up to 3 billion 330 millions in the bracket of 5 millions annually and up.

Speaker Joseph W. Byrns said he believed the tax bill would contain the corporate surplus tax and a tax on impounded processing taxes and nothing more. If a general revision of the tax structure is necessary it will be done next January, he said. The speaker thus voiced the opinion of a majority in the house—that if a gigantic boost in taxes is essential to meet the mounting cost of government, the problem should be worked out after and not before the voters have their say next November.

Sees "Windfall" Tax.

Speaker Byrns expressed the belief the projected tax bill would consist of the corporate tax revision plus new levies on processors of agricultural commodities and a "windfall" tax to restore to the treasury refunded or unpaid AAA processing taxes.

President Roosevelt suggested raising 517 millions over two or three years to make up for anticipated revenue lost through invalidation of the processing taxes.

SENATE ORDERS FACTS ON BLACK WIRE SEIZURES

Demands Report of Federal Board.

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—The senate today adopted a resolution by Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] calling upon the federal communications commission for a full report on its "alleged seizures" of private telegrams for the Black lobby committee.

The adoption of this resolution was followed by an attack upon the activities of the Black committee by Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], who not only took cognizance of the charges that the lobby inquisition is political and one-sided in nature, but contended that the rights of citizens under the constitution are being violated.

"I hope that the guarantees of the fourth amendment will always be unimpaired and if there is to be an OGPU here, if there is to be organized surveillance of the privacy of the people of America, I do not want the senate of the United States or any committee of the senate to have anything to do with it," Senator Steiwer declared.

Further Protests Planned.

The passage of the Borah resolution and Senator Steiwer's attack, it was learned, were but the beginning of a determined movement to prevent a continuance of the terroristic methods Senator Black and his inquisitors have employed. Senator Steiwer is planning further protests, based upon carefully prepared legal citations to prove that Black is flouting the constitution and several Democratic senators were reported ready to join in the attack.

Senator Steiwer, in his address today, referred to the subpena served by Black's committee upon the Western Union company, calling for all telegrams of whatever nature sent or received by the Chicago law firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw between Feb. 1 and Dec. 1, 1935, as a "dragnet" and "bushel basket." He said Black's office had refused to supply his secretary with a copy of this subpena and that he had been forced to procure a copy from the court records of the injunction suit brought by Winston, Strawn & Shaw to restrain Western Union from turning over the telegrams.

A temporary restraining order has been issued in this suit and a hearing on the application for a permanent injunction will be on Wednesday.

Black Defends Action.

Senator Black, replying to Senator Steiwer today, asserted that the reason for subpenaing the telegrams "of the so-called Chicago law firm" was that the American Liberty league, in its report of expenditures to the house of representatives, had listed telegrams paid for by it for Winston, Strawn and Shaw.

Senator Steiwer replied that the proper procedure would have been to obtain from the Liberty league the identity of the telegrams it paid for.

"There was no occasion for issuing such a subpena," he declared.

The Oregon senator, an able lawyer, said that in the entire history of the country there was only one precedent, dating back to 1876, for the type of subpena issued by Senator Black, and that the courts had in no instance upheld such a subpena.

"Much has been said in the last two years concerning unconstitutional legislation and it has always been answered that these infractions of the basic law did not take from the citizen his rights" Senator Steiwer asserted. "I have heard it over and over again that the bill of rights still stands secure and unimpaired. Now, for the first time so far as I know, our attention has been called to a procedure which either violates the 4th amendment of the constitution or comes so dangerously near it that it ought to put the congress upon its guard. Now for the first time we see a threat to the right to the citizen under the bill of rights."

Turns to Political Aspects.

Senator Steiwer was referring to the right of the citizen to be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures. From the discussion of the legal, the senator turned to the

30 HURT IN FREAK STORM AT MIAMI AS WIND HITS CARNIVAL

Miami, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—A freak, 43 mile wind and rain storm that struck Miami tonight injured some 30 persons, flattened a carnival show, damaged many small buildings and blew down electric lines. Careening circus wagons, falling tent poles, and flying canvas caught hundreds employed at the carnival. Many were injured as tents collapsed and wagons overturned.

Calls from the carnival and other affected sections kept all the city's ambulances and police cars busy more than an hour carrying injured persons to hospitals.

Hundreds of snakes were reported by a policeman to have escaped from their smashed pens at the carnival, but none of the reptiles had been seen by persons inspecting the wreckage.

Sherif Toman's Sister Hurt in Fall from Car

Mrs. Anna Wellik, 60 years old, 6440 South Francisco avenue, sister of Sherif John Toman, was seriously injured last night when she fell as she alighted from a 63d street car at Francisco avenue. A motorist took her to the Holy Cross hospital, where physicians said her skull apparently had been fractured.

Charity Racket Nipped Despite Priestly Guise

Three men were locked up at the Warren avenue police station last night on charges of promoting a charity racket by using a name similar to a well known south side church.

One of the men, Carmel H. Garfora, 58 years old, who calls himself an "archbishop," was arrested in his home at 3222 Walnut street, where he lives with his wife and two children. He was found wearing a long red clerical robe. Another prisoner is Charles B. Bauer, 25 years old, a former coal teamster, who said he was ordained as a "priest" by the "archbishop" two years ago when he could find no coal yard job.

Another in Cell.

Also in a cell is Roy Olson, 23 years old, 6544 Milwaukee avenue, a solicitor for the accused racketeers, whose arrest exposed their elaborate method of making money. Olson was trapped Saturday in the office of the George Forth Coal company, 2002 Monroe street, after he had telephoned the office representing himself to be "Mr. O'Connell, an assistant city sealer."

"Mr. O'Connell" asked the coal company to buy some tickets for a benefit buffet and dance to be held May 4 in a church at 1824 Burling street. The tickets cost only 40 cents, he said, and the coal company ought to buy about $5 worth. Suspicious, Mr. Forth called the city sealer's office and was told that it had no employé named O'Connell.

Frank Lanser, chief deputy inspector of weights and measures, who had received many similar complaints from coal companies, laundries, and manufacturers, notified Police Lieut. Thomas O'Hara, who, with two policemen, accompanied Lanser to the Forth company office and waited for "O'Connell."

Wears Clerical Collar.

The policemen arrested "O'Connell," who admitted that his name was Olson, and said he was employed by a "priest" at the Burling street address. There the police found Bauer, wearing a clerical collar and living in rooms behind what appeared to be a church with about 25 pews. Bauer led the police to the "archbishop."

The three men confessed they had been selling tickets for the fake benefit since Feb. 2, using half a dozen solicitors in addition to Olson. Half of the profits, they said, went to a promoter, while two bogus clergymen got 40 per cent and the salesmen 10 per cent. Police learned the name of the promoter and were hunting him last night.

Rent Old Church.

Garfora and Bauer said they rented the church last October. It was formerly used by a congregation which has disbanded.

Police said they learned that the "archbishop" until recently maintained an office at 309 South La Salle street, where he employed two girls in his job of directing the work of solicitors. The office was closed yesterday.

Lanser signed a complaint charging Olson with impersonating a city sealer. The two "clergymen" were held while police seek to determine the extent of their racket.

AMERIGO PUTS SOME WEIGHT INTO DEFENSE

A fat man held up a department store truck driver near Wheaton three months ago. Shortly afterward police arrested Amerigo Bertolini, 38 years old, who gave his address as 111 Noeth Kedzie avenue, Chicago. Witnesses identified him as the robber and he was indicted by the Du Page county grand jury on a charge of robbery with a gun.

Yesterday his case was called before Judge Frank W. Shepherd of Elgin, sitting in the Circuit court at Wheaton. State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney advanced to the bench.

"Your honor," he said, "when this defendant was indicted he weighed 225 pounds. Since he has been out on bail he has lost 75 pounds and he has had all his teeth pulled. Now, none of my witnesses can identify him. I am forced to ask you to dismiss the charge."

The judge complied.

PARIS MOVES UP ARMY; DEMANDS CURB ON HITLER

BULLETIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 10 (Tuesday).—Troops from far south of the Lyons region arrived tonight at Montmedy to back up the Maginot line. They were billeted on the inhabitants. Whether this movement comes under the second stage of the general staf's plans it was impossible to confirm this morning.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 9.—Deeply disappointed by the speech on the German situation by Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, in the house of commons, which was taken here as letting this country down, France tonight turned with new grimness to the task of assuring military security on the frontier.

While the war ministry sent secret orders to all telegraph and cable companies instructing them to submit press messages dealing with troop movements to the censor, "precautionaey measuses" in the eastern provinces were pushed ahead feverishly and increasingly on a big scale.

Resent Eden's Speech.

On the diplomatic front the government attitude was no less vigorous. Capt. Eden's speech was keenly resented, especially the passage saying that if France is attacked Great Britain will come to her rescue. This was taken to imply that the British do not consider Adolf Hitler's violation of the Locarno pact as an aggressive act in itself, which is contrary to the French thesis. Likewise, the French are indignant over the British foreign secretary's apparent willingness to negotiate a new peace treaty with Hitler.

Eden, however, has not dashed French hopes of swinging the league of nations into line against Hitler. He has just got them riled, and plenty of fireworks can be anticipated in the conference of the remaining Locarno powers of France, England, Italy, and Belgium here tomorrow.

The French will insist that England join them in demanding economic sanctions against Germany at Friday's league council meeting. No compromise will be accepted. In the event of a flat British refusal to vote sanctions, France holds in reserve the threat to quit the league and conclude a military alliance with Italy, thus menacing the British communications in the Mediterranean.

Ratify Soviet Pact Thursday.

As a further demonstration of resistance to Hitler, Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin persuaded Henry Berenger, chairman of the foreign affairs committee of the senate, to recommend unanimous ratification of the Franco-soviet pact to the senate on Thursday and the committee voted to do this. It was this pact which Hitler attacked as a violation of the Locarno treaty and which he gave as his reason for sending troops to the Rhine.

Despite all this, the possibility of an eventual compromise has not diminished. The French will certainly stick to their refusal to negotiate a new peace pact with Hitler as long as German troops are in the Rhineland, but it is likely they will let the British do the negotiating for them. Consequently, the debate at Geneva is expected to develop as follows:

France will denounce Germany as a treaty breaker and demand the withdrawal of her forces from the demilitarized zone. The council will adopt the French thesis and dispatch a note to Hitler telling him to withdraw the troops. Hitler will refuse, and the

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 9.—Capt. Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, today pledged Great Britain to the rôle of mediator between France and Germany in the conflict which has arisen over the militarization of the Rhineland. He gave this pledge in a statement of the British attitude before a crowded house of commons.

Capt. Eden sternly warned Germany that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's action shook confidence in Germany's good faith in any further engagement and said the British would assist the French and Belgians if they actually were attacked.

Sees No Threat of War.

But the young foreign secretary, at the next moment, looking toward the galleries which were crowded with notable diplomats, including Norman H. Davis, United States ambassador at large, and the envoys of Spain, Russia, France, and Belgium, declared Britain does not believe German military occupation of the Rhineland implies a threat of hostilities. He quickly added that his government is ready to examine Hitler's proposals for reaching new peace treaties to replace the Locarno treaty which the Nazi dictator denounced Saturday.

This statement of willingness to accept Hitler's "seven points" as a basis for negotiation of a new juridical foundation for the European peace structure was the keynote of Eden's statement of British policy which was drawn up and approved at a cabinet meeting earlier in the day.

Explains Talk with Envoy.

Capt. Eden devoted much time to an explanation of his interview with Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador in London, last Friday, only a day before Hitler's dramatic speech to the reichstag. They discussed the foreign secretary's proposal that the time had arrived to renew negotiations for a western air pact among the Locarno powers.

There was a suggestion from this interview that a settlement with Premier Mussolini had already been made, as the cessation of the Ethiopian war had been made a previous condition to discussion of a western air pact. The renewal of discussion thus implied some arrangement between Italy and Britain.

Recalls Warning to Germany.

Eden advised the house of commons he warned the German ambassador that the Franco-Russian treaty, which has been signed but not ratified by the French senate, did not, in Britain's opinion, constitute a violation of the Locarno treaty and did not justify Hitler's pretext for scrapping the Locarno treaty.

In mentioning Germany's statement of willingness to return to the league of nations unconditionally the impression was also given by Eden that the British government believes much may be said for Hitler's seven point peace plan.

The foreign secretary said he considered that the league council which meets on Friday, was the proper body to examine the present crisis, which, he declared, had "complicated and aggravated the international situation." He stated the British government's task would be to examine Hitler's proposals "clear-sightedly and objectively, with a view to finding out to what extent they may serve as a means of strengthening the shaken peace structure."

Spurns French Demands.

"For," he said, "in the present grave condition of international affairs no opportunity must be missed which offers hope of amelioration."

It clearly means that Britain will not join the French in refusing to negotiate with Hitler "under the menace of the Rhineland guns," as Premier Albert Sarraut of France expressed it yesterday. Neither will Britain yield to the French demands for the application of sanctions against Germany in an effort to oust Hitler's troops from the Rhine and enforce adherence to the Locarno treaty.

As soon as he had spoken Capt. Eden, accompanied by Viscount Halifax, the lord privy seal, left London for Paris to attend the meeting of the remaining Locarno powers there tomorrow. The powers—England, France, Italy, and Belgium—will consider Germany's treaty scrapping and decide what is to be done about it.

While the British emphasized the sternness of the warning which the foreign secretary gave the Germans, it was clear that England's diplomacy is going to accept the present situation as an accomplished fact. This offers a chance of settling the perennial difficulties between Germany and France, and will let the dead past bury itself as quickly as possible.

"We are not merely concerned with the past, but also with the future," Capt. Eden said.

Seeks to Restrain France.

The minister's speech indicated he would seek at tomorrow's Locarno meeting to exert a restraining influence on the angry French demands for energetic action against Germany. He made it clear in one section of his address that the British do not consider the present circumstances in the Rhineland such as to compel them to respond to the French call for assistance, should such a call be sounded. Eden clearly emphasized there must be some actual attack on the French while the present situation is being considered before article II. of the Locarno pact will be considered to have been violated and before British armed forces will be summoned.

[Article II. of the Locarno pact provides that if France, Belgium, or Germany unjustifiedly attacked each other, the remaining signatories would go to the aid of the nation attacked.]

Be Prepared, Baldwin Warns.

Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin addressed the house after Eden concluded his address and asked parliament to approve the government's vast defense program.

"Our preparations," said Baldwin, "are preparations in case need should arise.

"The defense proposals represent the minimum which is felt should be required under present circumstances.

"The whole idea in my mind of collective security is that it should be able to prevent war before it begins. When these troubles are over, Europe will have to consider what collective security involves and make up her mind to be ready to use it.

Points to British Navy.

"It would be wrong to assume today, as it has been found wrong in the past, that our striving for peace is an indication of weakness.

"Neither the government nor the British people will ever be intimidated by threats from whatever quarter they come. Britain is still the greatest naval power of Europe.

"There never can be any permanent peace in Europe as long as the prevailing suspicion continues between France and Germany."

"No one," continued the prime minister, "is threatened by our forces and no one thinks they will be used for aggression.

"The objective of Great Britain's foreign policy can be summed up in one phrase: 'to secure the peace of the peoples of the British empire and of the nations of the world.'

"We must keep calm, keep our heads, and continue to try to bring France and Germany together in friendship with ourselves."

TEXT OF CAPT. EDEN'S PLEA FOR PEACE

LONDON, March 9.—(AP)—The complete text of the speech delivered by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to the British house of commons today follows:

On March 6 I asked the German ambassador to come and see me at the foreign office. I made to him the proposal which his majesty's ambassador to Berlin had made to the German chancellor on Dec. 13 last, that the powers signatory to the treaty of Locarno should proceed with the negotiation of an air pact.

The house will recall that such an air pact was first suggested during the course of the Anglo-French conversations held in London.

On this occasion I reminded his excellency of the hopes which Reichsfuehrer Hitler himself had expressed for the betterment of the international relations of western Europe, and I told him it seemed to me the time now had come when a real effort must be made to translate these efforts into facts to achieve a real improvement in the relations of the United Kingdom, France, and Germany.

A Point of Junction.

I pointed out to the ambassador that the air pact touched what was in some respects a point of junction, and a sensitive point of junction, in the relations of the three great western powers.

His majesty's government considered that the conclusion of such a pact would constitute a stabilizing element in our relations in the west.

I did not feel that it was impossible to negotiate such a pact even while the situation was complicated by the Italo-Ethiopian war, and I asked the ambassador to communicate with his government at once in this sense.

I added that his majesty's government was genuinely anxious to convert into practical results the sentiments so often expressed in speeches.

Outlines Nazi Note.

The German ambassador came to see me on the morning of March 7 and informed me he had a communication of very great importance to make. He then handed me a memorandum of which he read the translation. The English text of this memorandum now is available in the vote office [of the house of commons] and I therefore do not propose to give the house a full account of this memorandum, but I should like to draw attention to certain salient points of it.

The memorandum falls into two parts. In the first part the German government have developed at a considerable length their objections to the Franco-soviet pact and the reasons why, in their view, the intention of the French government to conclude this pact has created an entirely new situation and destroyed the political system of the Locarno treaty.

The German government hold for these reasons that the treaty of Locarno has ceased, in practice, to exist and that Germany consequently regards herself for her part as no longer bound and that this no longer is a valid treaty.

The memorandum then announces that the German government have restored the full and unrestricted sovereignty of Germany in the demilitarized zone of the Rhineland.

Describes Nazi Proposals.

The second part contains a series of proposals which are described as being designed to promote the establishment of a system of peaceful security for Europe. These proposals are:

1. That a demilitarized zone should be created on both sides of the Franco-German and Belgian-German frontiers.

2. That nonaggression pacts for 25 years should be concluded between Germany, France, and Belgium, and that Great Britain and Italy should guarantee these pacts.

3. That the Netherlands might be invited to join this treaty system.

4. That these security arrangements should be supplemented by an air pact.

5. That a nonagression pact should be concluded between Germany and the states bordering Germany on the east similar to the agreement between Germany and Poland, with the exception previously made as regards Lithuania being withdrawn.

Demand for Colonies.

Finally, it is stated, that Germany is willing to re-enter the league now that equality rights and the restoration of her full sovereignty over the entire German territory has been attained.

In this latter connection the German government expressed the expectation that, in the course of a reasonable period the question of colonial equality rights and the separation of the league covenant from the treaty of Versailles may be settled through friendly negotiations.

On receiving this communication from the German ambassador, I told his excellency he should not expect me to make any detailed observation on a document of this importance until I had the opportunity of studying it and consulting with my colleagues on the situation which it created.

At the same time I told his excellency that there was one observation which I must make at once. I deeply regretted the information which the ambassador had given me about the action which the German government was taking in respect to the demilitarized zone. The ambassador would appreciate that this amounted to the unilateral repudiation of a treaty freely negotiated and freely signed.

I had a clear recollection of the statement which the chancellor had made to me on our first meeting in Berlin on the subject of the treaty of Locarno, when he had drawn a clear distinction between that treaty and the treaty of Versailles and emphasized that Germany had freely signed the treaty of Locarno.

Disputes German View.

I was aware, I said to the ambassador, of the view of the German government as to the effect of the Franco-soviet pact on the Locarno treaty. That view, was not, however, shared by the other signatories of the treaty and if the German government, despite the opinions of the other signatories, still maintained their own conclusions, then there was a proper arbitration procedure available for their use.

I feared that the effect of the unilateral repudiation of this treaty upon his majesty's government and upon British public opinion must inevitably be deplorable.

As to the latter part of the ambassador's communication, I said his majesty's government would have carefully to consider this, but that clearly, the declaration in respect to the German attitude toward the league of nations was most important. The ambassador on this point informed me that the German government's decision as regards the league was, to a large extent, due to their desire to meet the views frequently expressed by the prime minister [Baldwin] and myself when we emphasized that the policy of his majesty's government was based upon the league and upon collective security.

Germany, he said, was willing to share such a policy and there were no conditions attached to her return to the league.

Matters for Negotiation.

While the German government expected that, in due time, the covenant would be divorced from the treaty of Versailles and the question of colonial equality rights settled, these were not conditions but matters for negotiation subsequent to Germany's return to the league.

I do not mean to emphasize the importance of the communication from the German government of which I have given the house an account.

Similar memoranda have been communicated to the other signatories of the Locarno treaty, namely France, Italy, and Belgium.

But before passing to observations of a more general nature, it may be well for me to inform the house of the steps which are to be taken in the immediate future.

The French and Belgian governments, with the full knowledge and agreement of his majesty's government, have asked that the council of the league may be summoned as soon as possible to consider the situation. I must emphasize that the council of the league is the proper body for this purpose.

Exchange Views Today.

The council will, it is understood, meet on Friday next, and no decision can, of course, be reached in advance of that meeting, but an exchange of views will take place in Paris tomorrow [Tuesday] between the representatives of the four Locarno powers other than Germany, and these conversations will be resumed at Geneva on the following day. His majesty's government will be represented in these conversations by the lord privy seal [Viscount Halifax] and myself.

I now have given the house an account of the recent events together with some comments upon them. I have also given the house such details as are in my possession of the procedure to be followed in the immediate future.

But the honorable members will, no doubt, expect to receive some immediate indication of the ideas and intentions with which the representatives of his majesty's government must approach at Geneva the problem of development which is, as yet, obscure in some important respects.

It is clearly desirable to do this, for no one can fail to realize the stabilizing force of clear-sighted and united British opinion in the affairs of Europe at this juncture.

Censures German Action.

Let us not delude ourselves. The course taken by the German government in unilaterally repudiating the obligations into which they had freely entered and in simultaneously acting as if they did not exist, both complicates and aggravates the international situation.

The abrogation of the Locarno treaty and the occupation of the demilitarized zone have profoundly shaken confidence in any engagement into which the government of Germany may, in the future, enter. There can be no one in this house or this country who would wish to condone or excuse such a step. It strikes a severe blow at that principle of the sanctity of treaties which underlies the whole structure of international relations.

Sees No Threat of War.

There is, I am thankful to say, no reason to suppose that the present German action implies a threat of hostilities. The German government speak in their memorandum of their 'unchangeable longing for the real pacification of Europe' and express their willingness to conclude a nonaggression pact with France and Belgium.

But, in case there should be any misunderstanding about our position as a signatory of the Locarno treaty, his majesty's government think it necessary to say that should there take place during the period which will be necessary for consideration of the new situation which has arisen any actual attack upon France or Belgium, which would constitute a violation of article 2 of the Locarno pact, his majesty's government, notwithstanding the German repudiation of the treaty, would regard themselves as in honor bound to come, in the manner provided in the treaty, to the assistance of the country attacked.

It must be obvious to all that, in the existing circumstances, a transition from the bad past to a better future will be an arduous and hazardous enterprise.

"Duty to Rebuild Peace."

At the same time we are not merely concerned with the past or present; we are concerned also with the future. One of the main foundations of the peace of western Europe has been cut away and, if peace is to be secured, there is a manifest duty to rebuild it.

It is in that spirit that we must approach the new proposals of the German chancellor. His majesty's government will examine them clear-sightedly and objectively with a view to finding out to what extent they represent the means by which the shaken structure of peace can again be strengthened.

In the present grave condition of international affairs his majesty's government feel no opportunity must be missed which offers any hope of amelioration.

In the anxious circumstances of the present time I feel justified in asking all sections of opinion of this house for their support in exacting the arduous task which now confronts the combined wisdom and statesmanship of the world.

FRANCE GREATER THAN LEAGUE? GERMANY ASKS

Charges Soviet Pact Is to Blame for Crisis.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 9.—The league of nations' invitation to Germany to send an observer to Friday's meeting of the league council in Geneva to discuss the situation created by Germany's dropping the Locarno treaty was deemed insufficient by the German foreign office today. Officials declared Germany would go to Geneva only on a full and formal invitation.

A foreign office spokesman, commenting upon the council session, said: "A fateful question confronts all Europe next Friday. Will France prove stronger than the league or will the league prove more formidable than France?

"Will the league take March 7 as a starting point and say we violated Locarno or will it go back to May 2, 1935, to find that the soviet pact so provoked Germany that her action is understandable?"

"Buried Locarno Pact."

"At the worst, it can be said of us that we performed the burial rites for the Locarno pact. Locarno's death, however, must be ascribed to others. The soviet bacillus did its deadly work and all we could do was to remove the corpse."

Should Germany be formally invited to the meeting Friday she will urge that a whole series of international incidents having to do with Locarno be taken into account, not merely Germany's action of Saturday.

Nazi officials hold that Germany, in sending troops into her own territory, did not "commit an act of flagrant aggression" which alone would entitle the signatories of the Locarno pact or of the league covenant to take action against her.

German military authorities are on the alert. All members of the German air force were ordered to be at their posts without interruption for the next three days.

The air chiefs declared: "Extra preparedness is necessary, though we are convinced a majority of the nations of the world will side with Germany which only reoccupied her own land eighteen years after the end of the world war."

Tone Down League Talk.

The German press was instructed "not to alarm public opinion unduly by stressing the importance of the meeting of the league council in Geneva, which is trying to sit in judgment on Germany."

The most worried nation in Europe today is Czechoslovakia. The Nazi campaign against her, waged mostly over the radio, has rarely upset the Czechs who have been relying on the complete support of their French allies in case of an emergency. Today they learned the French are using all their troops to man their fortresses along the German border. The pessimists assert this does not leave a reserve available to help Czechoslovakia in case of a Nazi uprising or a conflict in Bohemia.

The Czechs also are deeply alarmed by the report, published in the National Zeitung of Essen, the newspaper of Gen. Herrmann Wilhelm Goering, minister of air, calling for cancelation of the internationalization of the Elbe, Oder, and other rivers. This cancelation report was denied by the propaganda ministry.

Hitler Goes to Retreat.

Hitler himself returned to his retreat in the Bavarian mountains while his lieutenants were sallying forth to urge their countrymen to cast their votes for him in the plebiscite which will be held March 29. Jews will not be allowed to participate in this election.

Germans were bitter over the radio speech last night of French Premier Albert Sarraut, which is regarded as a flat rejection of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's peace offers.

Today's reflections tempered Germany's two day celebration of the "liberation in the Rhineland." The reports of correspondents who went to the Rhineland to cover the placement of troops were not too glowing. The Rhenish people are worried about what might happen next.

A more difficult puzzle is Premier Mussolini of Italy. Germans wonder if Il Duce made his offer to listen to Italo-Ethiopian peace propositions just half an hour before Hitler's reichstag speech as a move to get in the good graces of Great Britain and France on the eve of a new European crisis. It points to a return to the "Stresa front" which Germany regarded as an act of encirclement.

FRANCE RUSHES MORE TROOPS TO GERMAN BORDER

Paris Resents 'Leniency' by Britain in Crisis.

French then will demand economic sanctions.

British Plan "Loophole."

The council members will not, as in the Ethiopian affair, go on record individually as denouncing Germany for the treaty violation, but the council as a whole will appoint a committee to enforce the withdrawal of German troops by economic sanctions.

The British will see to it that some loophole is left for conciliation, just as the French saw to it there was always a loophole for conciliation in the Italian case, and the two ring circus of sanctions and peace negotiations will get under way again.

Only, in this case it is not certain that sanctions will ever actually be applied. The final result, in the opinion of some diplomatic circles, will be Britain negotiating for an accord based upon Hitler's offer to France—an offer which the French will finally accept.

Troop Trains Packed.

France's grim determination to protect her eastern frontiers at all costs was plainly evident.

At Chalons-sur-Marne real wartime atmosphere developed. Train load after train load of blue clad troops in full war accouterment pulled out toward the east. Military authorities, in order to speed up transportation, requisitioned trucks and delivery cars from local business men.

Whereas previous "precautionary measures" consisted chiefly of moving troops from barracks behind the Maginot line of fortifications into their positions, there were large scale movements of troops by train from their usual garrisons to advanced bases near the frontier.

These strategic movements, until today, only involved troops normally stationed in the eastern provinces—the sixth, seventh and twentieth military districts. The movements consisted simply in concentrating available forces along the eastern rim of these districts. This morning, however, the sixth Moroccan sharpshooters were rushed from the Rhone valley to Montmedy near the frontier.

Motorized artillery units played a big part in the troop movements. The 40th Artillery regiment left Chalons-sur-Marne, and the 25th Regiment of motorized artillery was waiting to entrain.

10 CHURCHES FIRED, MANY HURT IN RIOTS OF SPANISH LEFTISTS

MADRID, March 9.—(AP)—Several persons were killed and a large number injured in political riots today in which 10 churches and convents were damaged or destroyed. The fatalities brought the toll since the recent general elections to 46 while 27 churches and convents have been sacked or fired during Leftist victory demonstrations.

The most serious disorders today were reported in Cadiz and Seville provinces. Nine churches and religious buildings were damaged or destroyed in Cadiz and an international incident threatened by an attack on the German consulate.

Disorders in Seville centered at the town of Ecija where communists set up a soviet government last month. Several were killed at Baracaldo in a clash between communists and Fascists. At Badajoz extremists wrecked the chapel of a convent and set fire to the building claiming that nuns had thrown bottles from upper stories as demonstrators marched past.

TARDIEU RETIRES AS DEPUTY; RAPS POLITICAL TREND

BELFORT, France, March 9.—(AP)—André Tardieu, former French premier and foreign minister, who has often expressed disgust with the present political trends in the country, announced today his withdrawal from parliament.

Tardieu, who is often spoken of as a Fascist, said in a letter to the voters of his district that he would not stand for reëlection as a deputy.

"The political system of our country is neither tolerable for the nation nor capable of improvement by parliamentary methods," he wrote.

Tardieu declared that being a deputy was a liability instead of an asset and that in order to carry on his own crusade he was withdrawing from parliament—but, he said, "for me this is not the end but the commencement" of action.

FRENCH AVIATORS PURSUE GERMAN PLANE ON RHINE

Nazi Ship Reported Over Border Fortress.

METZ, France, March 9.—(AP)—France poured men and materials into her Rhineland fortifications tonight amid a flurry of excitement over a report that a German plane had flown over the French fortress at Thionville.

Authorities at Metz were notified the plane sped back to Germany when French military planes took to the air in pursuit.

Alsatians, with the fatalism of frontier populations, watched the French reënforce the border with the comment: "It will not be long now."

Eye Opposite Sides of River.

Both sides of the Rhine near the international bridge were thronged with citizens of France's Strasbourg and Germany's Kehl watching the opposite side of the river.

The French saw only Adolf Hitler's green-uniformed frontier guards, while Germans watched soldiers in horizon-blue uniforms fill steel casements on the French side.

Savings bank depositors hurried to banks to withdraw money. More than $300,000 was reported taken out at Strasbourg. Police were called out to keep the lines of depositors orderly. Withdrawals were limited at Mulhouse.

Banking officials were alarmed by the rush on savings banks by nervous Alsatians.

One typical comment was "We know the boches. They are not bluffing. One month, six months, a year—but then war—but this time they will find us ready."

The town of Kehl, on the German side of the Rhineland, was quiet. In cafés there Nazis confined their comment to: "Not yet. Der fuehrer is not ready."

Germans Ready to Fight.

COLOGNE, Germany, March 9.—(AP)—Foreign residents said tonight that Adolf Hitler's Rhine army, despite appearances to the contrary, had marched in well prepared to defend itself if necessary.

Army officers were quoted as saying this was necessary for tactical reasons because the possibility of a French or a Belgian attack as a result of the reoccupation could not be overlooked, however remote it might be.

The actual strength of the army was believed by these sources to be nearer 30,000 than 20,000. Big guns supposed to have been moved in during the night were carefully concealed. Only very light anti-aircraft and artillery guns have been shown to the people.

Heavy artillery was reported brought to Cologne at dawn Sunday and taken to pre-war fortifications on the rim of the city. Two sections of the fort, near the airport northeast of the city, have been fitted out for aviators.

French Guards Search All Travelers from Germany

SAINT-AVOLD, France, March 9.—(AP)—The French government today established a strict inspection service of all travelers attempting to cross the frontier from Germany. Frontier police and mobile guards questioned every person as to the reason of wanting to enter France, searched all travelers thoroughly and subjected their baggage to minute examination.

Swiss Mum on Germany's Act; Stress Neutrality

BERNE, Switzerland, March 9.—(AP)—The Swiss government declined any official comment today on German denunciation of the Locarno pact and subsequent troop movements in the Rhineland. Officials pointed out that Switzerland maintains her customary neutrality.

ETHIOPIA AWAITS ITALY'S DEFINITE MOVES FOR PEACE

Until Then Will Keep Up Defensive War.

ADDIS ABABA, March 9.—(AP)—Ethiopia announced today she will "continue the defensive war until peace negotiations begin on a definite basis" at Geneva.

Many residents fled from the capital today when the government issued a warning saying Italian airplanes were flying in this direction.

A government communique said a British Red Cross ambulance unit at Quoram, in the north, had been bombed for the third time by Fascist flyers.

Resume Offensive.

ASMARA, Eritrea, March 9.—(AP)—Italian troops resumed offensive operations on all Ethiopian fronts today after a one day suspension pending developments on the league of nations' recommendation for peace talks.

Italian troops were moving forward today throughout the northern battle section, clearing the Tembien region where scattered bands of Ethiopians still remained, and penetrating beyond Amba Alaji, which the Fascists reached in their most recent important advance.

An Eritrean native column was two days' march beyond the Takkaze river in the mountainous region of Tzellemti. Fascist airplanes were said to be flying deep into Ethiopian territory and it was understood operations similar to those of last month.

Sign Italo-German Treaty.

ROME, March 9.—(AP)—Italy and Germany signed a treaty today giving mutual recognition to civil and juridical codes of their countries. The agreement was initialed by Premier Mussolini and Ulrich von Hassell, the German ambassador.

Despite reports that Berlin and Rome are seeking a rapprochement in the current European crisis, officials said the meeting was limited to this point.

French, Belgian, and Jugo-Slavian ambassadors called on Fulvio Suvich, undersecretary for foreign affairs, and Vittorio Cerrutti, Italian ambassador to France, made preparations to discuss the Rhine question with Locarno signatories at Paris tomorrow.

The Italian reply to British and Ethiopian protests against the bombing of a Red Cross unit at Quoram was transmitted to the international Red Cross headquarters at Geneva today. The reply declared the plane which bombed the trucks and column of soldiers had been fired on twice before it dropped the bombs.

AUSTRIA WARNS PRESS TO OMIT UNFRIENDLY OPINIONS OF GERMANY

VIENNA, March 9.—(AP)—The strictly regulated Austrian press today received orders from the government chancellery not to express an opinion unfriendly to Germany. The order came on the heels of the return of Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, vice chancellor, from Italy, where he visited Premier Mussolini.

Starhemberg's own newspaper, the Oesterreichische Zeitung, said:

"Clemenceau's unforgivable mistake in decreeing that one part of the world should march under full armament while another should remain defenseless is the fundamental reason for the German decision to renounce the Locarno treaty."

Foreign diplomats expressed the belief that an understanding between Germany and Italy may have been reached and, consequently, Austria must assume a more friendly attitude toward the reich.

BRITAIN TESTS METHOD TO WARN OF GAS ATTACKS

LONDON, March 9.—(AP)—Tests are to be conducted tomorrow in Hendon, London suburb, to discover the best means of warning the public in each community in the event of a gas attack from the air. Sirens will be sounded from a police station while observers, equipped with sound recording instruments, will record the power and penetration of the various siren notes.

The tests will be one of the initial steps in the new program of civilian preparedness for air raids with which Britain's rearmament program is to be supplemented. Instruction in rescue of injured persons, clearance of debris, personal protection against gas, decontamination of materials after a raid is to be provided through national and local organizations.

Plans have been announced by the home office for the establishment of a "civilian anti-gas school" in Gloucestershire, at a cost of $75,000, to give special training to instructors who will then direct community organization.

GERMAN SPY GETS 4 YEARS IN PRISON IN BRITISH TRIAL

Convicted by Sketches of Airdromes.

London, March 9.—(AP)—A sentence of four years imprisonment was imposed today upon Dr. Hermann Gortz, middle-aged German lawyer, after he was convicted of espionage by a jury which included two women.

Sketching secret airdromes in these days when Europe is filled with "spy scares" was termed an "offense which must be dealt with seriously by any country" by the judge in passing sentence.

Gortz received the sentence with a stiff bow from the dock in Old Bailey. He snapped out "No," when asked if he had anything to say.

Fair Accomplice Escapes.

While Gortz was being sentenced, Fraulein Marianne Emig, attractive young woman who allegedly aided him in ferretting out secrets of the British air force, was reported to be in Munich. She fled the country when Gortz was arrested.

The charge against her will remain "open" because of her absence. Gortz was technically charged with violating the official secrets act.

The jury quickly returned a verdict of guilty after examining one of Gortz's diaries describing a motorcycle trip he made to a British airfield. He had contended he was using the air information to write a novel.

Prohibited by Law.

"There is no doubt," said the presiding judge, "that the sketch is a sketch of a prohibited place and the type aimed at by the legislature" when adopting the official secrets act.

During his testimony Gortz said he was in the German intelligence service during the world war and questioned "brought-down" allied flyers. He asserted he gained much valuable information about the United States air force from questioning allied flyers.

Following the world war Gortz practiced law for a year and a half in the United States but was forced to leave when he refused to become an American citizen.

LEAGUE INVITES GERMANY TO JOIN COUNCIL SESSION

Voting of Sanctions Is Believed Unlikely.

GENEVA, March 9.—(AP)—The league of nations formally invited Germany tonight to participate in a meeting of the council Friday to examine the Franco-Belgian appeal against Berlin's violation of the Locarno treaty.

The speech of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden to the British house of commons created the impression here that league sanctions against Germany are unlikely.

Some circles said Premier Mussolini would demand cancelation of the sanctions now in force against Italy as a condition to pursuing African peace negotiations. Italy Saturday accepted the league's appeal for such negotiations.

Text of Bid to Germany.

The league communicated the text of the French appeal to Germany and concluded:

"The president of the council proposes that the council should meet in Geneva Friday, March 13, at 11 a. m.

"Should the German government, as a contracting party to the treaty mentioned above, wish to partake in the examination of this question by the council, I should be greatful if you would inform me."

The message was signed by Dr. Joseph A. M. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the league, a Frenchman.

The immediate reaction here to Eden's speech was that it indicates Britain would be cold toward any suggestion of sanctions against Germany.

Split on Sanctions Problem.

Opinion as to whether the league council can decree sanctions against Germany, as it has against Italy, was divided in Geneva.

Some officials hold that France has not appealed under any article of the covenant imposing sanctions and that the appeal merely concerns signatories of the Locarno treaty.

They say the council is merely empowered to decide whether Germany is guilty of a treaty denunciation and that then the other Locarno signatories must immediately come to the assistance of the power or powers against whom Germany's act is directed.

Argument of Sanctionists.

Other officials think the council could recommend general league sanction. This could be done, they said, by:

1. Declaring Germany's denunciation a threat to international peace.

2. By acting under the council's resolution of 1935, which condemned Germany's violation of the treaty of Versailles after France called Germany's act a "threat to international order."

The council at that time appointed a committee which drafted economic and financial measures to be employed against nations "which endanger peace by repudiating international obligations." An economic boycott and a financial embargo were suggested by the committee, but these measures were never applied.

When the league imposed sanctions against Italy it was guided largely by the conclusions of this committee.

GERMANY'S ACT SEEN BY LEWIS AS RESULT OF WAR DEBT DEFAULT

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—Blame for the German reoccupation of the Rhine area was placed today by Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.] upon "the scorning by England and France of the just demands of the United States for payment of the debts due."

Speaking in the senate, the member of the foreign relations committee declared:

"The sudden pouncing by Leader Hitler on the Rhine border in opposition to the treaty of Versailles would not have taken place had Germany not seen that the American people were no longer concerned in the enforcement of the treaty.

"Had the United States been treated justly by the nations known as allies; had these countries kept the good will of our nation, Germany would not have taken any move adverse to England or France on of the Versailles treaty. Germany would not have by such action risked the opposition of her friend the United States—nor taken any action without the consideration of the interest of America."

POLAND CENSORS PRESS VIEWS ON GERMAN CRISIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, March 9.—Poland tightened her press censorship today and a number of newspapers appeared with several blank columns, revealing the blue pencil was again at work. Judging from the many sarcastic comments on Poland's noncommittal attitude toward Germany's violation of the Locarno treaty which are permitted to appear, the tone of the censored articles is believed to have been violent.

Warsaw's largest newspaper, the conservative Kurjer Warszawski, denounced the British foreign office as being unusually naive and stupid as regards Germany, declaring that, after the recriminations are finished, three things will remain. They are:

FIRST—How much are Germany's foreign commitments worth?

SECOND—What will the league be worth if Geneva is deprived of the right to control international treaties as Hitler proposes?

THIRD—What is Germany's promise of coöperation worth?

Col. Josef Beck, foreign minister, will leave Warsaw Wednesday for Geneva. He will meet Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French foreign minister, before the league of nations council

CALLS CONGRESS STREET WIDENING AID TO MASSACRE

Highway Engineers' Plan Attacked by Massen.

BY HAL FOUST.

The opening and widening of Congress street as suggested by the Illinois highway department was described yesterday by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the city council trafic and safety committee, as a proposal to increase Chicago's motor massacre for the sake of increasing realty values in a limited area. The alderman spoke before a biweekly luncheon of the West Side Real Estate board in the Washington-Pine hotel.

"There is every reason to believe," said the alderman, "that the accident experience on Congress street widened at grade would be the same as that on other broadened thoroughfares in Chicago. The widened sections of Western and Ashland avenues and La Salle street account for an eighth of all of the automobile fatalities in Chicago.

Tells Engineers' Plans.

"The state engineers, in their suggestion for the Congress street development, sought to reduce the hazards inherent in surface pavements by stub ending 36 north and south streets between Canal street and Central avenue. This would eliminate vehicular cross trafic on 36 pavements that now carry 84,874 trucks and passenger cars across Congress street daily.

"These 84,874 vehicles could be detoured to grade separations located every half mile or so. But you can't detour pedestrians and there are 54,481 persons a day who now cross Congress street on these streets that the state engineers would close. Pedestrian tunnels might be built, but we know from experience at such places as Michigan avenue and Randolph street that the public will not walk up and down stairs or on ramps to cross a street unless they are herded by policemen.

City's Needs Cited.

"Some folks say that the opening and widening of Congress street will do wonders for the real estate along the route. I can question the propriety of spending between $22,000,000 and $30,000,000 of gasoline tax revenue for realty development when the west side, as well as the city as a whole, sorely needs elevated highways to reduce the slaughter on our streets.

"An elevated structure properly designed, such as the pedestrian ramp between the Chicago Daily News building and the North Western station, need not detract from the appearance of a neighborhood nor of adjacent private property, and it can handle trafic expeditiously and safely.

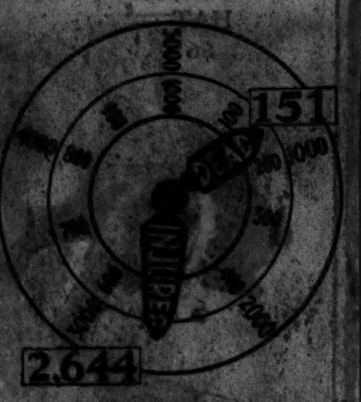
Cheapest of Facilities.

"Elevated highways cost money, but they are the cheapest of urban trafic facilities. For $100,000,000—$27,000,000 less than is being spent for two bridges in San Francisco—160 miles of elevated highway could be built. This might be compared with the $135,000,000 spent by the board of local improvements from 1916 to 1931 in widening 100 miles of surface streets.

"This elevated highway system of 160 miles would carry 62 per cent of all Chicago trafic free from pedestrians, cross trafic, and parking, and from accidents of a type that cause most of our motor toll. In the last three years 2,672 persons have been killed and 53,440 persons injured on Chicago's streets. Approximately 62 per cent of this toll would have been everted had we an elevated highway system."

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1936 Trafic Toll



Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Cook County Experiences Day Without Auto Death

No trafic deaths were reported to the coroner's office yesterday and at 4 p. m. the number of persons killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1 was 180. In the same period this year 151 were killed and 2,644 were injured within the Chicago city limits.

C. M. T. C. QUOTA OF COOK COUNTY PLACED AT 564

Applications for enrollment in Citizens' Military Training camps in Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin may be obtained from the Military Training Camps association offices in room 705 at 6 North Michigan avenue and room 905 in the new post office building, it was announced yesterday. The camps will open July 2 and continue until July 31. The camps are open to young men between 17 and 24 years of age, with all expenses paid by the government. Cook county's enrollment quota has been placed at 564.

ROAD OR RAIL BUS TEST IMPRESSES TRANSIT EXPERTS

Transfers in Minute; Rides Rubber on Tracks.

A motor bus of a new type which can be operated either on railroad tracks or on highways was demonstrated yesterday on the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin lines to officials of several railways. The bus, with a full load of twenty-seven passengers, made a 46 mile run, partly on rails and partly on pavement.

The vehicle is equipped with two sets of wheels, one set rubber tired and the other made of steel and flanged. When the bus is operated on ordinary streets the flanged wheels are lifted above road level. When the vehicle takes to railroad tracks the flanged wheels are lowered, but even then it rests principally on its pneumatic tires, through which are exerted the traction and braking power.

Consider New Possibilities.

Chicago, Aurora and Elgin officials declared they were impressed by the showing and expressed the opinion that such buses might prove a valuable supplement to present equipment, especially on spur lines.

Representatives of the elevated lines, the Illinois Central railroad, and the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee road also witnessed the demonstration.

Starting at Wheaton, the bus proceeded on tracks to Geneva, thence on the public highway through St. Charles to Aurora. There it got back on the tracks and returned by rail to Wheaton.

The new bus, called the "Evans auto-railer," was designed by Evans Products company of Detroit. The company produces the special wheel equipment which can be used on trucks equally well.

Costs Declared Low.

The manufacturers assert that auto-railer operating costs are lower than those of ordinary railroad equipment and that such wheels meet the pick-up and delivery problem on short hauls. The change from rails to highway, which can be made at a crossing, takes less than one minute. In yesterday's demonstration the bus operated at about 40 miles an hour but it can attain higher speed.

APE ENDS SEVEN YEAR FRIENDSHIP BY BITING CARETAKER AT ZOO

For the seven years he has been employed as caretaker in the monkey cages at the Lincoln Park zoo Edgar Robinson, 1715 Berwyn avenue, has been on friendly terms with Sonny, a male orang-utan about 11 years of age. During Sonny's younger days Robinson was able to enter the animal's cage in complete safety.

EDGAR ROBINSON. [TRIBUNE Photo]

Last Friday, however, as Robinson swept between the cages the animal reached through the bars of its cage and grabbed the broom. Robinson attempted to wrest the broom from the angered Sonny, who grabbed the caretaker, dragged him close to the cage, and inflicted a deep bite on the caretaker's forearm.

Robinson was taken to the North Chicago Community hospital, 2551 North Clark street. He received treatment for his wound and was placed under observation.

READY TO OPEN CORNER STONE OF THEATER TODAY

Wreckers of the old Illinois theater on Jackson boulevard expect early today to reach the corner stone in which a box containing papers, photographs and other momentoes was placed on May 22, 1900, when the corner stone was laid. The box will be opened at 11 o'clock this morning in the Union League club, according to Harry J. Powers, old time manager of the theater.

Present at the opening of the box is expected to be Will J. Davis Jr., whose father died in 1919 after a 40 year career as a Chicago theater man. When the Columbia theater was burned, it was Davis who leased the site and built the Illinois theater, with the backing of the Klaw & Erlanger syndicate. The Illinois opened on Oct. 15, 1900, with Julia Marlowe in "Barbara Frietchie."

"My father told me that if this building ever was torn down I should be there, as he had left something for me in the corner stone," said Davis. "I'm going to be there."

WPA'S ARTISTS PLAN BEAUTIFICATION OF SPECIALISTS' OUTPUT

The Works Progress administration project to build 40,000 "air conditioned outhouses" in rural Illinois may become the basis of a new school of art. Mrs. Increase Robinson, assistant national director of federal art projects, said yesterday she was considering a proposal to beautify the tiny edifices. She has received a suggestion that federally paid artists devote some of their efforts toward relieving the monotonous simplicity of the little houses now being erected in unsewered areas.

The federal outhouse building program in Illinois was criticized as wasteful by William R. Brookman, secretary of the Illinois Master Plumbers' association.

"Money is being thrown away in a step backwards," Mr. Brookman said. "It is inconsistent for the government to push farm electrification—making running water feasible—while installing such out of date devices."

GOSPEL LEAGUE FACES OUSTER DUE TO TAXES

The Gospel league, a Christian welfare agency occupying three old residences belonging to the Ingalls estate at Adams and Laflin streets, may be compelled to close today. The agency, conducted for many years by the Rev. and Mrs. Benjamin Mickle Brown, has aided thousands of needy families in the blighted area.

The old residences have been ordered razed at once to save taxes and Mr. Brown was packing up the furnishings preparing to move out last night. Mr. Brown, however, has been given the privilege of purchasing the entire property, including the buildings which are very useful in his work but of no value as commercial property, for the appraised value of the unimproved property. This price is $15,000 and the mission needs $7,000 to acquire title. Mr. Brown said he had some of the money raised and he hopes to get enough to save the property today.

Each Puff Less Acid

A LIGHT SMOKE

OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes. They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

LIMITED FUNDS KEEP WINTER'S DIRT ON STREETS

Garbage Requires Removal First, Says Hewitt.

For lack of adequate street and maintenance appropriations, Chicagoans must endure for at least two more weeks the accumulation of dirt and litter left behind by the spring thaw, according to Oscar Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

The full force of 1,700 men in the bureau of streets and alleys is at work on garbage removal, Mr. Hewitt said yesterday. As soon as the unusual heavy load of garbage, which piled up during the zero weather and snow is carted away, he observed, the regular force of street cleaners will be back at their usual jobs.

"How long this will take, I am not prepared to say," Mr. Hewitt conceded. "This was an unusually severe winter. During the zero weather it was impossible for the garbage trucks to make regular rounds. Then when the snow came all the street department force was put to work shoveling snow."

WPA Men Back on Old Projects.

Laborers of the federal Works Progress administration, who were available for snow shoveling, now have been put back to work on projects which were held up during the winter weather, and are not available for street cleaning, said the commissioner.

"Moreover," he commented, "when the city budget was drastically reduced in 1932 there was a big slash in the appropriation for maintenance. As a result all of the city rolling stock is in bad shape, and will probably have to be replaced or at least repaired in a year or two.

"There are twenty-eight water trucks for flushing the streets. Only one is in condition. The others are in storage, and unfit for use now. We have no money to repair them, or to hire other flush trucks. There should be an appropriation of $1,000,000 for the express purpose of flushing and cleaning all the streets and alleys, particularly after a thaw."

Rejects Fire Plug Idea.

Mr. Hewitt ruled out a proposal to flush the streets by opening fire hydrants as not practical. This would wash all of the dirt and refuse into the sewers much too rapidly, he asserted, and would result in clogging the sewers. One or two good rains would perform this service much better, said the commissioner, flushing the dirt off at a slower rate.

Mayor Kelly agreed with Commissioner Hewitt's presentation of the problem. The mayor said that street cleaners would attack the dirt and parkway litter as soon as they finish the more important job of removing the garbage, which in warm weather would become a health menace.

City Employe Ends Life in Cell on Second Attempt

Richard McCue, 40 years old, 4545 North Drake avenue, an employe in the city water pipe extension department, strangled himself to death in a cell at the Bridewell. On March 3 McCue swallowed poison at his home and was revived by a physician and committed to the Bridewell for disorderly conduct. He had been despondent over ill health.

WOMAN DEFIES GANG THREATS; WILL TESTIFY

Mrs. Mary Staniec, 850 North California avenue, told the West North avenue police last night that she had received threats of injury if she appeared in the Criminal court this morning as a prosecuting witness against Alex Lazik, alias Thomas Lee, a paroled convict. She asserted, however, that she would testify.

On Dec. 2 three men held up Mrs. Staniec in the tavern that she formerly operated in the building in which she lives. They took $520, which she had saved to buy a liquor license. On Jan. 7 the same three men held her up again and took $150. As a result she could not buy a license and had to sell the tavern. Lazik was arrested several weeks ago and was identified by Mrs. Staniec as one of the robbers. He will be arraigned before Judge John J. Lupe today on a charge of robbery with a gun.

"I've been threatened several times and warned not to appear against Lazik," Mrs. Staniec said. "Two men followed me to the street car a week ago. Several days ago I received a threatening letter. But I'll be in court." Lazik was sentenced to 14 years in Joliet penitentiary on an armed robbery charge in 1922. He was paroled in 1932.

VOLIVA, 66 TODAY, TO TOIL 12 HOURS AND SHUN FEAST

Still confident the earth is flat, and that he will live to be 102 years old on his diet of brazil nuts and buttermilk, Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overseer of the Christian Catholic church of Zion, will observe his 66th birthday today.

Voliva said last night he plans to put in his usual twelve hour day of work today instead of entertaining a large family party.

This year he is making arrangements for the second annual production of the Passion play which will be produced two days a week from April 9 to May 24 at Shiloh tabernacle. Last year the play drew an attendance of 65,000.

Brazil nuts and buttermilk are not the only reason for his good health, said Voliva. He gives credit to "hard work and total abstinence from liquor, tobacco, drugs, coffee, tea, pork, and oysters."

TRAIN KILLS MAYWOOD RESIDENT.

Joseph Bitten, 53 years old, 1217 Greenwood avenue, Maywood, was killed yesterday when he was struck by a Great Western freight train on the railroad right of way at 1st avenue in Proviso township.

Arrive in Shanghai

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, March 10.—[Tuesday.]—Charlie Chaplin declined to confirm or deny rumors of his engagement to Paulette Goddard, the leading lady of his latest play, "Modern Times," upon his arrival here last night aboard the President Coolidge. Neither would Miss Goddard, a member of Chaplin's party of five, comment on the stories.

Chaplin replied to questions about the engagement with: "Ask the lady," and his secretary interrupted: "Don't ask personal questions, please, Stick to pictures."

[Another report from Shanghai declared Miss Goddard announced the engagement, but declared no wedding date had been set.]

Chaplin and Miss Goddard were entertained at the International Arts theater. Mei Lan-fang and Butterfly Wu, famous Chinese actors, were present.

3 Passengers Killed in Hold Up of Mexican Train

GUADALAJARA, Mexico, March 9.—(AP)—Three passengers were killed and several others wounded when rebels attacked a train near Atotonilco, Jalisco, early today. The rebels blocked the track forcing the train to halt, attempted to strip the passengers of their valuables and opened fire when resistance was offered.

TELLS COURT HE INTENDS TO QUIT PAYING ALIMONY

Asserting that he lived with his wife for only nine months after their marriage in 1923 and that he has since paid her a total of $29,925 on separate maintenance alimony, Ferdinand F. Nellesen, 49 years old, a vice president of the National Engraving company, told Judge Joseph Sabath in Superior court yesterday that he intended to quit making payments.

Nellesen was brought into court on the charge of his wife, Lois, 41 years old, that he is $800 in arrears. Judge Sabath refused to order continuance of the payments until the Supreme court decides the constitutionality of a state law passed last year making separate maintenance for two years a ground for absolute divorce.

St. Charles Couple Marks 68th Wedding Anniversary

Mrs. and Mrs. Charles H. Norton will celebrate their 68th wedding anniversary at a party today in their home, 212 West Main street, St. Charles. They were married in Hornell, N. Y., where Mr. Norton was a railroad conductor. Later he conducted a store there for many years, retiring about 20 years ago when the family moved to Chicago. For the last six years they have lived in St. Charles. Mr. Norton is 94 years old and his wife is 89. Their two daughters and a grandson will attend the anniversary party.

CITY'S DUST FALL REDUCED 29 PCT., SURVEY SHOWS

67 Tons Per Square Mile Is 1935 Total.

Continued reduction of Chicago's annual dust fall was indicated yesterday when Frank A. Chambers, deputy inspector in charge of the smoke abatement department, reported that an average of 67 tons of dust per square mile fell last year as compared with 95 tons in 1934 and 390 tons in 1930. The decrease last year was 29 per cent.

The report is based on a survey conducted last year in which receptacles were placed at 23 places in the city. At the end of every month the dust collected in each receptacle is weighed and analyzed.

Tells Public's Education.

Chambers pointed out that the reduction in dust fall is directly connected with smoke abatement campaigns conducted by the city during the last five years. "The public is gradually learning that heating plants can be fired with a minimum of smoke because heavy smoke means that fuel is wasted in most cases," he said.

Department records show that during the subzero weather this winter, a minimum of smoke complaints were received. "When the weather goes below zero heating plants are operated at a maximum and a minimum of smoke results," he pointed out.

Warns Against Soot.

He added that during the extremely cold weather most heating plants have a tendancy to collect soot in flues and that the flues should be cleaned at the earliest possible moment. "If they aren't cleaned Chicago can expect one of its smokiest springs this year," Chambers declared.

The cleanest spot in the city last year was in the 30th ward where a receptacle at 5055 West Fulton street registered an average monthly dust fall of 43.8 tons per square mile.

This Horse Sale Provides a Cell for the Seller

Near the Maxwell street police station yesterday Policeman Maurice O'Keefe came upon Charles Huber, 43 years old, 2009 South Jefferson street, and David Yudiksky, 1617 South Lawndale avenue, discussing the merits of a horse. Huber offered the animal for $25. Yudiksky wanted it for $15. Policeman O'Keefe adjourned the matter to the station. There Huber admitted he found the horse in a neighborhood lot. The animal was claimed by Louis Weisler, 100 South Sangamon street. Police held Huber for investigation.

STEAMER LEAVES A WAKE OF MILK ACROSS ATLANTIC

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The American Farmer of the American Merchant Line, which arrived today from London, left a wake of sour milk all the way across the Atlantic from the mouth of the Thames to the foot of West Sixteenth street, North River. In her cargo were 117 Guernsey cows from the channel island of that name and the cows had to be milked twice a day.

The ship carried sixty members of the crew and eight passengers. About 500 gallons of milk were produced by the cows daily.

Pitchers of cream were served with every meal, iced milk was dished out by the glass at all hours, milk was used for cooking purposes whenever possible and fresh butter and cheese were served, but still there were great quantities of milk left over every morning and it was dumped into the sea.

PRINCIPAL PUT ON PROBATION FOR ONE YEAR

Reluctantly Pleads Guilty to $199 Shortage.

Charles S. Winslow, who was discharged as principal of the Lake View Evening High school following his conviction on a charge of embezzling $9,954 of school tuition funds, was placed on a year's probation by Judge John C. Lewe in the Criminal court yesterday.

The court acted after granting Winslow a new trial from his conviction last Feb. 20 by a jury and after the former principal entered a "reluctant" plea of guilty to embezzling $199 on the school funds.

During his trial Winslow repaid the shortage and the jury which convicted him recommended leniency. Under the state probation law, however, the jury's recommendation could not be followed as probation is forbidden in convictions for embezzling $200 or more.

Agree on New Trial.

Judge Lewe and Assistant State's Attorney Leslie E. Salter agreed, however, that Winslow would be granted a new trial and be placed on probation if the former principal would enter a plea of guilty to taking the lesser sum of $199 in conformance with the probation laws. Otherwise, the court indicated, Winslow would be sentenced to one to ten years in prison, as required by the law.

Before accepting the offer Winslow, who had refused it at a previous hearing, conferred alone with Judge Lewe in chambers. It was indicated that Winslow believed he should be "vindicated" because he had repaid the shortage and that he hoped further to regain his school position if the conviction were set aside.

Court Cites Law.

"I've got to hew to the line and follow the law," Judge Lewe declared yesterday after Winslow's attorney, Daniel A. Covelli, had argued further for a new trial, "I will have to overrule this motion because there are no legal grounds for a reversal. I can't overlook the fact that the evidence shows this man to be guilty.

"He holds the key to his liberty in his own pocket. If he wants to use it, he can. I'll give him one more opportunity to plead guilty and be placed on probation."

At this point a short recess was taken while Covelli conferred with his client, after which the attorney informed the court, "Mr. Winslow reluctantly agrees to plead guilty."

Plea Is Accepted.

Judge Lewe accepted the plea and placed Winslow on probation.

"I don't know what I am going to do," Winslow said as he left court, "my work was all I had. I don't know what there will be for me to do now."

During his trial Winslow took the witness stand and admitted taking the money but said he had regarded his shortage as a "loan." He testified he had used the funds to make payments on a mortgage on his home and to care for his ailing wife.

Despite his ouster, Winslow is eligible to receive $100 monthly from the teachers' pension fund.

NELS AND HIS SAVINGS ARE PUT IN A SAFE PLACE

Nels Johnson, 77 years old, a carpenter, was placed in the custody of the Des Plaines street police and fined $200 for disorderly conduct by Judge Justin F. McCarthy of the Municipal court yesterday. A motion to vacate the fine will be heard on Saturday. Johnson was arrested Sunday night at the Working Men's Palace hotel, 623 West Madison street, when the night clerk complained that he was kicking on the door of his 25 cent room. Johnson explained he thought robbers were outside. In his clothing were his savings of $3,039 and a rereceipt showing the purchase of $5,000 worth of stock in a utility company.

SENATE ORDERS FACTS ON BLACK WIRE SEIZURES

Demands Report from FCC.

political aspects of the Black inquisition, saying:

"It has been charged that the committee has sought information concerning only the affairs of those who, like the Liberty league, have criticized the incumbent administration. I do not make that charge, but I do say to the senate that there is no occasion for a procedure which even permits it to be made.

"It has been charged that the committee had made inquiry into the affairs of Mr. Bainbridge Colby, and the assertion was made that he was not a lobbyist; that his offense was being identified with the Liberty league. We do not want to be humiliated by having some one assert that we looked into the affairs of Bainbridge Colby because he is an enemy of the administration, and that we did not look into the affairs of others who actually were lobbyists because they were friends of the administration.

Farley's Wires Not Seized.

"Yesterday I received a call in which I was told that the committee knew that Mr. Farley had lobbied on the holding company bill, but had refrained from asking the telegraph companies to furnish Mr. Farley's telegrams."

Black again denied apparently well authenticated reports that the communications commission has turned over millions of telegrams to his committee. His speech was another intemperate assault upon "privilege and power" and "the interests for whom the senator from Oregon speaks."

Senator Sherman Minton [Dem., Ind.], another member of the lobby committee, interrupted to suggest that there is a difference between a citizen's constitutional rights in a court and his constitutional rights in a senate inquiry. Senator Steiwer did not reply to this. He said later that the proposition merited no reply.

Flames Cause $40,000 Loss in Cooperage Plant

Fire starting shortly after midnight destroyed several buildings of the T. Johnson company cooperage plant, 1046 West 38th street, with damages estimated by firemen at $40,000. The flames, which apparently started in the shipping room, spread to the engine room and hoop room before they were brought under control at 2 a. m. A stack of 10,000 barrel tops burned, but 500,000 other tops stored in an adjoining building were saved. The brick walls of the hoop room and shipping room collapsed, but no fireman was injured.

CHARGES NEWSPAPERS ARE INTIMIDATED BY LARGE ADVERTISERS

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—Intimidation of newspapers by large advertisers opposing the Robinson-Patman legislation to restrict chain store quantity buying discounts and other practices was charged in the house today by Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.]

He said the institute of distribution, "representing large banker-controled chains," had sent out a statement to some newspapers "insinuating they were going to spend $9,500,000 in advertising and if the papers wanted any of it they had better oppose the Robinson-Patman bill."

"Already the newspapers are somewhat intimidated," Patman declared. "And I don't think it right for them to be further intimidated by stating the amount in millions and millions of dollars that is going to be spent in advertising and intimating they won't get any of it unless they oppose the bill."

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson took under advisement yesterday a petition of S. MAD CARETAKER BLAMED IN FATAL COTTAGE BLAST

Two Injured by Explosion; Suspect Kills Self.

Wabeno, Wis., March 9.—[Special.]—County authorities today said that an explosion which killed Warner Smoot, 59, a South Milwaukee photographer, in his summer home yesterday was caused by dynamite planted by an apparently insane caretaker, who shot himself to death after the blast.

Two guests of Smoot, Charles George, 23, of Milwaukee and Alice Harris, 14, of Carter, Wis., were severely burned and cut by the explosion. Physicians at the hospital at Laona said the girl may lose the sight of both eyes.

Friends of Smoot said he had had trouble with his caretaker, George Stankovich, 60. As Mr. and Mrs. Smoot and their guests approached their cottage yesterday morning Stankovich shot at them from his nearby shack.

Bullets Peril Party.

The Smoots and George Saturday had driven to Carter. Yesterday they hired a farmer, Arthur Harris, to take them in a bobsled to the cottage, set in a dense woods five miles south of here. Harris' son and two daughters were invited to go along.

As the party stepped on the cottage porch bullets began to fly about them. Several struck the building, but no one was hit.

The girls fled to the basement while the others conferred as to what should be done about their predicament. A fire was suggested to warm the cold cottage, and one of the party touched a match to fuel that was ready for lighting in the fireplace.

A blue flame shot up and a moment later an explosion shook the building and wrecked the fireplace. Smoot, who was standing near by, was fatally hurt. Alice Harris was partly buried by the debris that fell into the basement.

Find Caretaker's Body.

As fire started in the building and the flames spread members of the party rushed outside. Smoot was carried out and laid on a mattress. The others, including the injured girl and George, fled on foot through the woods toward Carter. They were afraid to venture near the team, which stood by Stankovich's shack.

With no one left to fight the fire, it destroyed the Smoot cottage, a garage, and the caretaker's adjacent shack. Stankovich's body was found in the ruins.

GIRL, 12, IS SLUGGED, CHLOROFORMED AND ROBBED OF HER $10

Beatrice Zlatowski, 12 years old, 1745 Julian street, left her home yesterday morning to purchase a money order at the Wicker Park postoffice. In front of 1237 North Paulina street, a man seized the girl and dragged her into an areaway. When Beatrice screamed he knocked her down, stuffed a chloroformed handkerchief into her mouth, and robbed her of $10.

Beatrice regained consciousness and neighbors who found her wandering in a daze took her home. To Sergt. Edward Kennedy and Policeman Joseph Ponocki of the Racine avenue station Beatrice gave a clear description of her assailant, a hunchback.

The two policemen were at Ashland avenue and Keenon street last night when they saw a stoop shouldered man approaching. He was arrested and identified as Stanley [Humpy] Mastecki, 40 years old, 1621 Brigham street. Beatrice said he was the man who maltreated her. Mrs. Zlatowski signed a robbery complaint.

HEIRS OF ALEXIS MDIVANI SUED BY BARONESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 9.—The heirs of Prince Alexis Mdivani, one time husband of the former Barbara Hutton, American dime store heiress, now wife of Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, are being sued for damages by Baroness Maud von Thyssen, famous beauty who nearly died of injuries suffered in the motor crash in Spain which killed Prince Alexis.

The baroness demands a million marks [$400,000] for jewelry which disappeared after the accident, damages for her injuries, and a refund for all her doctor bills. Just after the accident the baroness' multimillionaire husband filed suit for divorce, naming Alexis as co-respondent. The baroness complains that her husband, the German born Baron Heinrich August von Thyssen Bornemisza, grants her only $800 monthly, payable in Germany.

In Hungary, the adopted homeland of the baron, the divorce costs were assessed against the baroness. Though Von Thyssen is the third richest man in Hungary, the baroness fears he will succeed in evading payment of alimony. His first wife and the mother of his four children, who enabled him to acquire Hungarian citizenship, was granted alimony of only $1,000 monthly when he divorced her in order to marry Maud.

JAPAN'S TROOPS SEIZE CAPITAL OF INNER MONGOLIA

Extend Sphere in China 200 Miles Farther.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, March 10 [Tuesday].—[Special.]—A report from Peiping this afternoon stated that a mixed force of Japanese and Manchukuoans occupied Pailingmiao, capital of Inner Mongolia, northwest of Kweihwa, capital of Suiyan province.

The force was reported to have been led by the renegade Chinese general, Lishouhsin, who occupied Chahar before Christmas. It was stated that the Japanese began preparing an air field at once. Several staff members of the Inner Mongolian government resisted and were either killed or imprisoned.

A force of a thousand Mongolian police who deserted Prince Tehwang because of their suspicions of his connections with the Japanese are now stationed at Wuchuan, while Tehwang has gone to his temple headquarters at Pankiang in northern Kalgan. It is stated here that the Japanese are taking advantage of the disturbed European situation to add to their encroachments upon China.

New Cabinet Installed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 10.—[Tuesday.]—Koki Hirota's cabinet, which was almost despaired of came back to life last night, with three nonpartisan and near-reactionary members substituted for liberal elements whose removal the army demanded. Japan thus has a cabinet for the first time since assassins, in a bloody attempted coup Feb. 26, ended the government of Premier Admiral Keisuke Okada. The cabinet was invested last night by Emperor Hirohito.

In most quarters this makeshift cabinet was regarded as very mediocre. It was felt it will be much more inclined to listen to the army than were the two previous cabinets which were headed by admirals.

Now that it is known where the cabinet's real power lies, financial, business, and industrial circles are expected to follow a cautious policy. The two main political parties, the Seiyukai and Minseito, are extending moral support to the new cabinet, but their members are generally dissatisfied.

Seek to Calm People.

No change in foreign policy has been promised. The first task of the cabinet will be to strive to calm the public mind and, in coöperation with the army and navy, solidify the national unity.

Following are members of the cabinet:

Keinosuke Ushio, home minister.

Lieut. Gen. Count Juichi Terauchi, war.

Admiral Osami Nagano, navy.

Dr. Sanji Mikami, education.

Dr. Raizaburo Hayashi, justice.

Takukichi Kawasaki, commerce.

Eiichi Baba, finance.

Dr. Yonezo Mayeda, agriculture.

Keikichi Tanomogi, railways.

Toshio Shimada, communications.

Hidejiro Nagata, overseas minister.

All leading stocks slumped severely today when the exchange opened for the first time since Feb. 26, reflecting lack of confidence in the fiancial policy of the new cabinet, as outlined by the minister of finance, this morning. The exchange opened with a rush of selling and little buying. Leading stocks dropped as much as 16 yen [the yen is worth 29.06 cents].

OAK PARK WATER CHIEF FIRED AT SECRET SESSION

Wiley Imhoff, manager of the Oak Park water department, and a village employé for 28 years, was dismissed last week at a secret meeting of the employés' committee of the village board, it was learned last night.

The only explanation offered by Trustee Robert Glaesel, a member of the committee, was that Imhoff was "lacking in courtesy." His dismissal follows the resignation last December of Dudley Meyers, commissioner of public works, who had been employed by Oak Park for 27 years.

WORK STARTED TO END SCHOOL PORTABLE ERA

M'Cahey Says They'll Be Gone in Year.

All of Chicago's tin portable schools will be replaced within a year by fireproof additions or new buildings, James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, predicted yesterday as work began on the first school construction jobs under a $2,000,000 loan and grant from the federal Public Works administration.

Mayor Kelly, Mr. McCahey and other officials attended ground breaking ceremonies at the LeMoyne elementary school, 851 Waveland avenue, which will have a $191,570 addition, and at the Mary Lyon elementary school, Austin and McVicker avenues, which will have a $103,170 addition.

Expects Further U. S. Loans.

"Seven new buildings and eight additions will be constructed by September, Mr. McCahey said. They will replace 77 portables. This will leave 112 portables still standing after the $2,000,000 is exhausted. Mr. McCahey said he expected further federal loans on school board tax warrants to make it possible to eliminate all the portables by this time next year.

"This new building program will give every child a full day's schooling in proper buildings," Mayor Kelly said at the LeMoyne school ceremonies.

Gives Credit to Mayor Kelly.

"These tin portables freeze the children in winter and bake them in summer," Mr. McCahey told the assembled parents and children. "We give the credit to Mayor Kelly who made a special trip to Washington and secured the funds after our first application was refused."

Ground breaking ceremonies will be held at several of the other schools during the week.

KICKS IN TAVERN DOOR; JAILED.

DE KALB SLAYER OF WOMAN HELD TO GRAND JURY

De Kalb, Ill., March 9.—[Special.]—A coroner's jury here today held Harrison Crooke, 28 years old, to the grand jury on a charge of murdering Mrs. Emma Ander, storekeeper, who died yesterday after being shot Thursday night by Crooke.

State's Attorney Latham Castle of De Kalb county went before Circuit Judge William Fulton at Sycamore and asked that the grand jury be recalled to indict Crooke and Judge Fulton ordered it to reconvene March 16.

Feeling against Crooke still ran high here today after threats of a lynching caused Sherif O. N. Larson to remove the prisoner from the De Kalb county jail. It was reported Crooke was transferred to Rockford.

Crooke admitted the shooting and said he had been drinking. He fired at Mrs. Ander with a shotgun in her grocery store when she refused to open the door. Two blood transfusions were made in a futile effort to save her life.

AUDIT REVEALS FUND SHORTAGE IN WILL COUNTY

A special audit was filed with the Will county board at Joliet yesterday which officials say indicates that Herbert R. Jones of Manhattan, former county treasurer, has failed to account for $175,866 of public money received by him. The alleged shortage covers the years from 1931 to 1933 inclusive.

The audit, made by Joseph G. Dingle of Joliet, is part of the investigation of all county offices authorized last year. As a result of another audit, Albion F. Delander, former county clerk, was recently tried and acquitted on a charge of embezzling $10,000. The county board is expected to act on the Jones audit audit next Tuesday.

Jones refused to comment. "It is all news to me," he said.

Mrs. Mary Koc, 48 years old, 1820 West 18th street, died of heart disease yesterday in her home.

YOUNG MOTHER SUES BORGS IN WAR OVER BABY

Demands Maintenance, Charges Intimidation.

Mrs. Juanita Borg filed suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday against George Marshall Borg, son of George W. Borg, wealthy manufacturer and inventor. Mrs. Borg's suit was a counter attack on the efforts of the senior Borg to win custody of his grandson, George Marshall Borg Jr., 15 months old, on a habeas corpus proceeding filed last Saturday.

In her separate maintenance bill, drawn up by Attorney Samuel A. Rinella, Mrs. Borg, who is 19 years old, named her father-in-law as a codefendant. The suit alleged that the elder Borg won guardianship of the baby "through undue influence and intimidation." The bill asked that the Borgs, father and son, be restrained from making any further attempts to gain possession of the child from the mother.

Habeas Hearing Is Continued.

Before Mrs. Borg filed her suit Judge Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court continued the hearing on her father-in-law's habeas corpus writ until Thursday. Attorney Rinella obtained the continuance, asking time to file an answer and to bring witnesses from Lake Delavan, Wis., to refute the elder Borg's charge that his daughter-in-law is an unfit mother. She left the Borg home at Lake Delavan last Wednesday.

Attorney Rinella said Mrs. Borg and the baby are now "in hiding" in a Chicago hotel, but he promised that both would be in court on Thursday.

Mrs. Borg said in her bill that she and her husband were married Jan. 24, 1934. In August, 1935, according to the bill, he left the Lake Delavan home and returned only occasionally for week-ends. Mrs. Borg alleged that her husband, who is 21 years old, refused to allow the baby to be baptized in the Catholic faith.

She Charges Intimidation.

In June, 1935, the bill said, her father-in-law compelled her by "undue influence and intimidation" to sign a paper appointing him guardian of the child and renouncing her right to the boy's custody. The bill said that Mrs. Borg believed at the time she was only signing an agreement by which the boy's grandfather was to create a trust fund for him.

On June 29, 1935, the grandfather was appointed guardian of the boy in the Walworth County court at Delavan. Following this, the bill stated, a nursemaid was placed in charge of the child by the grandfather in the Lake Delavan home and the mother was interfered with in her efforts to rear her son.

The elder Borg, who is 49 years old, maintains his Chicago home at 999 Lake Shore drive. He is chairman of the board of the Borg-Warner corporation, 310 South Michigan avenue. His son is employed as head of the scale department of the corporation.

QUODDY POWER PROJECT IS RULED OUT BY EXPERTS

Called Unfeasible on Four Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], informed a senate appropriation subcommittee today that Secretary Ickes' PWA engineers had rejected the 35 million dollar Passamaquoddy tide harnessing power project before President Roosevelt started it with relief funds for these reasons:

"1. A steam generating plant of equal capacity at the same place would cost only 16 million dollars.

"2. Quoddy hydro-electric power must sell for more than steam generated power and cannot compete with steam generated power rates in the Boston area.

"3. There is no present or prospective market for Quoddy power at any price.

"4. Hydro-electric power, when needed, can be more cheaply generated on Maine's undeveloped rivers."

Based on Engineers' Reports.

Senator Vandenberg said these conclusions were based on studies made by PWA engineers and the federal power commission, reports of which Secretary Ickes permitted him to inspect. As a result of these adverse reports the Public Works administration rejected the scheme, but President Roosevelt nevertheless started it with 3 million dollars of relief funds.

An additional appropriation of 9 million dollars now is sought from congress in the pending war department appropriations bill. Senator Vandenberg is opposing this appropriation, as well as the 12 million dollar additional appropriation sought for the Florida ship canal. President Roosevelt started the latter project with a 5 million dollar relief allocation after engineers had reported it unfeasible and shipping lines had declared that they would not use it if completed because of the difficulties of navigating the tortuous course.

Total of 29 Millions Sought.

Besides Quoddy and the Florida canal, the war department appropriations bill seeks additional funds for three smaller projects begun by executive order with relief funds, the total sought being 29 million dollars.

Senator Vandenberg's protest was addressed to Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], chairman of the subcommittee, which held a meeting today but postponed action on the nonmilitary projects until Wednesday.

Present indications are that the additional sums sought for the projects started with relief funds, without authority of congress, will be denied by the subcommittee and the full appropriations committee. However, the senate may vote otherwise, for it recently added 62 million dollars to the interior department appropriation bill for unauthorized reclamation projects started by executive order with relief funds. This measure now is in conference with the house, which had refused to vote the additional funds.

MARRIAGE BILL HIT BY NEW YORK BAR AS 'TRIAL' INVITATION

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The Williamson bill, requiring a delay of three days between issuance of a marriage license and the marriage ceremony itself, is disapproved by the bar association in a report made public today by its committee on state legislation. The committee's report said the effect of the bill would be to "provide a very convenient method of entering upon a trial marriage, the only additional cost to the parties being the $25 or $50 fine that might be meted out to the officer who solemnized the marriage in violation of the section."

4 PLEAD GUILTY TO BUCKET SHOP FRAUD CHARGE

Four men alleged to have swindled investors out of more than $100,000 in the operation of a grain bucket shop pleaded guilty to charges of mail fraud yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The men are Albert L. Knapp, 40 years old, 7539 Yates avenue; David Weinstein, 32 years old, 1110 Belden avenue; Samuel P. Sloan, 34 years old, 3156 Sheridan road; and Edward Sloan, 36 years old, of the Belmont hotel, a brother of Samuel.

Judge Woodward imposed fines ranging from $1,500 to $5,000 on them. Later in the day, however, the judge vacated the fines after he was informed that it was the intention of the defendants to file paupers' writs which would free them from jail in 30 days. The judge set March 11 for their resentencing unless he should be given assurance meanwhile that the fines would be paid.

The government charged that the men operated under the names of the Western Grain Market Service and the W. J. Bell company, receiving their mail at 6 North Clark street and 140 North Dearborn street. A fifth defendant, Mrs. Patsy Faubion of Denver, an employé of the men, was freed by the court.

The Real Thing

To men who patronize the famous custom shops of London's west end, the tweeds, coverts and fleeces of which these topcoats are tailored are not strangers. The first time Londoners laid eyes on them was about the time ours were making their first crossing. That's not long enough ago to have permitted more than a few of these fabrics to appear in Piccadilly in topcoat form and likely as not in one of the styles shown here. All of them tailored in America—over British coat patterns with all the details and "extras" that distinguish them faithfully copied.

Topcoats of Manx Tweeds from the Tynwald mills, St. John, Isle of Man, are $46.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes

Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

HELD AS SLAYER OF WOMAN WITH HIM ON CAR RIDE

Suspect Admits "Fight"; Husband Released.

Charleston, W. Va., March 9.—(AP)—State police tonight held a young chemical factory workman for the mutilation slaying of pretty 24 year old Mrs. Dorothy Reedy and announced her husband will be released.

City Police Chief W. A. Tully quoted Ronald Parsons, 24 year old workman, as telling of a midnight ride and quarrel with Mrs. Reedy, but denying knowledge of her death.

State police said her husband, Charles Reedy, 43 year old automobile mechanic, will be released tomorrow. He had been held without charges since a caddy found his wife's body near a golf course early Sunday.

His Mind Goes Blank.

The police chief said Parsons told him of fighting with Mrs. Reedy in a ravine on the golf course, but:

"Every time we ask him about the fight his mind goes blank and we don't get any more out of him."

Tully continued that Parsons' wife told of her husband coming home and throwing his clothes in a bath tub. He also quoted Mrs. Parsons as declaring her husband told her of the fight and added:

"If the law comes after me I'll tell all about it."

Tells of Night Ride.

Tully quoted Parsons as telling of riding around Charleston suburbs with Mrs. Reedy, and added:

"He then said he drove her to Davis creek [a little traveled road into the mountains], where they had several fights, and he knocked her over the bank and went off and left her.

"He said he passed out immediately after that and doesn't remember anything."

Reedy, throughout his questioning about his wife's death, had insisted that although they quarreled Saturday night he knew nothing of her death.

Thanks Police for Release.

He was identified by red-haired Robert Hoffman, a caddy, as a man Hoffman saw in a car with a woman near the spot where Mrs. Reedy's body was found.

During questioning he declared:

"I saw Dorothy with two men and another woman in a beer parlor, and after Dorothy got up she kissed me and said I would never see her again, as she was going back to her home in [Hagans] Virginia."

Told by Trooper A. C. Thompson of his exoneration after Parsons' arrest, he said:

"I don't blame you policemen for arresting me as the evidence pointed to me, and I thank you for telling me of my release."

CONVICTS HOPE TO AID TOUHY IN ROBBERY ALIBI

San Francisco, Cal., March 9.—(AP)—Two convicts in Alcatraz Island penitentiary gave depositions today which defense attorneys for Tommy Touhy said will go to support an alibi in the $100,000 Minneapolis Union station holdup of Jan. 3, 1933.

James Ryan, alias "Silent Jim," and Frank McKee, reputed members of the "Terrible Touhy" gang of Chicago, were questioned by Robert V. Rensch, Touhy's attorney, and Henry J. McPike, United States attorney.

Their testimony, Rensch said, will be used to bolster Touhy's denial he participated in the robbery when he goes to trial in St. Paul March 16. Ace federal witness will be William Barry, alleged member of the gang, who allegedly took part in the $234,000 mail robbery at Sacramento a month after the Minneapolis episode.

Barry was smuggled out of county jail here during the night ten days ago and removed to St. Paul under heavy guard, assertedly to avoid gang reprisals.

Cabby Recalls Coolidge—Fare to the Penny; No Tip

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The thrift legends of the late President Calvin Coolidge were enriched today in Manhattan Traffic court. Said Taxi Driver Ludwig Fischer:

"I'll never forget President Coolidge. I drove him a short distance and the fare was 25 cents. I got some money out of my pocket, ready to make change. But he had the exact fare—he handed me two dimes and five pennies."

SEARCH FOR HEIR TO $40,000; LAST SEEN ON RELIEF

Minnesotan Photographed Here; Kin Sue for Money.

Carl Henry Proehl, 39 years old, is being hunted here as the heir of $40,000 bequeathed by his mother, Mrs. Emma Proehl, who died in her home at Minneapolis last September. The executor of the estate was in Chicago yesterday hoping to find Proehl or a young woman who may know of his whereabouts. The executor wishes also to inform Proehl that he is defendant in a court battle instituted by his aunts, uncles and cousins to break his mother's will.

Proehl left his parents' home in Minneapolis in 1931 after a quarrel with his father, Carl Knute Proehl. The elder Proehl died in April, 1932. Shortly afterward Mrs. Proehl began the hunt for her son which now is being carried on by the executor, Albert M. Leitschuh of Minneapolis.

Leitschuh said that a picture of Carl, found in the Proehl home, was photographed in Chicago. In this picture, too, is a young woman whose name is not known. Neighbors of the Proehls said they believed the woman was Carl's wife, but they were uncertain on this point. It is thought that this woman may be able to tell where Proehl can be found.

Recognized in Bread Line.

Proehl was last seen in a Minneapolis bread line. A friend who recognized him gave him a meal and some money. That was shortly before his father's death. It is known that Proehl was in New York at one time and in San Francisco at another. Another picture found among his mother's effects shows him in a sailor uniform, but it has been determined that he is not in government service.

Seaman's institutes in a dozen cities are keeping a watch for him.

Despite the protest of relatives, Mrs. Proehl's will was sustained in the Probate court of Hennepin county, Minn. An appeal from the probate ruling has been taken to the district courts in the name of Mrs. Sophia Rich of Minneapolis, sister of Mrs. Proehl, who was given $10 under Mrs. Proehl's will. The executor has seven years in which to search for Proehl.

JILTED SOCIETY GIRL DROPS LOVE SUIT AGAINST HEIR

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Mary Schirp, New York society girl, has dropped her $500,000 breach of promise suit against George H. Hatch, 30 year old heir to cotton converter millions, it was revealed today at the offices of her attorney.

Miss Schirp alleged that Hatch had promised to marry her, but when he discovered she was going to have a baby he eloped with the socially prominent Dorothy Ruddy.

Hatch entered a general denial of Miss Schirp's charges, and last June consented to submit to a blood test to determine whether he was the father of Miss Schirp's son Frederick. The blood test was taken by all three concerned, but its results never were made public.

Hatch and Miss Ruddy were married in April, 1934.

PEACE IN GOTHAM BUILDING SERVICE TIEUP HITS SNAG

Building Owners Bring About New Crisis.

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Mayor F. H. La Guardia's efforts to settle the strike of elevator operators and other building service employés by arbitration were halted again today when the realty advisory board told the mayor it could not enter into arbitration except on certain conditions.

These reservations were outlined in a letter to the mayor signed by William D. Rawlins, executive secretary of the board. Walter Gordon Merritt, counsel for the board, called the communication a "qualified acceptance" of the mayor's arbitration proposal, but Mayor La Guardia made no effort to conceal his displeasure at the board's attitude.

The mayor's arbitration proposal was submitted to the realty advisory board and to the Building Service Employés' union on Saturday. On Sunday the union accepted the proposal unconditionally, and the realty advisory board said it was an acceptable "basis" for working out terms of a settlement.

No New Parleys in Sight.

The mayor thereupon announced that he would proceed forthwith to bring about resumption of negotiations. These negotiations were expected to get under way today. There were no real indications tonight that this conference would be resumed tomorrow.

Instead, James J. Bambrick, director of the strike, announced that the strike would be extended into new areas tomorrow, among them the Grand Central zone, with 4,000 buildings and 25,000 employés.

At the office of the realty advisory board it was declared, "let them go—we are ready for them."

Tonight the mayor showed impatience at the realty advisory board's attitude and demanded that the board proceed immediately to name an arbitrator.

Both Sides Set for Siege.

"My offer of Saturday is very plain and not susceptible to any misunderstanding or doubt," the mayor said.

He obviously was perturbed by the situation as he left city hall.

"There is no good reason why this strike should continue another minute," the mayor said.

Both sides apparently are set for a prolonged battle. Interests behind the realty advisory board expressed confidence that the strike movement was on the wane and that it could be broken within a few days. In labor circles there was growing bitterness.

The realty owners precipitated the latest crisis when they demanded that the mayor's proposal be modified so as to preclude the necessity of discharging strike breakers, eliminate the possibility of strikes over the question of union affiliation, exclude superintendents from any agreement, and rule out completely the issue of a closed or preferential shop.

WIFE DIVORCES HAROLD GATTY, POST'S CO-PILOT

Los Angeles, Cal., March 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Elsie Louise Gatty won a divorce today from Harold Gatty, round-the-world flyer, after testifying "he was only home on rare occasions."

"And even then," she added, "he would only stay a few minutes and then depart for a hotel."

Mrs. Gatty charged her husband was quarrelsome and "didn't seem to like anything I did."

Gatty was navigator for the late Wiley Post in his globe circling flight in 1931, covering 15,474 miles in eight days 15 hours and 51 minutes.

ROOSEVELT FRIENDS ASSAILED BY STRIKERS AS UNFAIR TO LABOR

New York, March 9.—(AP)—Two friends of President Roosevelt were assailed as "unfair" by striking building service workers today.

Before 200 Madison Avenue, of which Jesse H. Jones is a trustee, a picket bore a placard reading:

"Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, is unfair to organized labor. This is his building."

At 330 5th avenue, a building known as "Astor's Fifth Avenue," a picket's placard said:

"Vincent Astor is unfair to organized labor. This is his building."

200 BATTLE WAY THROUGH PICKETS AT SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., March 9.—[Special.]—Two hundred nonunion workers fought their way through strike picket lines today at the Bantam ball bearing plant here.

Karl Herrmann, president of the company, suffered lacerations about the face when struck by a cake of soap thrown in the fight, and Cloyd McClure alleged to have been a picket, received head injuries.

McClure and John Bartee were arrested by police sent to maintain order at the plant, but were later released. Eldon W. Matthews, president of the local United Automobile Workers' union, said the picketing would continue. The union men struck Saturday when Matthews and other workers who were organizing the union were discharged by the company.

Tommy Rose Sets Record, Cape Town to England

LONDON, March 9.—(AP)—British Flying Officer Tommy Rose beat the Cape Town-to-England flight record today by five hours, 12 minutes. He landed at Croydon airdrome at 11:05 a. m. [6:05 a. m. BEGIN TESTIMONY IN WM. LOEFFLER VICE TRIAL TODAY

State to Call Sixty in Stickney Case.

The first of sixty witnesses subpenaed by the state will be called to testify today against William Loeffler, president of the village of Stickney, who went on trial yesterday before a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Robert C. O'Connell on charges of malfeasance in office.

A jury was quickly chosen yesterday to hear charges that Loeffler permitted vice and gambling to flourish in the village, and the hearing was then adjourned until today.

The indictment against Loeffler was obtained last October after numerous raids in Stickney by the state's attorney's police and after Loeffler had been warned to suppress gambling and vice resorts. If convicted, Loeffler faces ouster and a maximum fine of $10,000.

It is expected that some of the state's witnesses may refuse to testify, as many of them were seized in the state's attorney's raids.

Among the witnesses, according to Assistant State's Attorneys William Lancaster and David Leeds, are taxi dancers, inmates of disorderly houses, and gamblers.

MOTHER SEEKS DIVORCE AS SON ASKS ANNULMENT

Mrs. Helen Jabczynski, 52 years old, 11530 Oglesby avenue, filed suit for divorce in the Superior court yesterday against John Jabczynski, 58 years old, a real estate dealer. At the same time her son, Theodore, 27 years old, brought suit to annul his marriage to Irene Koffell, whom he wed on Jan. 9. Mrs. Jabczynski charged her husband with habitual drunkenness. The son, in his annulment action, alleged that he recently learned that he and Miss Koffell are first cousins, and therefore their marriage is illegal under Illinois and Indiana law. They were married in Crown Point.

BUDDHISTS GIVE BLESSING TO MT. EVEREST PARTY

Britons Start Trek to Scale Highest Peak.

DARJEELING, India, March 9.—(AP)—The 1936 British Mount Everest expedition, led by Hugh Ruttledge, 51 years old, left here today in an attempt to conquer the world's high- Buddhist lamas.

The party will stop over at Kalimpong, 30 miles away, until next Sunday, when it will set off on the "last great adventure on earth."

Begin Ascent in May.

Across the bleak, malaria-ridden plains of Tibet the expedition will march on a five week trek to the base of the Himalayan monarch—the highest point on earth still untrod by man—and begin the final assault in May.

Hopes of success have been greatly buoyed by the prediction of high priests here that the expedition will be favored by good weather—a vital, even a life and death, matter to the 12 Britons who will risk their lives in the climb up the 29,004 foot peak.

Work by Two Man Teams.

"I am full of confidence," said Ruttledge as he supervised the loading of the expedition's equipment. "I have got the best men possible. I couldn't do better."

Reaching giant North Col at 23,000 feet about May 21, they will await favorable weather for the series of final assaults, which will be made by four successive two man teams.

POTATO STAMP SALE WILL BE RESUMED TO HUMOR COLLECTORS

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—Unwilling to incur the enmity of thousands of philatelists throughout the country, the bureau of internal revenue announced today that collectors would be given the opportunity of purchasing tax paid potato stamps.

The sale was discontinued several weeks ago when congress, heeding public clamor, repealed the potato control act.

The bureau announced the sale of the stamps at their face value would be resumed and continued until July 1, 1936, unless the present supply is exhausted before that date. The bureau would not assume responsibility for selling the so-called "well centered" types of stamps nor would it exchange stamps heretofore purchased.

No order will be filled in excess of one sheet of 50 stamps in each denomination to any one person, it was announced. The orders will be taken at the bureau of internal revenue at Washington.

Attorneys Emmett F. Byrne and Harold Levy yesterday obtained a change of venue from Judges Claude Saum and William R. Hunter of the Circuit court at Joliet in behalf of James Day, a convict at the Stateville penitentiary, in his trial for the murder of Richard Loeb. Day has admitted killing Loeb, who was serving 99 years and life imprisonment for the kidnaping and murder of Bobbie Franks in 1924, but claimed self-defense. The case was assigned to Judge Edwin L. Wilson and it was not expected it would go to trial until some time in May.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASKS END TO ALL PROFITS OF WAR

1,700 Hear Peace Lecture at Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt opened a lecture tour here tonight with a plea that profit be taken out of war, and the prediction that "the war phychology under which we always lived gradually will be worn away by each effort toward world peace."

The first lady came here from Washington to speak. A capacity audience of 1,700 heard her lecture. She announced she would speak at Toledo tomorrow and would go from there to Cleveland.

"I believe," she said, "that if all nations could take all individuals' profits out of the munitions industry we would be making a worthwhile advance, even though we still were obliged to keep on building up our defenses.

Peace Is a World Problem.

"At least there would be no profit in it and people would be paying directly in taxes for what the various nations had to spend on defenses.

"It is impossible for any nation to bring about peace by itself," she continued. "It is self-evident that as long as the rest of the world is armed every nation must be armed."

Discussing the present European situation during a press conference, Mrs. Roosevelt expressed the belief that Reichsfuehrer Adolph Hitler's abrogation of the Locarno treaty would not result in world war. She said she believed the outcome of the situation would be the stabilization and strengthening ultimately of the league of nations.

Many Routes Lead to War.

"The ways of peace are perhaps as numerous as the causes of war," Mrs. Roosevelt told her audience. "When people behave as though it were a very simple matter to keep a nation at peace they show that they never have studied the various and devious ways by which nations find themselves at war."

She added: "There is no question but what the possession of armaments, beyond what is legitimate for defense, is a temptation to use them."

"They say that women are the incentive for which men make money," she said. "Very well, then, women can make it clear to men that they do not wish money made in this manner."

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—John Hamilton of Kansas resigned today from the headquarters staf of the Republican national committee in order to become national organizer for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, candidate for the Republican nomination for President. Hamilton will open Landon headquarters here. He will continue as national committeeman for Kansas and general counsel of the national committee.

"As we have approached nearer the time for the Republican convention," Hamilton wrote in his letter of resignation, "the party and the nation as a whole have inevitably become more interested in the vital question as to who will be the party's nominee for President. I am a Kansan and the representative of my state on the Republican national committee. That, coupled with the fact of my personal allegiance to Alfred M. Landon, has caused his supporters to look to me for information and advice. Believing, as I do, that Gov. Landon is the man best qualified to be the party's standard bearer in the coming campaign, I am of the opinion that anything I may do in his behalf will be of substantial service to my party. I have come to the conclusion that it is only fair to my convictions to devote my full time and energy to bring about his nomination."

Simultaneously with the announcement of this campaign C. B. Goodspeed of Chicago, assistant treasurer of the national committee, filed with the clerk of the house of representatives a report showing that the party has a surplus $356,288 as of Feb. 29.

NEW HAMPSHIRE G. O. P. UNITED IN PRIMARY BATTLE

All Factional Frictions Give Way to Harmony.

Concord, N. H., March 9.—[Special.]—Freed from internal conflict for the first time in many years, New Hampshire Republicans, unlike the majority party, are avoiding frictions in tomorrow's presidential primaries. Their goal is a strengthening of the party for the November election, when, their leaders say, they will duplicate 1932 by naming Republican electors, wipe out the Democratic member of the national house of representatives in the First district and retain the senate seat now held by Senator Keyes.

Under the young leadership of Robert P. Burroughs, one of the country's champion skiers, Gov. Bridges and ex-Senator Moses, Republicans, refrained from creating a delegate slate as in previous contests. As a result, candidates are in the field for the seven delegates at large and ten contenders for the district places.

New Hampshire, with the five other states that remained faithful to the cause in the Hoover 1932 campaign, receives as a bonus for its loyalty three additional delegates at large. This policy has removed factional differences, and all political shades are seeking election in a free and open fight.

His next political address is scheduled for April 4 at Fort Wayne, Ind., where he will speak under the auspices of the Republican county committee. The address is to be broadcast.

BORAH ENTERED IN PRIMARY RACE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg, Pa., March 9.—(AP)—Petitions placing Senator William E. Borah of Idaho in the presidential primary contest in Pennsylvania as a Republican candidate were filed at the elections bureau this afternoon.

Henry Breckenridge, former advisor to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, also filed today as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President.

Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, red haired wife of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, and long an aggressive political figure in her own right, took the required legal steps today to get her name on the Republican primary ballot in a Philadelphia congressional district.

If she decides definitly to make the run, her field of battle will be the great Kensington mill district, a hundred miles from her Milford home in the Pike county forests. It is represented by a Democrat now for the first time in many years.

STATE ERICSSON LEAGUE SESSION RIPS NEW DEAL

Cheers Given to Brooks by Delegates.

BY LLOYD WENDT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galesburg, Ill., March 9.—[Special.]—The John Ericsson Republican League of Illinois, representing 100,000 Scandinavian voters in the state, today loosed a scathing attack on New Deal administration and policies. It also unofficially welcomed Wayland Brooks of Chicago, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. It was the league's 42d annual convention.

Named to honor Capt. John Ericsson, Swedish naval engineer whose iron clad Monitor defeated the confederate Merrimac at Hampton Roads, March 9, 1862, and doomed wooden fighting ships forever, the convention quickly turned to politics. It made the chief business of the day a resolution condemning the New Deal through the entire category of its alphabetic bureaus and policies.

Charge Dictatorship Plans.

Passed by unanimous vote of nearly 400 delegates representing John Ericsson clubs in 35 Illinois counties, the resolution specifically charged President Roosevelt and the Democratic national administration with a "deliberate attempt to change the American system of government and to create in the United States a burocratic and socialistic dictatorship, regimenting the lives of the people."

The resolution recited the Democratic campaign promises to reduce government expenditures 25 per cent, to abolish useless commissions and bureaus, to balance the national budget, to preserve a sound and stable currency, and to enforce the antitrust laws and remove the government from all fields of private enterprise.

The Resolution.

"Over three years have passed since the election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt upon this platform," the resolution continued, "the result has been increased governmental expenditures to the highest point in the history of our country; creation of hundreds of new, useless, and burdensome commissions, and alphabetical indicated agencies vested with burocratic powers, adding over 235,000 new persons to the direct, full time pay roll of the federal government, 99 per cent of whom are under the spoils system; boosting the public debt to the highest on record—in excess of thirty billions of dollars, with the deficit growing at the rate of ten million dollars per day; debasement of our currency by the reduction of the value of the dollar to fifty-nine cents; enactment of tarif laws under which other nations are favored; enactment of laws and the promulgation of codes which have nullified the anti-trust laws and killed natural competition, creating monopolies to the detriment of the small business man, the producer and the consumer; and the invasion of the federal government into fields of private industry, jeopardizing the invested capital of thousands of our citizens."

Assails State Administration.

The resolution then turned to the Democratic state administration and charged that it has burdened the people with increased taxes, increased state expenditures to the highest point ever known, used the administration of relief to build up a political machine, and wasted millions of dollars through inefficiency. The resolution charged the Chicago Democratic machine with depriving the people of clean elections by forcing the defeat in the legislature of the honest ballot bill.

"With this record of Democratic administration in the nation and our own state, we call upon the members of our league and upon all citizens to renewed activity for the success of the Republican party and its nominees in the fall election," the resolution said. "With the conventions of our party about to meet, we urge the adoption of a wise and constructive platform of principles."

Sets Forth Own Principles.

The convention then proceeded to set forth its own principles, and delegates pointed significantly to the fact that they are similar to those enunciated by Mr. Brooks in his campaign for the Republican nomination.

Nineteen theses were offered, chief among them: Preservation of the American system of constitutional government; the right of each state to control its own affairs; a protective tarif high enough to exclude from home markets all competing foreign goods; indorsement of a farm policy on the lines suggested by former Gov. Frank O. Lowden; a balanced budget and abolishment of useless commissions and bureaus; the right to engage in any lawful business without competition from the government or protected monopolies; a sound and stable currency; reduction of the state sales tax and its eventual repeal; and enactment of the permanent registration bill and other measures to safeguard and protect the ballot.

Brooks Gets Ovation.

While the John Ericsson league is not factional and does not indorse candidates seeking nomination in the primaries, leaders and delegates everywhere declared that Mr. Brooks, one of 40 candidates present, is far in the lead as the league's choice for governor. This was further indicated at a dinner in the Galesburg armory which closed the one day convention tonight, when Brooks received an ovation as the candidates were presented.

A few delegates were friendly to Oscar E. Carlstrom of Aledo, a member of the league, but the consensus was that Brooks leads two to one in league favor, which H. Wallace Caldwell, also of Chicago, ranking second.

Mayor Joe E. Anderson of Galesburg, president of the league and himself a candidate for congressional nomination, declared that Republicans in the 15th district are backing Brooks "almost 100 per cent."

Divided on Senate Race.

In the senate race the league delegates divided favor between Otis F. Glenn of Murphysboro and William E. Hull of Peoria. There was little conversation about the other contests, but convention headquarters buzzed with activity as the 40 candidates sought expression of favor from the delegates.

Galesburg was in holiday dress for the convention, mingling the Stars and Stripes with Swedish blue and yellow. Speakers from over the state paid tribute to Capt. Ericsson in the main sessions and in smaller meetings. Candidates were not permitted to speak. The convention closed with the election of Gotthard A. Dahlberg, Chicago attorney, as president, succeeding Mayor Anderson. The league selected Chicago as its 1937 convention city.

DITCHBURNE'S RECORD PRAISED; BORAH INDORSED

Crowe Points to Senator as Son of Illinois.

Republican activities in Chicago centered yesterday in two public utterances. One was praise for the record of Harry S. Ditchburne, candidate for state's attorney on the ticket headed by Wayland Brooks, who seeks the Republican nomination for governor. The other was an endorsement of United States Senator William E. Borah, who is entered in the Republican presidential preference contest in Illinois.

Ditchburne's record as an assistant state's attorney, a position he held for several years until 1933, was contained in a letter from Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, to Attorney George I. Haight, chairman of the Ditchburne campaign committee.

Borah Indorsed by Crowe.

Senator Borah was indorsed in an address over the radio last night by Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney. At the same time Mr. Crowe attacked the record of Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, who will oppose Mr. Borah for Illinois' presidential preference vote on April 14.

Referring to Mr. Ditchburne's record as a prosecutor, Col. Chamberlin wrote: "He was highly efficient, courageous, capable, discriminating in his judgment and of unquestioned integrity."

Col. Chamberlin declared that Mr. Ditchburne had always been considered by the crime commission as one of the best prosecutors in the state's attorney's office. Court observers reported, said Col. Chamberlin, that Mr. Ditchburne was well versed in the law and presented his cases perfectly.

Praises Record of Borah.

Attorney Crowe in his radio address pointed out that Senator Borah is a native son of Illinois, and if elected, would be the first president of Illinois birth.

"He has always been a Republican and has always supported Republican candidates," declared Mr. Crowe in discussing Mr. Borah's record. "His patriotism, industry, character, and ability have made him the outstanding representative of Lincoln Republicanism for the past quarter of a century.

"To him, more than to any other person, belongs the credit for having kept the United States out of the league of nations and the world court."

Points to Knox Migrations.

On the other hand, remarked Mr. Crowe, Knox was born in Massachusetts and migrated to Michigan, New Hampshire, and then New York before coming to Chicago.

"Col. Knox had hardly been in Chicago long enough to have his laundry sent out and returned when he tried to muscle into the control of not only the Republican party, but the Democratic party as well," Mr. Crowe declared. "He is a local politician with national aspirations. He is the absolute boss of the present Republican county central committee.

"Regarding the membership of this committee, the late Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general of Illinois, publicly charged that the committee was controled and dominated by men who were known adherents and followers of Al Capone.

Proposed by Serritella.

"The first man to propose Col. Knox for President to the county central committee was State Senator Serritella at a meeting in the Palmer house last year.

"Last Friday Col. Knox had this to say editorially about his original sponsor, in discussing the vote in the Illinois senate on the honest election bills: 'To this list there remain to be added two pals of Capone, James B. Leonardo of the 17th district, and Daniel A. Serritella of the 1st. Leonardo was a Morris Eller henchman . . .'

"Col. Knox failed to state that James B. Leonardo is now the protégé and henchman of Ald. William V. Pacelli, a cousin of Serritella, and Pacelli is the same man whom Col. Knox affectionately threw his arms around and embraced on the speakers' platform at the Republican rally at Riverview park last Labor day.

Two Views on Small.

"When Len Small was a Republican candidate for governor in 1932 there was nothing too vicious or cruel for Col. Knox to say about him editorially. Knox, the candidate for President, quietly stole down to Kankakee last fall and put his arm around Len Small, the man he had vilified and defeated for governor.

"In 1911 when Col. Knox was a resident of Michigan President Taft appointed him a member of the board of Indian commissioners, and he accepted the appointment. In 1912, the following year, Col. Knox left the Republican party and opposed President Taft's reëlection. For many years general manager of the Hearst newspapers, he wrote articles denouncing the Republican party.

"The Republican party of Illinois, in my judgment, will not present to the nation as a candidate for President a man whose candidacy has been unanimously sponsored by the present Republican county central committee, composed largely of Capone henchmen, hoodlums, racketeers, and park wreckers."

PREDICTS BOOST IN RELIEF COST AS WPA FADES

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, yesterday predicted an increase in the number of relief families as the result of the reduction in Works Progress administration jobs from 200,000 to 157,900 by June 30.

Ralph H. Burke, deputy state administrator of WPA, has said that no workers taken from the relief rolls will be laid off until they get private employment or have been given an assignment to work on other federal projects. However, Mr. Lyons pointed out that if the new jobs prove only temporary, the workers will seek aid from the state-financed IERC when laid off.

Mr. Burke and nine other officials left Chicago last night for conferences in downstate districts on the problem of reducing the WPA rolls.

FOLLY OR MALEVOLENCE.

The government has announced that a deal had been made whereby the Bank of Canada is to purchase on behalf of the United States treasury the newly mined silver produced in Canada. A similar arrangement had been previously made for the output of Mexico. And the government has a standing offer to buy at 77 cents an ounce all silver mined in the United States, or 33 cents more than the current open market price. These three arrangements give the treasury command over 62 per cent of the freshly produced silver throughout the world.

The day after the Canadian deal was announced it was disclosed that the treasury would attempt to monopolize the remaining 38 per cent of the world production. Negotiations are on with Peru, Bolivia, and other South American countries for their annual output. There is little doubt that these deals will be consummated, and when they are the treasury will be the sole buyer of newly produced silver.

Not only is the New Deal moving to acquire all this metal subsequently to be produced, but at the same time it has made deals for the great stores already above ground. We have been buying silver in the open market, where the price was run up from below 40 cents an ounce to above 81 cents, from which there was a recession to about the 40 cent level. Obviously, no commodity which can fluctuate so wildly in so short a period of time is suitable for monetary uses. The rapid advance attracted to the United States so much silver from China that that country, the last one remaining on a silver money standard, was forced to abandon it. The Nanking government thereupon entered into a deal with the United States by which China acquired gold and gave us silver in exchange. As a result of the catastrophic decline in silver and the stable price of gold this transaction has already resulted in a considerable loss to the United States.

As a matter of fact China has since 1929, when Dr. Kemmerer recommended it, sought to find means of getting off the outmoded silver standard, but was unable to find a market in which to acquire a gold reserve in exchange for its silver stock at anything like the existing market ratio. The emergence of a modern monetary base in China had to wait until there came into power in the United States an administration which even in a depression could not find within our borders sufficient opportunities for the expression of altruism.

That the deals were highly advantageous to Canada, Mexico, and China there is not the slightest question. Nor is there any question but that the arrangement will entail an unbearable loss to the United States. As a standard medium of exchange, silver has been discarded by every modern nation, beginning with England in 1816 and ending with China in 1935. The problem with demonetization has been how to dispose of the silver for which there is no longer any use. With the abandonment of silver as a standard of money in the seventies we had the same problem, but due to the influence of the silver producing states we have not reduced our stocks, but instead under various acts have bought more. When an opportunity once existed to dispose of a considerable amount of silver at 2½ times the present price the silver interests saw to it at once that as much new silver was purchased as was sold. Demonetized silver of other nations, sold between 1920 and 1933, exceeded 650 million ounces.

The world absorption of new silver supplies in 1930 was as follows: China for monetary and hoarding uses, 39 per cent; India for hoarding, 30 per cent; the United States and England for industrial uses, principally making films, 11 per cent, and other uses 20 per cent. In the abnormal situation created by the operations of the United States treasury hoarded metal has been pouring out of China and people all over the world have been disposing of their old silverware to secondary metal dealers to be melted up and sold to a government with an insatiable appetite for the metal. Even Indian peasants who have long used silver for jewelry and for the storing up of savings have turned sellers of silver. And when the followers of the Aga Khan recently presented him with a gift of precious metal, it was of gold rather than silver.

Mr. Roosevelt upon succession to the presidency found warehouses full of excess silver which had not been touched in years. Some of this metal the government had on hand in 1873 when we abandoned the silver standard; it had not been sold because of political pressure. Other silver was purchased under the several laws passed as a result of vote trading by the congressmen and senators from the silver states. But these amounts were nothing compared with the recent accumulations. Mr. Roosevelt will be leaving the government, if he does leave it at the end of this year, with a stock of silver so large that it would take 20 freight trains of 60 cars each, each car containing 60 tons, to move the metal.

The recent deals by which the government is attempting to monopolize the world stock of silver were made at about the same time that the undersecretary of the treasury and an assistant secretary left the government service by resignation. They had stood for a lot. But these wholly indefensible transactions were too much for even the most tolerant. A review of all the facts suggests that insanity must be in control of the nation's finances. The only other explanation is that the New Deal has become convinced that it has but a short time to remain in office and is engaged in sabotaging the new administration.

VERSAILLES AGAIN.

Once more Herr Hitler has demonstrated that he and his régime are the perfect flowering of the Versailles treaty. If the so-called statesmen who imposed that treaty upon Germany had shown something remotely resembling political and economic prudence, if they had been less self-righteous and more tolerant, there probably would have been no Nazi revolution.

As it is, the German people ever since the treaty was signed have been conscious of a national humiliation. It was to that feeling that Hitler appealed from the beginning. He promised them liberation from economic and political inferiority. It is not true, of course, that all of the ills which Germany has suffered in the last seventeen years are the consequence of the Versailles treaty, but it is true that many of the ills could be traced directly to the document. The allied statesmen at Versailles gave Hitler his opportunity, and he has made the most of it.

Legalists outside Germany can easily tear to pieces the excuses Herr Hitler has offered for moving troops into the demilitarized zone and for denouncing the Locarno treaty. It is also easy to show that by these latest moves he has repudiated not only his predecessors' solemn covenants but his own as well. What the legalists have to say in these matters, however, is of relatively small importance. Europe is not a debating society.

The people of Germany, to be sure, are not likely to profit much, if at all, from the movement of troops into the Rhineland. There is no reason to believe that France or Russia was on the point of attacking Germany, and much reason for believing the contrary. If they had been disposed to make war on Germany they would have moved before, not after, the rearmament of the country had proceeded as far as it has today. Emotionally, however, the reoccupation has been important. Germans can hardly fail to approve this demonstration that once more their country is sovereign over its own national territory.

Herr Hitler has already been accused, and not without justice, of bringing Europe to the verge of war for no substantial advantage to his own country or any other. That is the inevitable course which a dictator must pursue. To maintain himself in power he must continually search for dramatic moves which will present him to his people as their courageous and unconquerable champion. Thrilling speeches and inspiring military shows will do for a time, but not forever. The time will come when the dictator must obtain foreign victories, either of diplomacy or of war. Herr Hitler is plainly at that point now. The movement of the troops was ideal for his purposes, serving as it did as a demonstration of Germany's restored power and, perhaps, also as a means of preserving order in the Rhineland with its large Catholic population.

Dictatorship imposes its logic upon dictators. If we permit a dictatorship to be established in this country we shall behave much as Germany is behaving today. We shall assume a truculent attitude toward other nations and in due time shall find ourselves embroiled in a devastating war, for war is the dictator's final reliance for preserving himself in power.

If Germany's latest dramatic move does not lead to war the next one or the one after that may well do so. The time is bound to come when a step will be taken which the foreign nations concerned will not tolerate. When it comes, Germany's former enemies cannot wholly absolve themselves of the blame. It was their folly in imposing a needlessly harsh and humiliating treaty on the German nation which gave Germany its dictatorship, and dictatorships can be expected to produce wars.

A RAILROAD MYSTERY.

[Rock Island (Ill.) Argus.]

Strange things happen occasionally in railroading. The trip made recently by a New Jersey train without a conductor or brakeman created a signal mystery at ten stations.

The train made its run a little after dusk on a Saturday night between Newark and Jersey City, and for 22 minutes it traveled along the tracks of the New Jersey Central railway, made nine regular stops, and drew into Jersey City with two paying passengers who still held their tickets. The train is a regular Saturday night local. A few minutes before 7 p. m. the engineer and his fireman boarded the train. At 7 o'clock, the leaving time, the engineer looked back but saw neither the conductor nor the two brakemen. But a second later he declared he heard the air signal to start and began his run.

As the train pulled out the conductor and brakemen appeared suddenly on the station platform and saw the disappearing train. Jumping into a taxi they started pursuit. At the first stop they arrived in time to see the train again pulling out. They then notified railroad officials.

The train continued on, made two other stops in Newark and in Harrison and Jersey City, and pulled into the terminal at 7:22 o'clock exactly on time. Testifying before officers of the road the engineer said that at every station he heard the signal to start.

So the railroad officials are pondering the following knotty questions: Was a passenger tooting the conductor's whistle for the fun of it? Was the whistle defective? Were the engineer's ears fooling him? Or had the whistle achieved the habit-forming powers of a milkman's horse in knowing when to start and stop?

Meanwhile the engineer, conductor, and brakeman are suspended pending the outcome of the investigation.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

EUROPE SEEMS to be getting all set for a free for all fight. But no, it cannot be! Didn't we have a war some years ago that ended all wars? Certainly. There can be no more great wars because the war was fought that ended all wars. Lykell! Lykell! Lykell!

ANYHOW, that was a grand slogan, "the war to end all wars." It lured tens of thousands to the firing line. But what are the statesmen going to have for a slogan if this present crisis flames into war? War slogans of the kind that make the one hundred and ten per cent patriots rear right up and paw the air are pretty scarce. So many have been used and worn out. But just the same there must be a slogan; you can't have a big war without one. It's horrible to think of a nation feeling that it was forced into the war without getting a slogan, but it might happen. However, there's no doubt that the slogans will eventually catch up with the front line. After a war gets into a good swing slogans pop up as thick as blackberries.

ON THE PASSING OF YOUTH.

Our dreams are driven underground
Beneath the dreary common round.

The ashes of forgotten fires
Smother the flames of our desires.

And too much love of cot and crust
Has cured our feet of wanderlust.

Dent Chaney.

MR. MUSSOLINI has stopped his advance into Ethiopia, either because the tense situation in Europe is taking all the attention from his little side show over in Africa or because he wants to be ready to jump in when the jumping is good somewhere in Europe. Why go away out to Africa to get into a nice, lively scrap when Mr. Mussolini may soon be able to get plenty of fighting almost anywhere he wants to poke out his chin.

THE GREAT TROUBLE of being messed up in a war is that we'll have to cut down on butter and sugar, abandon grapefruit and roast beef, and "give till it hurts." If Europe wants to have a big free for all fight the U. S. A. has to remember that if it gets all het up and messes in—all right, we have to go light on butter and sugar and things and give till it hurts. And we do like butter and sugar, and as for giving till it hurts, well, it hurts right now even to think of it.

PUTTING TROOPS INTO THE RHINE Valley illustrates again that a dictator, in order to hold his job, has to keep up a continual performance. When he stops setting off fireworks his loyal subjects get tired of him. One of the chief requirements of a dictator these days is that he be a continual source of good, clean fun and keep the audience well entertained. And when he hasn't got any more tricks in his bag and has used up everything in the hokum trunk then the audience give him the razz and walk out on him.

ENVY THE QUINTUPLETS?

Quintuplets (word mispronounced

All the world is watching greenly —envies you kids plenty!

Quintuplets of Canada,
E'en the Crown is zealous of your fivesome welfare . . . Zeus!
No wonder the world is jealous!

"The world?" Well, no; one Ishmaelite
Stands off dull and aloof,
Looks on you babes lacklustre-eyed:
One misanthropic goof.

C'est moi. I do not envy you
Your training, care and gold,
Because o' the times which lie ahead
For thee now one year old.

This world with wars and rumored wars
Itself is like to slay
—the race Caucasian kills its own
More featly every day.

Our mechanistic stuff is grand;
We educate our young'ry;
We build machines to flick the skies—
whilst men and more men go hungry. . . .

A scientist gets half an inch
In newsprint fashion faddy;
The headline screams in 90-point
"Love Pirate Slays Sugar Daddy!"

The ethic line points ever down;
Bond-swindlers grow more hale;
The big thief goes to Washington—
The small thief goes to jail.

Religion preaches day and night
A stream-lined Deity;
Heaven help the fool who lives
Like Him of Galilee!

Airplanes zoom "thousand miles per hour";
All distance we have cut;
"Across the country in half an hour!"
Excellent! But for what?

You lovely five are very young;
Whilst old I chance to be —the which, though crabbed I appear,
Is very oke with me.

Quintuplets of Canada,
Though the king be zealous
Of your future and its works
Of you I'm not jealous!

AND IF THEY DO get to fighting over in Europe there will be a little of what playwriters call "comic relief" right at the start. That will be when one or all of the nations ask the U. S. A. for a loan. Ha, ha, ha! Try and get it. R. H. L.

PERSONALITY AND GLANDS.

Within recent years the entire field of medicine has witnessed many kaleidoscopic changes due to the growing recognition of the importance to body economy of the secretions of certain tiny bits of tissue, called the endocrine glands. If that sixteenth century explorer, Ponce de Leon, had devoted his time and energy to the study of anatomy and physiology instead of hunting for the waters of perpetual youth, we might be several centuries ahead in this important field.

No scientific studies of the so-called internal glands antedate those of the French physiologist, Claude Bernard. In 1856 Brown-Sequard, who at one time taught physiology in a Richmond, Va., medical school, proved experimentally the importance of the adrenal glands.

With the first demonstration of William Beaumont that the process of digestion was an orderly, systematic affair, came the realization that the body was after all but a huge chemical laboratory in which the circulation of the blood maintained equilibrium of all functions. We know that the secretions of the endocrines can perform prodigious feats. In the field of midwifery, for example, certain gland products regulate conception, control prenatal growth, and determine the onset of labor. After the child is born the rate of progress depends upon their activity.

The pituitary is probably the most versatile of all the endocrine glands inasmuch as it produces several internal secretions. Extracts from the posterior lobe will help to raise low blood pressure and provide relief from excessive urination or what is called diabetes insipidus. [This condition should not be confused with diabetes mellitus in which the urine contains sugar.] Extracts from the anterior portion produce many different effects, some of which have to do with growth, sexual development, etc.

Every man, woman, and child is or should be an individual—a personality. How does Jones differ from Smith and Smith from Brown? We recognize the rôle of inheritance and of environment and we picture every individual as he appears to us—calm or excitable, deliberate or quick, lazy or industrious, phlegmatic or responsive, slovenly or neat—these factors and many others making up personality.

Here is the sluggish, slow moving, ponderous appearing, really stupid chap who stumbles along as though he feared to arrive. He represents the typical subnormal thyroid state and is in sharp contrast with the energetic, forceful leader who can thank his thyroid for the masterful grip which he has upon affairs.

Among growing boys there may be many examples of the antics of the endocrines. The diminutive, pugnacious lad who ran the school's fat boy off the playground need not have plumed himself so proudly. We have learned that a deficient gland secretion is responsible for many cases of adiposity in growing youngsters and, in some instances, thoughts come slowly to these children and an alert mentality appears only when the adolescent period is past and the glands arrive at full function.

The tall, gawky youth who resembles Ichabod Crane; who does not know what to do with his angular arms and legs, represents a type of excess pituitary activity that sometimes leads to giantism.

In scores of ways glands regulate our response to the demands for sudden effort and long sustained activity. Furthermore, they govern physical, mental, and sexual development. Certain types of headache, hot flashes, backache, disturbances of vision, dizziness, digestive upsets, and excess nervousness may all follow in the wake of gland difficulties.

Unfortunately, our knowledge of what to do in the event of a glandular deficiency has not advanced as rapidly as facts have become known concerning the behavior of these secretions. As our information increases, however, many more standardized procedures for supplying the substances that are lacking will become available.

Another article on the glands will appear tomorrow.

HEMORRHOIDS.

J. E. T. writes: I have had piles for ten years and of late they are quite painful and bleed profusely. I have been advised that this is the cause of my run down condition and that they should be operated on. I am so nervous the thought of such an operation makes me frantic.

REPLY.

The operation is a relatively simple one and should occasion no fear. It is the best treatment. The loss of a small amount of blood each day fully accounts for your "run down" feeling. A serious anemia may ensue.

CYSTS.

W. H. D. writes: I have a cyst about the size of a nickel on the back of my wrist. I first noticed it about a month ago and it has enlarged slightly since then. I have been advised to have it removed, but have also heard that rubbing oil on it will result in a permanent cure.

REPLY.

Cysts in this location often disappear spontaneously. Sometimes a sharp blow will rupture the sac. Rubbing oil on the swollen area will not change the situation either way. Surgical removal is advised if the tumor continues to increase in size.

FLOATING KIDNEY.

S. writes: What are the symptoms of a floating kidney?

REPLY.

Usually there are few if any symptoms. There may be pain or a sense of dragging or discomfort.

DIET FOR SINUS.

F. K. writes: What diet is advised in sinus trouble?

REPLY.

A generous menu with a full complement of vitamins.

INOCULATION FOR COLDS.

A. T. writes: What, in your judgment, is the efficacy of inoculation against common colds?

REPLY.

The positive value of cold vaccine has not been proved. Nevertheless, one who is afflicted with frequent attacks may try the vaccine. I know of many persons who have been helped. At any rate the vaccine is harmless if given by a skilled physician.

From Across the Sea

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON.—Trafic through the Suez canal in 1935 totaled 32,810,968 net tons. This was higher than in any previous year except 1929. The record year showed net tonnage less than 2 per cent above that of 1935. Last year's figure was over 3 per cent above that of 1934.

The company operating the canal admits that last year's record is due entirely to movements of Italian troops to East Africa. The movement of troops is held responsible for a net shipping tonnage of 4,000,000 tons. October, with 3,216,000 tons, registered the highest figure.

If the Italian figures were deducted the year would be one of the least favorable in the last ten.

The explanation lies principally in four causes. The first is the sharp decline in Russian shipments of cement, cereals, and railway material to the far east. Until 1934 they accounted for almost a fifth of the merchandise on the north-south route.

The other three factors are the reduction by 1,000,000 tons of crude oil shipments on the south-north route, owing to the operation of the Iraq pipe lines; diminution of the transport of oleaginous products as a result of restrictions imposed on imports by Germany, and diversion of cereals, especially rice, from European markets to China, also because of import restrictions.

On the other hand, tonnage of warships and transports rose from 353,000 in 1934 to 2,178,000 in 1935, almost entirely due to Italian activities. Of ships in ballast, the increase was from 4,418,000 to 4,705,000 tons.

The Italian flag, which held fifth place in canal trafic for thirteen years, rose to second place last year with net tonnage of 6,078,000, against the previous year's 2,089,000 tons. The German, Dutch, and French flags were left far behind. If British figures still come far ahead of all others at 15,735,000 tons, they fail for the first time in history to attain half the total passing through the waterway and are 1,503,000 tons less than in 1934. Except for negligible gains by American, Danish, and Russian shipping, Italy alone has shown an advance.

The company finds no justification for the belief that the Panama canal is wresting trafic from Suez. On the contrary, it cites statistics to prove that Panama is suffering from the same restrictions on world trade as Suez. But it is admitted the Cape route gained 300,000 tons at the expense of Suez in 1934-1935, and that between 1931 and 1935 the diversion amounted to 500,000 tons. This again is attributed to the Italian war and consequent increase in insurance rates against war risks.

Prospects for a better showing in 1936 are considered fair on account of the evidence of world recovery, the exclusion of risk of further diminution in transport of crude oil—Iraq's competition having already attained its maximum—and the probability of far eastern markets being unable to absorb the cereals, especially rice.

Oil burners using the canal continue to increase, numbering 1,621 passages, against 1,542 for coal burners.

The company's report recalls that the Egyptian government had approached the Suez canal directorate with a view to starting negotiations for a greater share in the control of the canal, but adds that no steps had been taken at the time of the report.

[The Egyptian government formally made three demands to the company: The appointment of Egyptians as directors, posts for Egyptians on the company's staf, and preferential rates for Egyptian shipping.]

This mortgage I intend to pay off in full when due in the next few months. 1. Do you think it would be necessary to employ an attorney to handle the closing of this mortgage? 2. If not, please advise what I would have to guard myself against so there will be no legal mistakes. My purpose is to save attorney's fees. What papers do I get? I might add that this mortgage, which is now held by a large loop bank, was taken over from another closed bank several years ago. E. W.

1. Depends on your experience and resourcefulness in such transactions.

2. You should make sure that you obtain the canceled principal note, the remaining coupons, the abstract or other evidence of title, and the insurance papers. ILLEGAL ENTRY.

Chicago, March 6.—[Friend of the People.]—I was born in Canada and came here by way of Windsor and Detroit in March, 1921. I did not pay any head tax. I have resided here continuously in Chicago. I am now married. My husband got his final papers two months ago. Can I apply for citizenship papers under the circumstances? N. W.

Under existing legislation, aliens who entered the United States without inspection prior to June 3, 1921, and have not been absent from the United States since then, may apply for legalization of their entry under the provisions of the act of March 2, 1929. For application blanks and further information in regard thereto, the inquirer may call at room 718, new postoffice building. If and when her entry has been legalized, she may apply for naturalization papers. FRED J SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

CITIZENSHIP.

Chicago, March 6.—[Friend of the People.]—A friend of mine came to this country in 1931 when he was 15 years old. He will be in the country five years in March. He wants to know if he can get his full citizenship papers now at the age of 20, or does he have to wait until he is 21 years old? J. M.

An alien may take out a declaration of intention [first paper] at the age of 18 years, but he must be 21 years of age when he files a petition for citizenship. If he has not already done so, the subject may file a declaration of intention and, when the same is at least two and not over seven years old, apply for final papers.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization, Chicago District.

INCOME RETURNS REOPENED.

Waterloo, Ia., March 4.—While many people for many years have cussed and discussed the income tax, one feature of this tax is so manifestly outrageous that it is strange it has received so little comment. Until recently few people realized that they might conduct their business efficiently and profitably, might render their income tax returns honestly and without concealment, but that their efficiency and honesty would not save them from ruin at the hands of the federal government.

In dealings between individuals or corporations, if one party details to the other a statement of indebtedness and the debtor proffers payment, if such payment is received without demur the account is closed after a reasonable time for verification, unless fraud or misrepresentation can later be shown. Not so with Uncle Sam. He can receive your tax return, pocket your money and sit blandly silent for years, and then, without a hint of fraud, misrepresentation or concealment, decide that your taxes for the past five or six years should have been figured on a different basis and reduce you to bankruptcy by assessing a back tax in excess of the amount you have on hand or can borrow—adding insult to injury by computing interest at 6 per cent on the amount of the back tax from the date of the original return.

Perhaps this situation has received little attention because the discovery that industry is a public enemy has only recently been made. Up to 1932 administrations, both Democratic and Republican, have leaned to the opinion that it is not wise to kill the goose that lays the golden eggs. But upon the advent of the Raw Deal the word seems to have gone forth to local collectors of the internal revenue to see whether by hook or even by crook large sums could not be collected in back taxes to help finance the enormous cost of the professorial burocracy under which we are existing, without putting all the burden on open and unpopular tax increases.

No sympathy need be wasted on the Al Capones or others who falsify their returns, but the honest citizen or corporation should have some protection. There should be some reasonable limit, say six months, on the time allowed the revenue department to accept or reject the method used to compute a tax.

T. E. Rust.

THE TAXATION OF SAVINGS.

St. Louis, Mo., March 6.—Any one will admit that a corporate surplus is nothing but a corporation's savings—a fund from which may be drawn the cost of expansion, or the payment of unforeseen expenses, or it may be used as a bulwark against the drains of those lean years which periodically occur. The suggested tax plan, in my opinion, is unsound if we are to abide by our present standards of saving—of sacrificing present benefits for future security.

We can logically expect as the next step a large tax on personal savings accounts and on the cash value of life insurance policies. William Normand.

THE ILLINOIS WATERWAY.

La Grange, Ill., Feb. 29.—I have just read in your today's issue a news item headed "Predict Large Gain in Illinois Waterway Use." As a Chicagoan I often marvel at the ability of The Tribune to strain at a gnat in other parts of the country and yet swallow a camel in your own back yard.

I suggest that the editor sharpen his pencil, get a piece of paper and put down the total sum spent to date by the sanitary district, the state of Illinois, and by the United States government in constructing the drainage canal, the locks and dams, and dredging of the channel in various sections of the river. My impression is that this total will exceed 150 million dollars, and the interest on this sum at 6 per cent would be $9,000,000 a year.

This article goes on to say that in 1935 an aggregate tonnage of 621,372 was moved on the river. Now just divide this 621,372 tons into $9,000,000 and you get $14.50 in round numbers. In plain words the interest on this huge sum of money dumped into this waterway in this state amounts to $14.50 for each ton moved in 1935. In addition to this sum there is the cost of maintaining the waterway, the cost of terminals, and the cost of operation of the locks, etc.

A private company, such as a railroad or manufacturing plant or public utility, must include in its costs this capital investment. It is only in the public business that dishonest bookkeeping takes no account of the initial investment, never adds interest charges, and never amortizes the capital investment. Public projects are never honestly accounted for; the money is dumped in and forgotten. Operating expenses are often not even covered, but additional appropriations continue the useless waste, and such statements as the above referred to are handed out to deceive the public as to the true status of the case. You seem to be able to see these things in TVA, Hoover dam, and in reclamation projects, etc., but right here in your own yard you think it is a good thing. Waterways are economically useless, and I defy any one to assemble all the data on any river in the United States and prove it otherwise.

If the government had taken the same sums of money and purchased the bonds of railroads and burned them, the public purse would have been in the same empty condition, but the freight rates could have been reduced far more effectively, and what is more, honestly.

LIGHT TO SEE BY.

Chicago, March 6.—Now that many thousands of us working people are arising an hour earlier because a few men have said we must, how about these few men doing us a favor and seeing that the alleys are cleaned out? This extra daylight shows up the dirty alleys, and the condition of these alleys is certainly a disgrace to a city like Chicago, with such progressive aldermen. I refer especially to the alley serving Lawndale avenue between Thomas street and Augusta boulevard. F. Christiansen.

HORNER DITCHED FOR ROOSEVELT'S SAKE SAYS KELLY

Urges Big Party Vote in State Primary.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Speaking at two north side ward meetings last night, Mayor Kelly announced that the entire driving force of the powerful Democratic organization in Chicago is to be centered in this campaign on getting out the biggest possible vote for Roosevelt in the presidential preference primary.

In both his speeches everything else was subordinated to the presidential issue. The state offices, the Horner-Bundesen contest, the county ticket—all were given secondary importance in his plea for united support behind the President.

Urges Big Party Vote.

"Make his vote bigger than the combined vote of the two candidates in the Republican primary, Borah and Knox," he urged.

"If we show that Illinois is for Roosevelt in April, you know what that means? It means that he will be reëlected."

It was for President Roosevelt's sake more than for any other reason, he told his audiences, that the organization declined to support Gov. Horner for renomination. He said that he and the party would sweep aside any man, "be he governor, senator, or any one else," whose name on the ticket would take away a vote from the President.

And, said the mayor, Horner's name on the ticket with Roosevelt's in November would have been a "tin can" tied to the President. It was that discussion of the Horner question that his two audiences had been listening for, but the fervent manner in which the mayor proclaimed that the party workers are "in the trenches' fighting against the "money powers" in laboring for Roosevelt appeared to stir them most deeply.

A Decision of the Party.

The mayor said the decision to select some one else for governor was based on the unanimous opinion of both downstate and Chicago leaders that Horner could not be reëlected and would be a drag on the entire ticket from Roosevelt down.

He said that the governor had failed to originate any forward looking legislation in the last three years. He almost echoed Republican criticisms of the sales tax, labeling it "the poor man's tax," and charging that it saved money for millionaire realty owners and trebled the state burden on the ordinary citizen.

In the first meeting, held at 6459 Sheridan road, the mayor indorsed the present ward committeeman of the 49th ward, John Hayes, for reëlection. This put an end to reports that he is supporting Ald. Frank Keenan for the post. The second meeting, at 4206 Broadway, was in the 48th ward. There he spoke for Committeeman Frank J. Lyman.

WIFE ASKS $750 MONTH ALIMONY OF C. C. MITCHELL

Attorney Clement C. Mitchell and his wife, Mrs. Nellie Mitchell, who have been married for thirty-two years, appeared before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court yesterday at a hearing on Mrs. Mitchell's suit for divorce and $750 a month alimony. A master in chancery recently recommended that Mitchell pay $300 a month alimony and that he give his wife $1,000 for attorneys' fees and $60,000 of the $102,000 life insurance he carries.

Mrs. Mitchell, through her attorney, Clyde Fisher, declared her husband is worth a million dollars and asked that the monthly alimony be fixed at $750. Mitchell, who was represented by his law partner, Thomas H. Slusser, said his wealth has been reduced to $184,000. He asserted he paid his wife $500 a month from Oct. 1, 1929, when they separated, until Mrs. Mitchell sued for divorce last Nov. 20 charging desertion. Mrs. Mitchell now lives at 814 Linden avenue, Wilmette. Judge Sabath took the case under advisement.

Bride of Month Attempts to End Her Life with Gas

Mrs. Martha De Maar, 26 years old, 3714 Lake Park avenue, a bride of one month, tried to end her life with gas last night. She was found unconscious in the kitchen of her home by Mrs. Stella De Maar, a sister-in-law, and was revived by a physician. The bride told Stanton avenue police she opened the burners on her kitchen range in despair because her husband, Edward De Maar, a printing company employé, had left her.

Boy Scout Troop to Get Fort Sheridan Log Cabin

Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill, commandant of Fort Sheridan, announced yesterday that permission has been granted for the erection of a log cabin at the army post for the use of the Boy Scout troop of the post. All materials for the cabin have been donated by a committee of business men from the vicinity, and it will be erected by Fort Sheridan labor without cost to members of the troop or to the government.

Believe Robber Shot

Mrs. Frances Franklin, 42 years old, who manages a drug store at 5125 Division street, chased two robbers out of the store a year ago after grabbing one of their pistols. Last night two gunmen came into the store again and menaced the clerk, James Sage, 19 years old, 1117 North Leclaire avenue. Mrs. Franklin heard the disturbance from behind her prescription counter, came out with a pistol and opened fire, routing the robbers. Police found a trail of blood leading to the door and the sidewalk, where the men escaped in an automobile. Believing one of the robbers to be seriously wounded, they broadcast a lookout warning to hospitals. Mrs. Franklin, a widow, lives above the drug store with her daughter, Mary Ann, 12 years old.

BUNDESEN VOTE FUND CHARGES SENT WPA HEAD

Benton, Ill., March 9.—[Special.]—Charges made by 15 WPA supervisors that WPA employés in District 5 are being compelled to contribute to the campaign fund of Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, have been sent to Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

The charges were denied by Walter Williams, district administrator for the WPA. He declared he could not "authorize anything like that," and suggested that perhaps the funds were being collected by local county committees.

The telegram sent to Hopkins asserted that a representative had been sent from Harrisburg to demand that WPA employés contribute to the Chicago health commissioner's campaign fund. The representative was said to be asking $10 from supervisors, $5 from foremen, and $2.50 from timekeepers.

"We resent being compelled to contribute from our small salaries to any party," the telegram said. "However, after our bills are met, we are willing to help the men of our choice as much as we can, but we resent having the director of this district making the choice for us."

Bundesen, at Nashville on a speaking tour, said: "It has been my policy always never to permit any employé to donate politically out of his salary in my behalf, and no such move is afoot with my authorization or approval.

"It's a cheap political trick.

"These people [WPA workers] get little enough, and it would be against all my principles of twenty-two years of public service even to suggest that they contribute a penny."

NOONDAY LENTEN TALKS IN LOOP BEGIN MARCH 30

Chicago Joins in National "Preaching Mission."

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Chicago Church federation's pre-Easter program of noonday religious services in the Chicago temple, 77 West Washington street, was announced yesterday by Walter R. Mee, secretary of the federation, at a special federation meeting in the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street. The series is to begin on March 30 and continue daily except Saturday and Sunday until Good Friday, when a three hour service is planned.

The special meeting yesterday was called to launch Chicago's participation in what was described as the "most extensive interchurch program undertaken by Protestantism in many years"—a national "preaching mission" to be held in the fall under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches.

Team to Tour Country.

Twenty-five large cities of the nation have been selected as mission centers to be hosts to a team of internationally known clergymen.

Dr. Jesse M. Bader of New York, secretary of the federal council's department of evangelism, termed the enterprise a modern development of the old time revival meeting. It envisions an intensive four day campaign, with services for different groups at various hours of the day. These services include morning meetings for pastors, noon meetings for laymen and women's organizations, and seminars for home groups on subjects of the Christian family, youth, and social justice. Night meetings will be held throughout the city.

One Chicagoan Among Speakers.

Chief among members of the team of forty or more religious leaders are Dr. E. Stanley Jones of India and the Rev. R. L. [Dick] Sheppard, former dean of Canterbury cathedral, Canterbury, England. Dr. Douglas Horton of the United Church of Hyde Park is the only Chicago member of the team. The dates of the Chicago mission are Nov. 19 to 22.

The preachers at the federation's pre-Easter noonday series are Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, University of Chicago chapel; the Rev. George L. Scherger of St. Paul's Evangelical church; the Rev. C. C. Bengston of Immanuel Lutheran church; the Rev. Hugh Elmer Brown of the First Congregational church, Evanston; the Rev. Harold S. Stewart of the First Baptist church, Oak Park; the Rev. J. W. G. Ward of the First Presbyterian church, Oak Park; the Rev. Thomas W. Pender of St. James Methodist Episcopal church; the Rev. W. Clyde Howard of the Second Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Herbert W. Willett of Kenilworth Union church.

Notable choirs of the city will furnish special music for all services of the series.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur Lee Kinsolving, rector of Trinity parish, Boston, the church made famous by the late Dr. Phillips Brooks, will be the guest of the Episcopal Church club of Chicago this noon at the Sherman hotel.

Dr. Kinsolving is the preacher this week at the noonday Lenten services at the Harris theater. These services are held under the auspices of the Church club, a business and professional men's organization.

DOUBT GROWS THAT HAUPTMANN WILL BE GIVEN NEW REPRIEVE

Trenton, N. J., March 9.—(AP)—Talk of a reprieve for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, at a high level a week ago, subsided so rapidly today that even the prosecution was inclined to believe Hauptmann would die in the electric chair the week of March 30.

A high prosecution official who said last week there was "every indication" of a new reprieve swung to the other viewpoint today and said he did not think the convicted Lindbergh baby killer would escape the chair again.

Gov. Harold G. Hoffman, who stayed Hauptmann's execution on Jan. 16, twenty-nine hours before he was to go to the chair, has, by his own statement, no power to sign a second reprieve after March 12, and said last week "as matters stand now" there will not be a second reprieve.

The resolution of Basil Bruno, Monmouth Republican, urging investigation of the motor vehicle department in connection with the Lindbergh case, was reported from the assembly judiciary committee, but Bruno deferred moving it for a vote, expressing belief it lacked sufficient support. He said he might move it Wednesday when the assembly reconvenes. Bruno charged the governor has turned the motor vehicle department into "a detective agency" in his Lindbergh case investigation.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Pruning Starts Early

March 9, 1936.

SUNNY days recently have encouraged gardeners to start their outdoor gardening work somewhat earlier than usual at the Tribune Wheaton Experimental farm. During the last week they have been out with their shears and knives pruning in the vineyard.

Each year the head gardener sees that all of the grapevines are pruned before the sap begins to flow. The branches on each vine are trimmed back so that only three eyes are left on the previous year's growth. This increases the size of the vines, leaving more food elements for use in making fruit on the old wood.

Since most of the snow and ice have melted Wheaton farm gardeners have discovered that field mice have caused a great deal of damage to the shrubs and trees, especially young trees. During the winter the mice burrowed through the snow and found their way into the tender branches and the base of the shrubs and young trees, where they gnawed off the bark. They left their marks on hundreds of shrubs and young trees.

They seem to prefer privet hedge and spiraea bushes. Fortunately the rose bushes were covered or protected at the base with a heavy layer of mulching material, otherwise, the gardener says, the roses would likely have been damaged by the mice. The mice also showed a preference for the barck of young elm trees.

The field mice apparently live in the fields during the summer and early fall. With the crops all harvested and moved in out of the fields last summer and fall the mice were forced to tour the farm for food. As cold weather came on they collected in the garden and orchard and vineyard by the hundreds. During the early part of winter they found enough grain and other food to keep them alive but when heavy snows fell they were forced to gnaw bark off the shrubbery and trees to avoid starvation.

Gardeners are looking for some way to eliminate these pests.

Turkeys at the Wheaton farm have started ranging over the farm during the day, returning to the farmyard at night to roost in their favorite tree. They spend much of their time searching in nearby pastures for bugs that spent the winter in grass clumps.

The breeding flock this year is made up of 17 hens and three gobblers. Fourteen of the hens are of Bourbon Red breed and the other three are Bronzes. All of the gobblers are Bourbon Reds.

Most of the newly seeded legumes, including red clover, lespedeza and alfalfa came through the severe winter in good condition on the Tribune farms. Corean lespedeza grown on a field test basis at the Wheaton farm last year apparently is reseeding itself successfully this year. This lespedeza is an annual, which means that the plants die in the fall and the new crop must come from seeds that fell off the plants last fall and remained on, or near the surface of the ground over winter.

A lespedeza field that was started in with oats a year ago this spring already is turning green. The ground is being covered with a new crop of young lespedeza that has sprung up this spring from seed.

BROKEN WINDOW BARES BROTHERS' RELIEF JOB HOAX

Social workers in the Municipal Boy's court revealed yesterday that John Konrath, 23 years old, 4852 South Justine street, and his brother Joseph look so much alike that they alternate weekly on a Works Progress administration job the latter obtained.

John was arraigned on a charge of disorderly conduct in connection with a broken window in a tavern at 4601 South Laflin street. Alex Krapewnski, 18 years old, 2642 West 42d street, and Walter Kurtz, 20 years old, 4628 South Bishop street, were sentenced at an earlier hearing to serve three months in the Bridewell for breaking the window maliciously.

Investigation disclosed the Konraths' WPA hoax, but John was cleared of complicity in the window breaking. Judge J. M. Braude placed him on probation for six months and gave him a suspended fine of $100.

HOME STRETCH!

THE great horse is the consistent horse—the one that always makes good in the home stretch! The great paper is the one that enjoys continued favor, year after year, and can always be depended upon to lead the field. The Detroit News is a leader of that sort. In 1935 it finished THIRD in advertising in the United States.

The extraordinary record of The News in the Detroit retail area need not be broken down statistically here. All such information is available to you in your study of the Detroit market. You can depend upon our co-operation in your plans for Detroit.

The Detroit News is recognized everywhere for its unique position as a home paper. It has the greatest circulation—both Sundays and week-days—in the Detroit trading area. 76% of the city circulation of The News is home-delivered. Better still, circulation is greatest where incomes are highest; lowest where incomes are low. Advertisers have discovered this to be the factor behind The Detroit News' superior effectiveness in making sales.

It takes more than one horse to make a race—but only the one that leads through the home stretch pays off.

U. S. GRAND JURY TO CLOSE CUTTEN TAX QUIZ TODAY

Supreme Court to Review Suspension Issue.

The federal grand jury is expected conclude today its investigation into the affairs of Arthur W. Cutten, wealthy grain speculator, who is seriously ill in his apartment at the Drake hotel. This was announced yesterday by Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney.

Cutten is accused by the government of evading income tax payments which, with penalties, amount to approximately $1,242,000 for the years 1929, 1930, and 1933.

Igoe's announcement that the grand jury's investigation would be ended today came after he had been notified by Cutten's attorneys that they would seek no compromise settlement with the government.

Review for Suspension Case.

From Washington came word that the United States Supreme court would review the ruling of the Circuit Court of Appeals here which reversed an order of the federal grain futures commission suspending Cutten from trading on grain exchanges in this country for two years.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed told the Supreme court that the Appeals court here had interpreted the grain futures act in an "absurd and impracticable" way by ruling that the words "is violating" could not apply to past violations.

In its ruling the Appeals court upheld the contention of Cutten's attorneys on this point, but expressed the opinion that the evidence supported the government's contention that he had violated the act.

Appeals Court Ruling Attacked.

The Appeals court ruling, according to the government, "thwarts the primary purposes to prevent manipulation of the prices of grain." The government's petition for a review of the case by the Supreme court added that under the decision the "commission will be virtually powerless to prevent the manipulation of the price of grain."

The Supreme court, the petition said, "has not hesitated to change tense of a verb when it was necessary to do so in order to accomplish the true intent of a statute."

Dr. Arthur F. Byfield, who is attending Mr. Cutten, said yesterday that his patient's condition has shown a gradual improvement.

DECLARES NORTH AND SOUTH DON'T MIX IN MARRIAGE

Seymour DeKoven, 31 years old, 1425 North La Salle street, testified yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort of the Superior court that he and his wife, the former Fay Hart of Macomb, Miss., quarreled continually "because of different northern and southern viewpoints." DeKoven also alleged that his wife deserted him in 1934, a year after their marriage. He was granted a divorce. He formerly operated a book store in the loop in which he was accused by the Rev. Philip Yarrow, head of the Illinois Vigilance association, of selling improper literature. DeKoven now runs a music bureau at 75 East Wacker drive.

"YOU'D DO SAME," WIFE SHOUTS AT SLAYING TRIAL

Says Husband Shot Her First.

East St. Louis, Ill., March 9.—[Special.]—"You would do the same thing of you were in my place," Mrs. Peggy Nash, former Chicago night club singer, screamed this hysterically to a City court jury today before whom she pleaded self-defense for killing her husband on their fifth wedding anniversary last Nov. 11.

The 30 year old woman is charged with murdering William Howard Nash, part owner of a taxicab company here and said by police to have been a beer runner for the late Frank McErlane, Chicago gangster.

Tells of Money Wrangle.

Sobbing frequently and speaking in a husky voice, Mrs. Nash told of an argument with her husband over money after she had found him drunk and had persuaded him to come home with her.

Arriving home, she said, Nash demanded $60 they had in the house. When she refused to give it to him he went into their bedroom, got a pistol and shot her in the left shoulder. She fell to her knees, she related, and he stood threateningly over her, the gun in his hand.

Hits Her and Drops Gun.

"I pleaded with him," she sobbed. "I begged for my life. He struck me and then we struggled. The gun dropped to the floor and I seized it. He ran into the bathroom to get another weapon.

"As he ran I just pulled the trigger. I didn't intend to kill him. When I saw what had happened, it hurt me more than I can explain."

Nash died of three bullet wounds without telling who shot him.

U. S. COLLECTOR READY FOR TAX RUSH THIS WEEK

Tribune Helps Public to File Returns.

Income tax payments received up to yesterday by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue here, totaled $1,693,642, as compared to $941,852 for the corresponding period last year. Mr. Harrison said the public had greatly assisted his office by the early payments but that nevertheless a tremondous rush is expected during this week.

The deadline for filing returns has been extended to next Monday, Mr. Harrison said, because March 15, the legal date, falls on Sunday. Up to yesterday 72,200 individual returns had been filed including 8,000 received by mail.

Tribune Helps Taxpayers.

Of that number, more than 10,000 were prepared in the two Tribune Public Service offices, one of which is in Tribune Tower and the other at 1 South Dearborn street. THE TRIBUNE is giving free service to income taxpayers as in other years and the public response made necessary the use of more experts in the two offices yesterday.

Deputy Collector Thomas F. Blanchfield, assigned by Mr. Harrison last Jan. 21 to the Tribune Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street, had three helpers yesterday. Deputy Collector Walter Orriny, assigned to the Tribune Tower office on March 2, was assisted yesterday by Internal Revenue Agent B. A. Hayes.

These men not only notarize the signatures of taxpayers but fill out the blanks and give advice on puzzling features of the returns. They are on duty from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. At the Tribune Tower office 500 or 600 persons can be accommodated each day and at the loop office from 800 to 1,000 a day.

Some Problems Cleared Up.

Mr. Blanchfield said that earned income credit, the designation "head of the household," and the sales tax constitute the most confusing problems for persons filling out income tax blanks.

Most persons think the 10 per cent allowance for earned income is deductible from the gross income, he said, but it is deductible only from the net income.

Many young men and women who are the principal support of their parents seek the $2,500 exemption allowed to the "head of the household." Mr. Orriny pointed out, however, that the government does not recognize them as "household heads" unless they are in fact the main support and exercise control over the home.

The sales tax cannot be deducted from income tax, according to Mr. Orriny, because the wording of the state law makes the tax a levy on the retailer, not on the purchaser. Alimony may be deducted from income tax only when the court order specifically states that the money is to be paid for the support of minor children—and then only at the rate of $400 for each child. Payments to a divorced wife are not deductible, it was explained, and the husband may not claim the exemption as head of a household.

Shoots Self in His Room, Then Calls for a Doctor

Bart Knisley, 50 years old, an insurance agent, was reported in a critical condition last night at the County hospital. Knisley shot himself earlier in the day in his room at the New Michigan hotel, 2135 South Michigan avenue. Then he telephoned the hotel office and asked for a doctor. Dr. John Whitaker, resident physician at the hotel, answered the call and had the police take Knisley to the hospital. A relative said Knisley has been despondent over financial difficulties.

PAIR ACCUSED OF PLOT TO FIX JURY INDICTED

Benjamin [Buddy] Jacobson, alias Jacobs, 36 years old, formerly known as a 20th ward "fixer," and Peter F. Londergan, 48 years old, 4431 South Wells street, were reported named yesterday in a true bill voted by the Cook county grand jury on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The two were arrested after Londergan confessed plotting to influence a juror in the arson trial concluded last Thursday night by the acquital of Manny Schreiberg and Gus Stoyas. The plot was discovered by Judge Joseph Burke who saw Londergan place his arm around Schreiberg during the hearing in an alleged effort to influence Londergan's brother-in-law, William Rooney, 301 West 42d street, one of the jurors.

Questioned later the jurors said they had not noticed the incident. It was reported that the grand jury true bill did not include Daniel [Nibs] Rafferty, 49 years old, 4501 Emerland avenue, also arrested at the time.

Bond for the two men was fixed at $5,000 each.

Symbol

In story and song the Home has been lauded as a symbol: A symbol of security . . . of refuge . . . A symbol of peace and comfort, of stability and independence.

But the home also has a practical significance. It is a symbol of great sales opportunity.

Said Raymond Moley, Editor of Today, in a recent address: "It seems to me that our next big market—a market that is so gigantic that it will generate lasting prosperity — is in the home. It is there that we will assemble a thousand new products of invention and enterprise that have come in the past few years. Here is our substitute for an economic miracle."

Each individual home has a thousand needs — from basement to roof-top, from front curb to rear lawn. And every home dweller has that urge to add to the comfort of living.

Who buys the modern heating plants? the automatic refrigerators? the renovized kitchens? the improved laundry equipment? the hot water heaters? the porch furniture? the remodeled bathrooms? The man with an individual home!

Philadelphia has no monopoly on individual homes. They are found in every corner of the globe. But Philadelphia does have more of them. There are more single-family dwellings in Philadelphia than in any other city in America. In fact, there are twenty-two states, not one of which has so many single-family homes as Philadelphia.

Cultivate this greatest market of individual homes through Philadelphia's home newspaper—The Evening Bulletin.

Consumer Demand

It is possible for anyone to print a newspaper—or for anyone to print half a million copies of a newspaper. That is not circulation. But when half a million people buy a newspaper every day . . . when their only reason for buying it is a desire to read it . . . then the advertiser has a profitable market. The circulation of The Philadelphia Bulletin is all "consumer demand" circulation. Premiums or circulation contests have never been used.

For forty years The Bulletin has grown in the same solid, substantial way that Philadelphia has grown. Today, it is read in nearly every home.

Circulation—519,694 daily for 1935. Two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper and more than the morning newspapers combined.

Rate—sixty-five cents per line . . . one of the lowest costs per reader among all newspapers in America.

Advertising carried — more national advertising has appeared in The Bulletin during the last four years than in any other six-day newspaper in the United States.

It is economical and profitable to reach this greatest Market of Homes through the newspaper nearly everybody reads. Consult your Advertising Agency.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The New Deal made its bow as theatrical impresario last night with the staging of Hoyt's "A Texas Steer," a comedy whose age is forty-six years, in the Blackstone. This première marked the debut of the American Repertory company, a WPA activity which has adopted the neighborhood stock company policy—revivals of vintage plays that once wore the halo of popularity.

The performance was in the vein of old school "stock," as that institution was known, fifteen and twenty years ago, to the patrons of such outlying theaters as the National in Englewood, the Bush Temple on North Clark street, or the College under the shadow of De Paul university. It had the simple hearted, bread and butter style of neighborhood acting, polished up by months of rehersal. Oscar O'Shea, who appeared as Maverick Brander [Tim Murphy's rôle when the play flourished in the nineties], is a veteran of that form of drama—a hearty old actor of rough and ready characters. He gives a mellow, leisurely study of the uncouth ranchman who is elected to congress against his will and becomes a swallow tailed snob under the corrupting influences of the national capital.

When this play was first staged, in 1892, it was regarded as a choice bit of impertinence. Its ridicule of the manners and morals of the nation's representatives in Congress assembled was received with the shouts of glee which this generation gave to "Of Thee It Sing." In its youth, "A Texas Steer" was a rare bit of satirical fun, and our grandsires used to improve their reputation for wit by quotations from its text.

Today, of course, it is merely an outmoded comedy, illustrating the naive taste of our forebears. Its pace is slow; its shafts of satire are dull, and its characterization seems stenciled. But the play deserves respect as an ancestor, for Hoyt wrote of American life from his own shrewd observation and taught American playwrights to follow his example instead of making pale copies of European models.

The performance moves with the laggard step of bureaucratic management, but otherwise the production is a good job in its vein. The costuming of the many characters in amusing styles of 1890 gives the play an authentic atmosphere; and the stage settings pass inspection. The breaking down of a sofa under the weight of two wild men from Texas was a bit of humor in the performance that Hoyt never invented; but the players covered this minor disaster with the calm of professionals under fire.

Constance Heron, who played the rôle of Ophelia in last summer's "Hamlet" of the Woodstock "festival," is attractive and capable as the heroine, "Bossy" Brander. The others in the large cast give no cause for complaint, if one adopts the minor stock company point of view.

The production takes on a touch of glamor by its use, in the third act, of a fine, large tapestry of Westlake design, with the story of Noah as its them. Probably the WPA administrators are unaware of the fact that this impressive array, which came out of the storeroom of the Blackstone theater, was once the property of Anna Pavlowa, the ballerina international fame.

Mary Louise Hays Will Be April Bride

Engagement Is Announced at Luncheon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

YESTERDAY at a small luncheon at home, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde T. Hays of Laurel avenue, Wilmette, announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Louise, to Alan M. Ferguson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Ferguson of Wesley avenue, Evanston. Miss Hays, a provisional member of the Chicago Junior league, was educated at the Roycemore school in Evanston and Connecticut college at New London. She has one sister, Virginia, who is younger and is attending Northwestern university this winter.

Mr. Ferguson is in business in Richmond, Va., and after he and Miss Hays are married next month they will live there. He attended the Hill school and is a graduate of Yale university. His brother, Louis A. Ferguson Jr., and his wife, the former Virginia Cooke, live in Lake Forest, and he has another brother, Arthur, who lives in Winnetka.

Miss Hays and Mr. Ferguson plan to be married the middle of April, perhaps on the 15th, which is Mr. Hays' birthday. The wedding will take place in St. Mary's church in Evanston, but that is about the only detail that is settled as yet. Miss Hays has just returned from a visit in the east with Mrs. John Hubbell, the former Ruth Seanor of Evanston.

Dog Has Title Role in Junior League Play.

A dog plays the title rôle in "Mr. Dooley Jr.," the forthcoming production of the Junior League Children's theater, and so try-outs are being held tomorrow morning at the league's workshop on North Dearborn street to find a canine actor. It must be a small dog and an obedient one, for he will be on the stage in most of the scenes, and will have to lie quietly in a basket through the entire first act.

Miss Frances Weary is hoping that Sandy, her pet Dandie Dinmont, will get the part, and Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Miss Margaret Wilder, Mrs. John H. Noyes, and Miss Peggy Wiley are entering their wire haired terriers. Mrs. Robert Curtis' cocker spaniel and Miss Helen Bell's West Highland terrier also will be contenders for the rôle.

The comedy is being presented on Saturday afternoon, April 11, and on five successive Saturdays at the Historical society under the direction of Edwin Rice, who also directed the league's production of "Peter Pan" in 1934.

Utley Will Lecture at W. A. C. Today.

Clifton Utley will give the second of a series of lectures on current world affairs at 11 o'clock this morning at the Woman's Athletic club.

Miss Florence Bartlett, Mrs. William N. Pelouze, Mrs. George W. Dulany Jr., Mrs. Arthur Small and Mrs. Ralph Greenlee will pour at a tea the Association of Arts and Industries will give today from 4 to 6 o'clock on the fifth floor of 700 North Michigan avenue. The tea will open an exhibition of Guatemalan textiles and costumes collected by Ruth Reeves under the auspices of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, D. C.

Bennett school alumnæ in and near Chicago will give a tea today for Miss Johnston, the registrar of the school, at Miss Veronese Beatty's studio, 139 East Ontario street. Among the former Bennett girls who will act as hostesses are Mrs. Samuel C. Pirie Jr., Miss Frances Weary, Mrs. William R. Abbott, Mrs. John B. Barnes and Mrs. William J. Lawlor Jr.

THIS story is vouched for by Melville Kolliner, president of the South Side Real Estate board. A young fellow obtained his first job selling advertising in a magazine devoted to music. His first prospect was an advertising agent and, although he was nervous, he managed to give his sales talk without overmuch stammering.

"How much circulation has your magazine?" inquired the agent.

"Two thousand a month," the novice replied.

"Young man," said the agent, "I can see that you are new to this game and do not know all the tricks. Nobody will believe you when you give the actual circulation of your magazine. In order to offset that disadvantage what you must do is double your figure."

"What!" cried the young man, "Again!"

WHEN Elizabeth Drew, English writer, author of "The Modern Novel" and "Discovering Poetry," took luncheon with Mrs. Quincy Wright and Mrs. Cecil Barnes at the Friday club last week, the place of women in literature was touched upon. It was agreed that certainly there were no discriminations against women and that, in the fields of poetry and fiction, women possibly wrote as many or more books than men.

The report of this conversation led to a desire to get actual figures on the number of books written by women as compared with men. Only where best sellers are concerned are such figures immediately available, we discovered, and there men are running far ahead of women. According to the booklisting department of Publishers' Weekly, in 1933, 4 women and 16 men wrote best sellers in America; in 1934, 6 women and 14 men; and in 1935, 4 women and 17 men.

A coterie in Evanston is enthusiastic about fencing, both for fun and for exercise. They wear, neither the satin blouses of the Gibson girl pictures nor the starched canvas jackets and plaited skirts sometimes worn for modern day fencing, but white slacks and sweat shirts. And they neither chalk their foil buttons, nor use the three pointed prong that catches in blouse or jacket in the point d'arrêt in epee fencing. They use lipstick. Thus every touch is unmistakably registered on the white sweat shirts.

LAST Wednesday evening Kate Smith announced to her radio audiences that the safety medal given by the Chicago Safety council had been awarded to the drivers of her sponsor's trucks. She added some details as to how many trucks they had in operation and that during the bad weather there had not been an accident involving a personal injury. Then she started to sing: "I've got my fingers crossed . . . I'm afraid it's too good to be true," she crooned.

Yon Oratorio and Choir Win Large Audience

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Cardinal's Cathedral choristers, under the direction of the Rev. Dr. Edwin V. Hoover, left the familiar surroundings of Holy Name cathedral and Quigley Preparatory seminary last night to make their first appearance in a downtown auditorium. The occasion was the Chicago première of "The Triumph of St. Patrick."

Pietro Yon, composer of the oratorio and organist of St. Patrick's cathedral in New York, had made a trip west to hear this performance, and was in the large and friendly audience in Orchestra hall that received the efforts of choir, orchestra, soloists, organist, and conductor with enthusiastic applause.

"The Triumph of St. Patrick," an oratorio in three parts, uses the spoken word, recitative and chorus to tell the story of the missionary from the time of his early manhood, when he was a slave in Ireland, to the successful issue of his labors in the Christianizing of Ireland. Yon employs a considerable instrumental force as well, and uses it not only to accompany the vocal parts of the score, but also as an independent commentator on the emotional sequences of the story.

The music is interesting for the variety of its moods and the power and surety of its climaxes. The composer keeps for the most part to the traditional harmonic schemes. A successful detail of his treatment is the deft employment of ecclesiastical cadences in passages whose mystic beauty can be heightened by their use.

The oratorio is difficult musically. An infinite variety of tempos, several lightening segues, and some intricate polyphonic choruses made of the work a welcome test of the musicianship of last night's forces.

"The Triumph of St. Patrick" is in dramatic form, with singers assigned to the various characters of the story. This difference in construction from the ancient classical oratorio added still further to the ardors that must be braved if the performance is to have the swiftness and conviction that a successful presentation of the work demands. The various elements of the drama were knit into a smooth whole last night.

There was an ovation at the conclusion of the work when Pietro Yon was called to the stage for a bow.

The principals in the performance, aside from Father Hoover, were Sidney Rayner, who sang the part of St. Patrick, Eleanor La Mance, cast as the angel; Mary Gruszczynski, and Leonard Huber, who took the rôles of two of Patrick's converts. The vocal narrators, who also took important incidental parts, were Luigi La Monaco, Robert Marco, and John Patrick. The spoken passages were the charge of George Krebs.

The performance was sponsored by the Holy Name cathedral and Old St. Patrick's church. The general chairman was Dr. John J. Killeen.

ENGAGEMENT

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

"The Music Goes 'Round" is a combination of charm and boredom.

It has several stirring and unusual episodes, a great deal of excellent acting—some of the best being in "bit" rôles—and considerable catchy music.

But it is plethoric with incident, and there are moments when it seemed to me that the genial and magnetic Mr. Richman sings a bit off key.

Never, I suspect, has a freak popular melody been touted as has been "The Music Goes 'Round." In the film you are introduced to its composers, Ed Farley and Mike Riley, who demonstrate—at length—how they push the first valve down and make the music Yoo-hoo—come out here. They sing it. And Mr. Richman sings it. And Michael Bartlett arias it. And then an audience community yowls it—and by the time they're all through your eyes are slits and your teeth are grinding, and you feel that if you ever hear the darned thing again you'll go NUTS . . .!

That's some of the boredom. More of it has to do with the prolonged and repeated scenes of a play given by a showboat company.

The charm? Ah, don't forget—Mr. Richman is the hero. Miss Rochelle Hudson is the heroine. Mr. Walter Connolly is present. Then, there is the part where Mr. Richman, singing and cavorting with all the zest and this, that an t'other of a navy band drum major, leads a motley crowd, fired by his own enthusiasm, down a village street to the showboat, where the Courtney Players have been hoping for but not expecting an audience to witness their performance of "Love Conquers Pride."

This is really lovely!

The story? O, a popular, musical comedy star takes a vacation, finds a stranded showboat company about to give up the ghost, and becomes its "angel." Without straining the brain too much you can guess who's responsible for his sudden determination that all shall go well with the Courtney Players. All of whom, I may as well tell you, he finally lands in a Broadway revue.

See you tomorrow.

Edwina Booth at Vienna to Seek Cure of Fever

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Edwina Booth, 23 years old, blonde star of "Trader Horn," today entered a Vienna institution for treatment of tropical diseases, seeking to completely cure the fever she contracted four years ago in Africa while filming the picture, according to Emil K. Ellis, her New York attorney. She has been under treatment in London. A $1,000,000 suit which she brought against M.-G.-M., producers of the picture, was settled out of court.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A tip to the woman who has a bad cold or is recovering from one and finds her skin unbearably dry: Have a professional beauty treatment, with rich creams or oils worked into the skin for an hour or more. It has an immediate softening effect!

We were startled the other day when a woman asked us to write something about overcoming dry skin. It seems to us we hit this subject about every third day. But it does seem that the drys outnumber the oilys to a tremendous degree and we can't hand out hints on beating dryness too often to suit our customers.

The causes of dry skin are numerous. Beating the cause is the solution, of course, but many women seem to discount cause completely and dash haphazardly toward cure. As we've said before, climate has a lot to do with it. Cold wind and steam heated rooms do their bit toward drying the epidermis. Also—and this sounds fantastic, but we think it's true—nerves have a lot to do with it. Most jittery women, the ones who have nervous indigestion half the time and worries about one thing and another the rest, have dry skins. Too harsh soaps contribute to dryness. Diet does, too. If we American women consumed olive oil and butter as women of some other countries do we'd have less swish silhouettes, but oilier skins.

If you're a dry skin sufferer give some thought to the cause in your particular case. You're the one to figure out what it is. Correct it, or try to. Then go after the external assistance. Tissue creams, heavy cleansing creams, softening oils all help. If you give them a chance, that is. If you do what you should do only in spasms you won't accomplish much.

But there is one external aid that a lot of women could resort to but don't, and that's the professional beauty treatment. March into your favorite beauty shop when the skin gets too lethery—or preferably before—and ask for a facial to conquer dry skin. You'll be amazed at how much more effective a professional treatment is than your feeble attempts at home. Just recently we did this ourselves when a bad cold had made our skin blotchy and peeling. A thirty minute treatment with a large quantity of cream worked in transformed the washboard effect into satiny smoothness. You try it, if you're desperate, as so many recently recovered cold victims seem to be.

Special Squad

By Courtney Ryley Cooper

SYNOPSIS.

Inspector Sandy Ross of the department of justice and Special Agent Buck Wasey travel by motor from Reno to Vinton City in search of information on Sociable Joe Willis, suspected of assisting in armored car robberies. A collision of two cars on a mountain road brings Jane Bronson into Sandy's life. But when she learns his identity she vanishes. A letter from Sociable Joe had brought Jane to Vinton City to plead with her brother, Lee, known there as Ray Hammer, to give up his gang connections. When she tells him about the special agents he agrees to leave with her immediately. They drive away in a cream colored car and Lee deliberately runs down Sociable Joe. Sociable Joe admits serving time for killing his wife, but denies knowing Jane Bronson or Ray Hammer.

INSTALMENT XIV.

THE MOB.

"Got a line on her?" the Texan asked hopefully. Sandy Ross shook his head.

"Not a word. Every office in America's watching for that car and using the help of police radios. Nothing has turned up. Just the same, I don't think she'll do any talking with a gang—for the simple reason that I don't believe she belongs to one."

"The evidence is all against that."

"Maybe so——and we've got to count her as a moll until it's proven differently. I think that'll happen."

A slow grin crossed the older man's face.

"Haven't gone soft, have you, Sandy?"

"I? Soft? Why?"

"You sort of liked that girl."

There was no denial. Instead, the inspector rose and began a pacing journey about the room.

"Yes, I did," he admitted. "That isn't all. I still do. I'm not arguing against her. I liked her——any fellow's got a right to do that. Maybe I've been fooled. That's happened before."

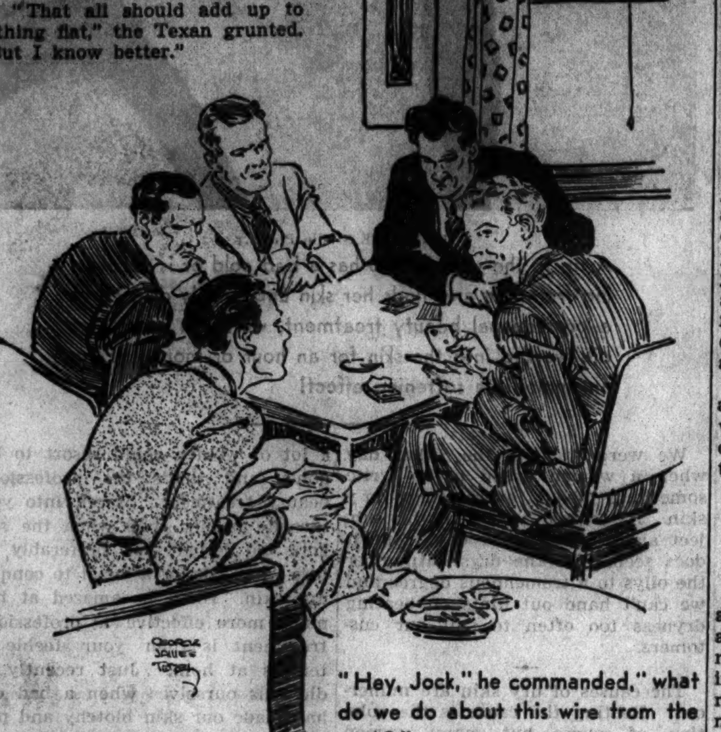
"It's happening right now," snapped Buck suddenly.

"With that girl?"

"Maybe—I don't know. But there's Sociable Joe. Why don't we put him in? Say-y, down in Texas—"

"Yes, I know. But this is up in Nevada. And we're working for the Federal Bureau of Investigation that wins 95 per cent of the cases it takes to court. We're supposed to be super-manhunters. So——" he shrugged his shoulders— "I didn't arrest Sociable Joe."

"That all should add up to nothing flat," the Texan grunted. "But I know better."



"Hey, Jock," he commanded, "what do we do about this wire from the punk?"

"Sure. It adds up to just this," the inspector said brusquely, "half the cases in this country are muddled because officers arrest first and investigate afterward. Suppose we took Sociable Joe in. The first thing we knew the newspapers would have it—and tip off the rest of this crowd to hit for a cooling-off joint. Secondly, we'd get nothing—the fellow's determined not to talk. So we let him stay free—and if the men we've got watching him don't flop on the job, that old fellow's going to lead us somewhere."

"Yeh, he's too anxious to protect somebody. If somebody ran me down and I knew this somebody's name, I wouldn't be anxious to cover up for him."

"And he's lying when he says he doesn't know who did it," added the inspector. "He knows the man in that car and knows Jane Bronson too. Someway or other, he'll try to get word to them that they're in danger. And that's why he's free. I've got all avenues of communication—wire, telephone, mail, personal message—covered. We'll get somewhere, Buck."

"Yeh, if we ever stop standing still," the older man grunted. "Sometimes I wonder how I ever learned this new fangled game. Look up this, look up that, spend days checking a long distance telephone call, more days finding out every relative that a suspected person ever had—it gets you crazy waiting for something to happen. Worries a fellow. Worries him to beat hell. Wake up in the night, thinking about it! Now down in Texas—"

"Yes, I know, you'd jump on a horse and chase Sociable Joe down and take him to the calaboose. But Sociable Joe isn't important in this picture right now, except as a messenger boy. And messengers can't work if they're locked up in a cell.

It happened incidentally, that other persons that night were interested in a messenger—one of the routine sort, who had delivered a telegram to a house of well-groomed surroundings on one of San Francisco's many hills, received the necessary signature and gone whistling upon his way. The young man who had answered the bell had joked with him and given him a quarter—something not highly unusual for a neighborhood of this type. Besides messengers are not supposed to ask questions nor look behind tips. He easily could have made himself a hero by peering into the cause of this one.

Five men were in the living room of this well furnished house. Red-tipped cigaret butts in the ash trays told of the recent presence of women; numerous glasses also gave evidence of their recent presence. All that, however, was over by this time. The Lurch-McKeevor mob did not believe in trusting itself to permanent molls. Jimmy Lurch often remarked that "if they don't know nothing, they can't tell nothing." Women therefore were obtained haphazardly, met, enjoyed and left without the necessity of revelations concerning the life, habits, mode or means of living of the crisp talking young men into whose company they fell. Jimmy Lurch often remarked that a sap and his moll are soon parted, usually by a bunch of cops and a district attorney.

Not a bad looking group, this bunch of young fellows who sat around the living room, four playing bridge, and the fifth merely stretched in comfort in a big chair, folding and refolding the telegram which he had just received. All were clothed expensively and with a conservatism which bespoke good tailors. At last the man in the big chair straightened. His dark, sharp-cut features displayed a slight degree of impatience.

"Hey Jock," he commanded, "what do we do about this wire from the punk?"

Jock McKeevor turned with some irritation. A person of about thirty, with curly blond hair, wind blown features, strong shoulders and rangy frame, he seemed more fitted to a horse than a chair at a bridge table.

"Wait 'til I finish this hand, Jimmy," he said. "I've bid six spades."

"Six spades, huh?" Jimmy Lurch rose from his chair, to take a kibitzer's seat at the bridge game. Silence followed. The bid accomplished, Jock McKeevor stretched and reached for a cigaret.

"Well, if you ask me," he said casually. "What I'd do with that punk is pick myself a good dark night and bump him off."

Jock's bridge partner looked up from shuffling the cards.

"Why rub him out?" he asked.

"Yeh, why go to all that trouble?" queried one of the opposing players. He was a short man, with dark brows which met over a big nose.

"Why not?" asked Jock McKeevor. "We're doing all right, the five of us, aren't we?"

Jimmy Lurch straightened his tie. Jimmy liked clothes—gray drape suit, coral shirt, maroon and black striped four-in-hand, black silk pocket handkerchief with white edging.

"Sure, we do fine, up at the ranch, or laying around the house here, like this. But what if we decide to pull off that job here next Tuesday? Who wheels a baby carriage down the street with a typewriter in it? Maybe Fuzz would look good at that."

"I'm too fast," grinned Fuzz. He was the one with the big nose.

"Or Slanty Race—" Jimmy glanced at the somewhat cadaverous young man who was Fuzz's partner. "A cop would look at them big feet and think ferry boats ran on dry land."

Jock McKeevor began picking up the new hand which was being dealt him.

"O, the punk's good at putting on his act," he agreed. "But why not have a real dame—"

"Now we got the real reason," Fuzz laughed. "Jock wants himself a moll."

"Nuts to that," snapped Jock's partner.

Biscuit Dough Ready Mixed Is Busy Day Boon

BY MARY MEADE.

Tuesday, according to some statistics we recently ran across, it is more likely to find housewives at home than any other day in the week. So trusting to find you at home we want to tell you [or remind you] of a fine bit of food insurance for those days when you're rushing home from shopping, a matinée, or bridge party to toss together a hurried dinner.

Taking out a policy for said insurance is simple enough. The idea is to have a comfortable supply of ready made biscuit mix on hand. Yessum, you can make your own mix [seems a lot of women find this a new one] or you can stock it in commercially packaged lots, and with either kind you're prepared to turn out biscuits, shortcakes, waffles, dumplings, muffins, fruit cobblers, meat pies, quick coffee cake—dozens of baked beauties at a moment's notice!

If you haven't known the hows of a homemade biscuit mix before, you'll want that first. And then we'll include the general plans for making the variations.

Homemade Biscuit Mix.

8 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup baking powder
4 teaspoons salt
1½ cups lard

Sift the flour and measure. Sift again twice with the baking powder and salt. Cut in the lard until the mixture has a fine, even crum. Place in a closed container and keep in the refrigerator, using as desired. The mix will keep for at least a month and yield five 2-cup batches.

To make regular hot biscuits from the mix all you need to do is to stir in milk to make a dough, knead it lightly for half a minute, and roll or pat it into shape. For drop biscuits add milk to make a soft, sticky dough and don't knead—merely drop by spoonsful on a baking sheet. Bake as usual in a hot oven.

For meat shortcakes or as a biscuit crust for meat pies the mix asks no addition other than the liquid. Bake it on the waffle iron for biscuit shortcake waffles if you like. When it's a fruit shortcake add a tablespoon of sugar to every cup of the mix and add top milk or thin cream in place of the milk as liquid.

For waffles [not the biscuit kind] here's the procedure: Combine 1 beaten egg, 1 tablespoon melted shortening, and ¾ cup of milk. Stir into 1 cup of biscuit mix, beat well, and bake until brown and crisp in a hot waffle iron.

Approximately the same procedure holds good for muffins. Combine 1 beaten egg and 1 cup of milk. Mix 2 tablespoons of sugar with 2 cups of biscuit mix. Stir the two mixtures together lightly until the dry ingredients are just moistened. Turn into greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

Dumplings for stew or with a fruit sauce are equally simple. Make a drop biscuit dough from the mix, drop by spoonsful into boiling stew or a pan of boiling fruit sauce, cover, and steam for 15 minutes without lifting cover.

The variation possibilities are endless. Patted into a shallow cake pan and topped with a streusel topping the mix biscuits become a quick coffee cake. Rolled with brown sugar and pecans, sliced and baked—presto! Speedy pecan biscuits!

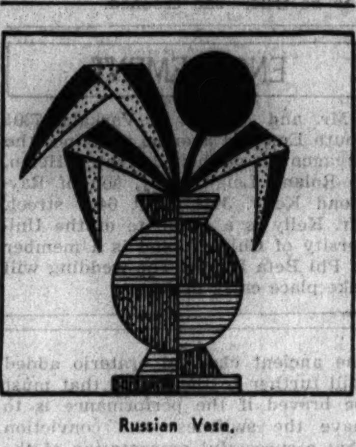
Quilt Motif Is Unusual Flower from Manchuria



Russian Vase.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The thoroughly modern bloom in "Russian Vase" is a peculiar genus, from Manchurian provinces, which has long, swordlike leaves, half red and half blue, with the further peculiarity that the half which is red on the top surface of the leaf is blue on the underside. The blossom is red and round like an apple. The "Russian Vase" is a reproduction of an antique, with print material used to stimulate the jewels and engravings of the original.

Writer Dudley Nichols Tells Why He Refused Award from Academy

Hollywood, Cal., March 9.—[Special.]—Dudley Nichols, whose screen script of "The Informer" won a gold statue given for the year's best movie writing at last week's annual meeting of Motion Picture academy, today issued a statement explaining his refusal to accept the award.

Explaining that he was an organizer of Screen Writers' guild, which was formed because of differences with the academy, Nichols said, "to accept would be to turn my back on nearly 1,000 members of the Writers' guild. It would go back on convictions honestly arrived at."

Director Frank Capra, head of the academy, said "membership in the academy has no connection with an award and never has. Dudley Nichols' award will stand, even if he does not accept the statue which is merely the symbol of the award."

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Few contract bridge players, even in the expert class, realize the significance of even a slight change in their bidding habits. To alter the requirements for a single bid may affect the entire structure of bidding, from opening one-bids to grand slams. For example, the minimum honor trick strength required for an opening suit bid was changed, in 1935, from two and a half honor tricks to three honor tricks. This seems simple, yet its effects were manifold. Many responses which previously had been only semi-forcing [such as the one-over-one and the two no trump take-out] automatically became absolutely forcing.

Bridge players will find that the new "asking bid," which has had such an enthusiastic reception, will be more than an addition to their bidding system. It will react in hundreds of ways on all bids. Especially it will take the bidding of freaks and "swing hands" out of the classification of guesswork and give to slam bidding on these unbalanced types of hands an uncanny precision.

Ounce of Prevention.

"To every action there is an equal and positive reaction," say the school books. Good players know that every informative bid is valuable in two ways: When a player makes the bid he shows certain specific strength, when he fails to make the bid he denies this strength. Negative inferences have long been a major consideration in expert bidding.

The "asking bid" makes it possible to obtain this negative information without the need for drawing fine inferences which only the best players can be expected to draw. The following hand, played in a team-of-four match at Crockford's in New York, illustrates the use of the "asking bid" to avoid reaching a losing slam. It also shows how, in order to lay the groundwork for his "asking bid," a player first made a bid which a short time ago, he never would have made.

The bidding [North-South vulnerable] would, before the introduction of "asking bids," have lured North and South into a losing small slam. In fact, the team-of-four which, in the match at which this hand was dealt, did not use the "asking bid" reached six spades and went down one. Their opponents, using "asking bids," stopped at five spades and made it, gaining 750 points.

Where the "asking bids" were not used, East, the dealer, passed. South bid one spade, West passed, and North bid three hearts. South bid three spades and North four no trump. Now, when South bid five spades, North decided that the chances of South's having at least the diamond king were so great that he would risk a six spade bid. West opened the king and ace of diamonds, and it was all over.

The other North-South pair used the "asking bids." South opened with one spade, as at the other table, but North, wishing to confirm the trump suit in order to make an "asking bid" later, gave him a jump raise to three spades. South bid four spades, which usually closes the bidding. Any further bid by North is considered a "trap."

In this case North gladly trapped. He bid five diamonds, an "asking bid," to find out whether or not South had the diamond king, or a singleton in diamonds. South, using the conventional signoff, bid five spades to deny second round control of diamonds, and North passed. When West took his two diamond tricks he was through for the day.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I understand that the dealer always has the right to shuffle the deck last, no matter how many times it has been shuffled before. Suppose the cards are cut before the dealer has had a chance to shuffle. Does he lose his right to shuffle?

Answer: The dealer always has the right to shuffle the cards before he starts to deal. If they have been cut he may shuffle them nevertheless, but must offer them for a cut after he is through shuffling.

School Should Stimulate Child to Speculation

Independent Thinking Its Most Vital Lesson.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Our children, as they study their various subjects in school, should be stirred and stimulated to think—should be made eager to know. Here are some random quotations from a young student's remarks one evening as he closed his books:

"That Egyptian civilization must have been a weird civilization, mustn't it? I sure would like to know how things are going to work out. I mean what civilization is going to come out on top. I wonder if it will be anything like the old Egyptian civilization . . . or whether Mongolian hordes will develop a form of civilization that will lead the world . . . or whether the white races and a civilization something like ours will win out.

"I wish they'd invent something so that I could live long enough—hundreds of years—so I could see what's going to happen—yes—maybe so I'd be able to see after I die.

"What? Yes, I like history now—it gives you explanations of why things are as they are—and makes it possible to predict how they will be. It makes you think, too . . . gives you a background for things."

Parents are helped to understand the complexity of their young people by reading our fully written booklet, "Understanding the Adolescent." It will be sent out on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Found! Tailored Robes for Gals—in Men's Shops

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's all ridiculously simple, if you yern for tailored robes, for lounging or travel, or for that busy half hour in the morning when you dash about dressing and sipping the coffee and orange juice. The easiest place to find them is in a shop for men. We bumped into some stunning new models as we hurried through such a shop on our way for other more feminine loot, but we had to stop and snoop and question.

If you've dreamed of thin, amazingly soft silk foulards made with a swanky simplicity, with a shawl collar that fits supersmoothly, with the three regulation pockets, one on the chest, the other pair on the hipline, sleeves that are curved, cut and cuffed as only such masculine numbers can boast, a simple tie sash belt, these are the beauties you've been hoping to find. The materials are perfect, small all-over patterns or designs, grand colors, deep maroon, a bright red with precise beige and blue designs, some good looking greens and a medium blue mixture with the ever smart white dotted affairs against dark backgrounds.

No wonder the men buy them and wear them for years, for they do take the abuse of lounging better than anything yet discovered. Besides that, they are comfortably large and well designed so that you can slip them over underlayers and still stay slim.

Price tags are just as easy to take as the robes.

The colors will make you believe in spring without hearing the first robin or seeing green grass. Enthusiasts for strictly man-tailored robes will start a good rush for these unusual featherweight models before the limited supply runs out. They are, unquestionably, the slickest, slimmest tailored robes unpacked for spring shoppers.

Ann Harding Claims Bannister Seeks Cash in Custody Battle

Los Angeles, March 9.—(AP)—Ann Harding's lawyer charged in court today that her actor ex-husband, Harry Bannister, had demanded money from the blonde film actress under threat of publicly scandalizing her.

Roland Rich Woolley made the charge at a hearing on Miss Harding's petition for permission to take her and Bannister's daughter, Jane, 7, to Europe with her this spring. The court granted the permission.

In an affidavit Miss Harding charged Bannister only conditionally assented. She predicted he would "continue to annoy and harass" her until she "accedes to his demands for money," although she said she "has never paid one cent of tribute" to him.

The custody decree requires Bannister's consent to take the child out of California.

Bannister agreed to the trip on condition he could have the child at his Stewartsville, N. J., farm for three weeks before the trip and three weeks upon her return.

Judge Lewis Howell Smith denied this request.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

If you have been looking for something decidedly individual in a sport frock, your search is ended today. This slenderizing dress buttons from neckline to hem, the opening proceeding crosswise on the bodice, and continuing down the left side of the skirt. This frock scorns the idea of just two pockets, and adds a smart third one on the bodice. The sleeves may be long and full, or short and tailored. The neckline is plain to allow for your many moods in scarfs. The original of today's frock is created in coral pink rough cotton, and the scarf which embellishes the neckline adopts a Paisley pattern.

There is no sports fabric which is denied a fling at this model. Any of the smart rough cottons, linens, tub silks, and sheer woolens are meant for this frock. The material may be printed or plain, light or dark. The dress will be chic no matter what you select.

Style No. 2672 is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material for the short sleeved dress.

Women Over Forty Should Apply Makeup Sparingly

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

After 40, advises one authoritative makeup artist, go lighter on all makeup. The rich, ripe bloom is for youth. Age attempting it merely succeeds in exposing the cruelties of age, says our authority.

Have you ever sat across from a woman, obviously middle-aged, with hair bleached, eyes heavy with mascara, lids overladen with shadow, cheeks aflame, lips ditto, and tried to picture how the individual would look without all the effort at time-cheating? Time she doesn't cheat, you argue mentally. The eyelids look more wrinkled, the eyes more faded against that brittle hair and cheek coloring. "Somebody's poor forgotten mother," you challenge the caricature, or maybe you say: A civil war siren who refuses to grow old!

There's something tragic about the older woman who chooses to flaunt her wild false colors in the face of time. And you may be all wrong. The woman may be somebody's beloved mother in spite of her wayward makeup style. She may be the soul of respectibility, merely misguided in her makeup advice and hair coloring.

Indeed, it often requires a stout heart and a domineering will to resist the sales pressure behind cosmetics and the more a woman feels time is slipping, the more gullible she is likely to become. But there is the good old solace that every age has its own appeal and that of the forties is not the flamboyant thing of youth.

There's a gorgeous woman known to me who has striking silver hair and she rouges and powders and then takes a piece of clean chamois to rub down the made-up glow. Her skin looks more like a youngster's than that of a forty-odd. Around the eyes, particularly, she courts the slightly moist effect. Her lips are tinted a nice darkish blood tone. Of course, she takes remarkably good care of her skin and it looks it.

But a certain painted person reminds this woman that one must capitulate to age with graceful cosmetic use. It's an old reminder that if skin is lined, heavy powder use magnifies the lines into snow capped mountain ridges. Flaming rouge on a cheek even slightly withered accentuates the withers. Flamingo or its like in lip coloring, projects more boldly the age-puckering of the upper lip.

Whitney Tells New Stage and Film Projects

All Movies in Color in Five Years, Says Manager.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 9.—[Special.]—John Hay [Jock] Whitney made it known that his interest in the show business is serious and expanding, when he gave an interview about his movie and stage activities just before he and C. V. Whitney caught a plane for New York last night.

Jock Whitney intends to leave at once for England for a twofold purpose. In his capacity as turfman he wants to take one more crack at the Grand National in England. In his capacity as movie magnate he will consult Alexander Korda, the British producer-director, concerning plans for Whitney's movie corporation—Pioneer pictures—producing a couple of films in Korda's English studio.

Whitney returns to Hollywood late in April for the première of his pretentious color film, "Dancing Pirate." He will spend some time in New York before or after his trip to England, for he is at present reading several stage plays which he may decide to put on the New York theater to follow his current success, "Jumbo." Whitney is thinking of taking "Jumbo" on the road about May 1. If he does he will route his company about the country in a special train, and the show will be played in a big tent in the towns where it is billed.

Whitney has the biggest investment in color movies in Hollywood. His first one was "Becky Sharp." His second is "Dancing Pirate," and there will be a run of all color adventure movies and romances to follow these two. As to rumors that he is experimenting with three dimensional pictures, Whitney said, "Some one will have to show me something better along this line than I have seen to date."

Whitney has kept in constant consultation here with Merian Cooper, his chief adviser and manager in film enterprises, since Cooper's return, a few days ago, from a European trip with Mrs. Cooper [Dorothy Jordan].

Cooper said he and Whitney want to bring out a color film which will be a "highly imaginative fantasy"—something like "King Kong." "King Kong," by the way, was one of Cooper's ventures when he was connected with Radio RKO studio, and ranks among the eight best movie money makers since the start of films. There was some of Jock Whitney's money invested in it.

According to Cooper, the Whitney film firm [Pioneer] has one more film to put out for Radio release, and then will produce four films every year to be released through United Artists. All will be in color. "We are going to put actors and actresses under contract to form a studio stock company," Cooper said today, and declared that he expected to bring over a girl from Budapest who had recently impressed Miss Jordan and himself as a "find."

"We had intended to go right ahead with 'The Life of Custer,'" Cooper said, "but cannot do so because of unavailability at present of Director John Ford."

Cooper made these predictions: The cost of a color film will be reduced to equality with that of black and white in two years; all major films will be produced in color in three years; all films made will be in color in five years.

"The high cost of color now is almost wholly due to lack of operating experience," he said. "As the men gain experience, there will be less waste, and the present cost of the color print, which is 40 per cent above black and white, will drop away down, once volume is established."

Cooper looked at the "rough cut" of his company's color musical, "Dancing Pirate," with Whitney and they pronounced it remarkable.

"It is even better than 'Trail of the Lonesome Pine,'" Cooper said, his tone indicating all kinds of compliments for that color film which was produced by his rival, Walter Wanger.

Cooper spent a deal of his time on his European trip investigating foreign progress in color movies.

Tells Decline of Mae West at Box Office

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—Mae West is losing her box office attraction, Charles C. Pettijohn, counsel for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors' association, today told a house committee.

Testifying before an interstate commerce subcommittee in opposition to the Pettengill bill to prohibit "block booking and blind selling" of motion picture films, Pettijohn replied to criticism of Mae West films.

"Public taste is running away from Mae West so fast it is pathetic," Pettijohn said. "There is no comparison between her last picture and earlier pictures."

Pettijohn argued against the enactment of the Pettengill bill on the ground that it would destroy the present system of film distribution which he said made "the best efforts of Hollywood available to the smallest exhibitors."

The Pettengill bill would make it a penal offense to book blocks of pictures in advance of production without providing exhibitors with a synopsis. Supporting the bill are numerous women's organizations who demand that the exhibitor be given "selective powers" over the pictures he will show.

Appearing at the hearing in support of the bill was Stephen B. Cabot of Boston, vice president of the Motion Picture Research council, and Representative Francis D. Culkin [Rep., N. Y.].

Declaring the public would have a chance to obtain pictures to suit its taste if the local exhibitor were given a chance to select his programs, Cabot urged that "the stranglehold" of the Hollywood distributors on the industry be released.

The picture producers exercised an increasingly "overwhelming power over the exhibitors" from 1920 to 1930, said Cabot, and the influence of the local theater manager declined.

Cabot gave the committee his views of the effect of pictures on children and adults. As to adults, he said, it meant "an early sophistication, bewilderment, or moral obtuseness."

Cabot said the picture industry was "either insincere or unable to reform itself."

The Pettengill bill, he said, would break "the long distance censorship from Hollywood."

Pettijohn said he would bring some of Hollywood's producers to the hearing including Sidney R. Kent, president of Fox Films, and former Paramount executive.

"We don't make pictures in advance," Pettijohn said, "and we don't know whether it is going to be a good picture until it has played. The motion picture business is for mass entertainment and makes no pretense of working for education or religion."

Chester Davis to Speak in N. U. Lecture Series

Steps leading to the new agriculture program will be outlined by Chester Davis, administrator of the AAA, in a talk Thursday evening in Thorne hall on the McKinlock campus of Northwestern university. His lecture, "What Shall We Do About Agriculture?", will be the second of a series on present day problems sponsored by the University college.

Four-Piece Suit in Check and Plain, $29.75
Wear it four ways—checked topcoat, plain skirt and jacket; checked topcoat and skirt, plain jacket; topcoat and either skirt without jacket. Gray, blue, brown. 12 to 20.

Fur-Trimmed Dressy Swagger, $69.75

Suits, Fourth Floor.

Blouses That Are "Congenial" with the Selected Suits

A pastel crepe blouse with a dressy knife-pleated plastron companions the braid-trimmed suit. In white, aqua, rose, yellow. It the suit is chosen in brown, we suggest a yellow blouse. 32 to 38. $6.95.

A hand-made silk blouse, for the four-piece suit. Tailored lines, but its details are feminine. The suit in gray might take an aqua blouse. 32 to 38. Also white, blue, maize, beige. $6.95.

The dressy shirred neck blouse is perfect with the fur-trimmed suit. Crepe in coral, aqua, blue, white, Kelly green, gray, rose. Gray to match a gray suit, with contrasting accessories. 32 to 38. $6.95.

The bow neck crepe blouse "clicks" with the tailored suit. In white, rose, aqua, yellow. We recommend white with a navy suit. $6.95. If you wish to be strictly mannish, choose a striped blouse. 32 to 38.

Blouses, Fourth Floor.

Accessories Are Half the Costume This Season

As Vogue says, "Nothing is more deadly than a gray suit accompanied by all-gray or all-brown accessories—be a little reckless." This Spring two colors are smarter than one, and three are smarter than two. We have thought out for you one set of sparkling Spring accessories for each suit, but there are lots of other combinations equally as imaginative.

Suit No. 1—if chosen in brown—takes the suede Bing Bag ($5) and English suede pull-ons in rust ($3.50 pair). The bag also comes in navy, green, red. The gloves in Kelly, chaudron, sulfur, luggage tan.

The peach-basket hat tops the dressy braid-trimmed suit. Porte bonheur with pique. $7.50.

Suit No. 2—if chosen in gray—takes a roomy, soft calfskin bag ($5) and 6 button length fabric gloves ($1.95), both in luggage tan. The bag also in brown, black, red. The gloves in chaudron, red, gray, blue.

A felt hat that has helped itself to mannish details is a perfect choice for the 4-piece suit. $10.

Suit No. 3—in gray takes the Nat Lewis hook and eye bag ($10.50) and 4 button length doeskin gloves ($2.95 pair). The bag in black or navy blue. The gloves in green, gray, white; chamois color.

The visored toque, with French violets at the side, catches the spirit of the fur-trimmed suit. $7.50.

Suit No. 4—in blue takes a shiny gray patent leather top-handle bag ($5) and Elizabeth Hawes blue pigskin gloves ($3.95 pair). The bag and the gloves both come in a wide choice of other colors.

A perky sailor with ribbon streamers adds a festive note to the tailored suit. Felt, baku. $13.50.

Gloves and Bags, First Floor; Hats, Fifth Floor.

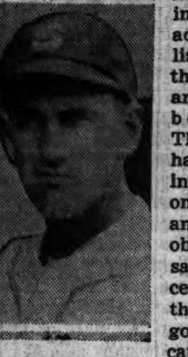
BEAR DOWN! IS DYKES ORDER TO SOX PITCHERS

Fun's Over; the Cubs Are Coming.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 9.—Manager Jim Dykes walked out among his boys on the training lot this morning and quietly advised all those listed as pitchers that the time had arrived to begin bearing down. Thus far they have been exerting their arms only on occasions and there was no objection to this safety first procedure. But now there is need of going to work because starting Friday at Los Angeles, the Sox will be engaged in a three game series with their old home town enemies, the Cubs.



LUKE APPLING.

Beating the Cubs never has been much of a problem for Sox teams, no matter how good the former or how weak the latter. Just now there is a double incentive attached to the task. Added pleasure would be derived from another successful foray against the National league team because the latter happens to be the possessor of the National league championship. Naturally Dykes is going to confront the Cubs with the best talent at his command.

Whitehead May Start.

Unless a better idea pops into his mind in the next three days, Dykes will open the series with John Whitehead, who may be permitted to linger for five innings. If he goes only three innings the next three will be taken care of by Monty Stratton, supposedly the prize rookie, and the last three by Red Evans, Ira Hutchinson, or Whit Wyatt. But Dykes' inclination will be toward Evans or Hutchinson, the idea being to ascertain how they operate against classy opposition.

Saturday's starter probably will be Vernon Kennedy, who, like Whitehead, did short effective stretches against Charley Grimm's performers last spring. Les Tietje, the problem boy of the staf, is counting on drawing the starting rôle on Sunday. Neither Kennedy nor Tietje will go more than five innings and possibly only three. Kennedy did a nose dive in the third inning against Seattle yesterday, but this caused no alarm. The ex-collegian simply lost control and walked six, a happening he attributes to being chilled by the cold wind while his mates were prolonging his inactivity by scoring seven runs in the first half of the inning.

Luke Gets the Works.

Luke Appling, the regular shortstop who didn't arrive in camp until Saturday afternoon and was somewhat surprised when Dykes made him play a few innings of yesterday's exhibition, took his first real drill today. And he wasn't treated lightly. Dykes told Luke in a kidding way he had to get even with him for refusing to sign his contract on time. Appling not only had to do a good bit of hitting and running today, but also had to take a hand in the infield practice. He must be ready by Friday. Luke complained that his legs didn't feel very strong, but Dykes' only reply was a good, hearty laugh.

Dykes now thinks his outfield against the Cubs, at least for the first game, will be made up of Rip Radcliff in left, Malin McCulloch in center, and Mike Kreevich in right. Kreevich played left yesterday, but right is his regular position. McCulloch played both right and center at Dallas last season. He broke in with four hits against an assortment of Seattle pitchers yesterday and this accounts for his getting on the list of probable starters Friday. Until the four hits were recorded, Dykes had counted on playing George Stumpf in center.

Change in Uniforms.

Dykes, who incidentally admitted his stomach trouble is less annoying than it was a few days ago, revealed today just how the Sox are going to dress for their season's debut at home. They'll be wearing white uniforms and white stockings, as usual, but there will be no fancy embroidered insignia on their shirts. The word "Sox," in black letters, will be the only ornament. Last year the home togs carried a large sized emblem and when the athletes began to perspire the ornament took on too much weight for comfort. Green windbreaks also have been discarded. They'll be blue with gray suede sleeves this year.

Vernon Washington of last year's outfield was too ill today to take part in the exercises. He remained in his room to nurse a cold, which he contracted before reaching camp.

Dodger Player Rents Apartment for His Pet Dog

Clearwater, Fla., March 9.—[Special.]—Oscar Eckhardt drove to the Dodgers' camp from his home in Ranger, Tex., with Mrs. Eckhardt today. They were accompanied by the outfielder's pet Belgian police dog, Ring.

"I'm sure Ring would have died had I left her home, so I brought her with me and she's going to stay," said the outfielder. "Ring just had her ninth birthday and every winter she helps me herd the cattle on my ranch."

Eckhardt is compelled to live in the hotel at which the Dodgers are quartered. He couldn't keep the dog in the hotel. He solved the problem by renting an apartment for Ring.

All Work, No Play Ordered in Cubs' Camp

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 9.—The calling off of today's scheduled intra-club game between the Cub Regulars and Yannigans resulted in a much more rigorous exercise program than that entailed in the playing of a contest. Three more days like today, the Cubs say, and they will be in shape to slaughter the White Sox, come the week-end.

A routine similar to today's, with no game, will be followed on each of the remaining days the champs are to spend on Catalina Island.

The cancelation, brought about by the fact that Stan Hack went to Sacramento yesterday on receipt of word that his mother had died, and Frank Demaree had departed a few hours earlier to be at the bedside of his father, who is gravely ill at Winters, Cal., was decided because Manager Grimm didn't have enough hands for two teams without using pitchers in fielding positions. The skipper made it known at the start of spring training that pitchers are to take no chances with their safety, and has stuck to the policy consistently by keeping them out of all games except when they were assigned to pitch.

French to Pitch First.

Mr. Grimm is making his plans for the White Sox series on the premise that Hack and Demaree will not rejoin the squad before Friday morning. If they are absent when the squad reaches the mainland Thursday evening, Gene Lillard, Los Angeles graduate and Coast league homer champ in 1935, will be assigned to play third base. Johnny Gill and George Stainback will alternate in left field, Demaree's position.

Larry French, who has been ahead of all athletes in condition since the camp opened on Feb. 21, has been selected to pitch the first five innings against the Sox Friday. Clay Bryant will display his fireball after Larry withdraws.

Bill Lee will start Saturday's game, and will be relieved by Shoun. Lon Warneke will start the Sunday game, but his reliever will not be named until later.

Wrigley May Appear.

There was a flutter of excitement about the island today as a result of rumors that President P. K. Wrigley will be here tomorrow to get his first 1936 peep at his baseball chattels. Some say the Wrigley debarkation will not be celebrated until Wednesday, however.

It is said that Mr. Wrigley will accompany the team on the trip to Florida. Other Cub executives, absent so far, are expected to join the team. Housing plans at Tampa are being made in anticipation of a group twice the size of that which has sojourned here, this despite the fact that several athletes now here never will reach Tampa with the team.

Manager Grimm, however, hasn't started to give much thought to the transcontinental trek. He is bent on licking the Sox, his determination in this matter being much greater than at any time since the abandonment of the fall city series after the Sox won the city championship in four straight in 1933. The Sox took the spring series last year.

3 GAMES TONIGHT MAY SHIFT SETUP IN HOCKY LEAGUE

Hawks Work Out to Meet Maroons Thursday.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks will indulge in considerable skating, checking, and shooting today, but their exercises will not be concerned with the standings of the National Hocky league, which this evening should undergo a number of significant revisions.

The Hawk activities scheduled for the Stadium by Manager Clem Loughlin will constitute the last lengthy drill session of the regular season, and will be of such a nature that they will amount to a full time, bona fide match. The Chicagoans will need all of the rehersal work they can get, for they close their home season against the world champion Montreal Maroons on Thursday night, and then embark on a four game road trip which would bode no good for any team, and which certainly will not allow for any strenuous pre-game antics.

Three Battles Tonight.

The aforementioned revision of the standings is more than likely in tonight's three scheduled games, which bring together the Maroons and Rangers at Montreal, the Red Wings and the Bruins at Boston, and Toronto and the Americans at New York. Seldom do three games hold so much for each of the victors in a single evening. With the Rangers, Bruins, and Americans it is a case of keeping heads above water in the struggle to reach the Stanley cup series. For the Maroons, Toronto and Detroit, all of them certain of playoff positions, it is a question of gaining first place, which is this year twice as valuable as heretofore.

Toronto is only a half game ahead of the Maroons in the international section battle for first place, and the Americans hold a lead of a game and a half on third place over the Canadiens in the same section. Detroit is now only one game up on the Hawks for first place in the American division, while the Bruins hold third place over the Rangers by one game. Thus it can readily be seen how a victory for any of the six would be highly acceptable now.

How Hawks Want It.

All of these arguments, of course, will work out in the Hawks' favor, if, say, Detroit were to lose to Boston and Montreal were to take the Rangers. This, of course, would hold Detroit's lead over them to one game, although Boston, by winning, could come within two games of the Hawks. A Ranger defeat would leave the New Yorkers still four games behind Chicago.

The immediate objective of the long drill today naturally will be that closing home duel with the Maroons, whom the Hawks and their goalie, Mike Karakas, had the pleasure of shutting out, 2 to 0, in their last meeting at Montreal.

Speaking of Karakas and shutouts, the Hawks now have the leading goalie of the league in Mike, who is ahead both in shutouts and in least number of goals allowed. The skinny youth who has been the standout rookie of the season has blanked nine teams, two more than Tiny Thompson, Boston veteran, and has permitted the puck to get by him only 76 times, two less than Thompson.

Thompson Leads Scoring.

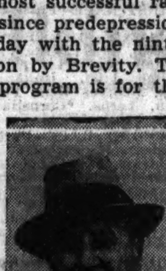
Another pleasing item is the fact that Chicago has the leading scorer in the American section, as well as the scoringest forward line in the entire league. Paul Thompson, the Hawks' hard shooting left wing, is leading all other American division sharpshooters with 37 points, only one more than his team mate, Doc Romnes. The line of Thompson, Romnes, and Mush March has accounted for 106 points. Sweeney Schriner of the Americans, who was held scoreless all last week, is the league leader with 41 points.

After the Maroon game Thursday night, the Hawks leave on the four game invasion which concludes their regular schedule. This includes visits to Boston on Sunday, Rangers on March 17, Detroit on March 19, and the Maroons on March 22.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

HIALEAH IN 1937.

MIAMI, Fla., March 9.—Hialeah closed its most successful racing season since predepression days Saturday with the ninth Florida Derby, won by Brevity. Todays' charity day program is for the benefit of a school for underprivileged children.



JOSEPH WIDENER.

Before the meeting ended, sponsors of the enterprise were so encouraged by current patronage and speculation that plans were launched for a "bigger and better" Hialeah in 1937.

Turfmen recognize that the general class of horses competing is determined more by the overnight purses than by one or two big stake offerings. However, a big stake has publicity value.

Hialeah interests admit the advertising attached to the Santa Anita handicap and will match it, in part, by raising the added money of the Widener Challenge Cup handicap at 1¼ miles from $10,000 this year to $50,000 next season. This action is expected to attract handicap horses of the aged division.

Other stakes, including the $20,000 added Florida Derby, which henceforth will be known by another name, will not be changed unless the black ink shows darker on the ledger than now indicated, but there will be at least $10,000 for the meeting added to the overnight purses.

In distribution of this added purse money, extra inducements will be offered for distance races. Joseph E. Widener, guiding spirit at Hialeah, is opposed to early racing of 2 year olds, but recognizes it as a necessary evil. No raises, however, will be made in daily purses for 2 year olds.

At the longer distances no purse of less than $1,000 will be offered for nags essaying to travel a mile. Thereafter there is a raise of minimum purses to $1,100 for a mile and one furlong, $1,200 for 1¼ miles, $1,500 for 1½ miles.

The Wake thoroughly approves this policy. There is no question the public likes longer routes with racing luck less likely to determine results. Foreign criticism of Yankee turf practices has been our tendency to cater to speed rather than stamina. Racing secretaries often have found trainers and owners loath to send their charges over the longer routes. If anything will stimulate them, it will be larger purses. We await the experiment with more than usual interest.

SAGILIO STOPS TOMMY CORBETT IN FIFTH ROUND

Frank Sagilio, Cicero junior welterweight, registered his second victory this year by scoring a technical knockout in five rounds over Tommy Corbett of Omaha at Marigold Gardens last night. The bout, booked for eight rounds, came to an end when Corbett's chief second tossed in the towel after the Omaha boxer had been floored three times. Sagilio weighed 140¼ and Corbett, 143¾. Tommy had Sagilio missing in the first three rounds, but in the fourth the Cicero slugger started to find the range.

Young Mickey Walker, the Iowa lightweight, added Billy Sullivan to his list of victims, beating the Milwaukee fighter in five rounds in the semi-final. George Dungey, Bloomington, Ill., beat Charley Popjoy, Tommy Howell, Danville, knocked out Tony Capone, Freeport, in the fourth round, and Al Pahl, Sioux Falls, S. D., and Harold Brown fought a draw.

NATIONAL INDOOR TENNIS TITLE WON BY MRS. VAN RYN

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. John Van Ryn's first quest for the national indoor tennis championship was crowned with victory tonight when she defeated Norma Taubele of New York in the final round of the tournament at the Seventh Regiment armory, 6-4, 6-3.

Forty-nine minutes after the match had started, the wife of the Davis cup internationalist was receiving the trophy from the hands of Walter Merrill Hall, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association. Mrs. Van Ryn, who resides in Philadelphia, succeeds Jane Sharp of Pasadena as the titleholder. Miss Sharp is now in the professional ranks.

Karle Schroeder of Sweden and Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., won the national doubles championship. The international combination vanquished Gregory Mangin of Newark and Johnny Van Ryn of Philadelphia, 6-3, 8-6, 6-2.

The tournament will be brought to a close tomorrow night with Mangin defending his thrice-won singles title against Leonard Hartman of New York, and Mangin and Mrs. Van Ryn opposing Schroeder and Mme. Sylvia Henrotin of France in the mixed doubles final.

PACK AND KEARNS DRAW 30 DAY BAN; OTHERS CLEARED

Board Acts in 'No Contest' Bout at Stadium.

Every one involved in the recent Lorenzo Pack-Cowboy Frankie Edgren fiasco at Chicago Stadium was cleared of violating any rules at a hearing conducted by the Illinois boxing commission yesterday afternoon with the exception of Pack and his manager, Jack Kearns. Both were suspended for thirty days, Pack for entering the ring out of condition and Kearns for allowing him to do so.

Referee Norman McGarity declared the Pack-Edgren bout no contest in the sixth round to the dissatisfaction of more than 10,000 fans in attendance.

"That decision stands," said Joe Triner, chairman of the commission. "It is official."

Lewis Voices Protest.

"It's ridiculous," retorted Nate Lewis, Stadium matchmaker. "The referee admitted that he had erred and yet he remains in good standing. Why should the decision stand? One don't have to look any further than Edgren to substantiate the fact that the bout was an honest one. Why, his face still displays wounds from the beating he was given."

Lewis charged that McGarity showed incompetence.

"It is a pity that we spend so much money to build up boxing only to have an incompetent official spoil our weeks of effort," he said. "It is unfair to the fans and our organization."

Two Judges Testify.

The referee and the two judges, Harry Hall and Ed Klein, testified. Kearns did not arrive until after the testimony was heard. Neither Pack nor Edgren was present.

McGarity was the first to be heard in the open meeting after he had conferred with Chairman Triner and Commissioner Packey McFarland behind closed doors. He admitted that he had made a mistake by interfering without first consulting the judges.

Judge Hall also expressed the belief that the only thing wrong with the fight was that Pack got tired early because he was unfit.

The other judge, Klein, admitted that he had marked his score card "technical knockout" in favor of Pack when the match was stopped.

McGarity Is Reprimanded.

The commission's statement, issued after an executive session, follows:

"The referee erred and violated the rules which provide that the arbiter must allow the round to conclude and then consult the judges before rendering a no contest decision. In the event the majority are of the opinion the bout is no contest, then it shall be so called. McGarity stands reprimanded.

"Pack was not in condition to do his best. He stands suspended for thirty days and he will not be permitted to box in this state until he is in fighting condition. Kearns is suspended for a similar time for allowing his fighter to enter the ring out of condition."

Kearns indicated after the decision was announced that he would ask the commission to reopen the case and hear witnesses who were not present yesterday.

WATTS GUNN IS ENGAGED TO WED PITTSBURGH GIRL

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The engagement of Jane Forrester, prominent in Pittsburgh social circles, to Watts Gunn of New York, one-time runner-up for the national amateur golf championship, was announced today. Miss Forrester is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Forrester of Pittsburgh, and Gunn is the son of former Judge and Mrs. Will Gunn of Georgia. Gunn was one of the sensations of golf in the early '20's. After winning the Georgia amateur title of 1923, he came on under the direction of his sponsor, Bobby Jones, until in 1925 he met Jones in the United States amateur final, losing 8 and 7.

Olympic Boxing Finals Booked in Stadium May 20

The finals of the United States Olympic boxing trials, which will be sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in place of the annual international Golden Gloves matches, will be held at the Chicago Stadium on Wednesday, May 20, Roy E. Davis, chairman of the Olympic boxing committee, announced yesterday.

The preliminaries will be held during the week of May 5 to May 10 at the International amphitheater, 43d and Halsted streets, in conjunction with the exposition of youth which will be staged by the National Youth administration.

The dates have been moved up from the original schedule to permit the winners of the National Collegiate Athletic association tournament, which will be held March 27 and 28 at the University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va., to compete without interfering with their college examinations.

The eight champions of THE TRIBUNE's ninth annual Golden Gloves tournament, winners and runners-up in the National A. A. U. tournament which will be held in Cleveland next month, and winners of tournaments sponsored by the army and navy, also will be eligible for the United States Olympic trials.

Joan Dempsey Guarded After Kidnap Threat

Atlantic City, N. J., March 9.—[Special.]—Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, was under a physician's care today as he revealed to his wife, the former Hannah Williams, receipt of a series of mysterious postcard kidnap warnings involving their 19 month old daughter, Joan. For three months the ex-pugilist, now operating a big New York café, fought to keep Mrs. Dempsey ignorant of the situation. But on the insistence of J. Edgar Hoover, head of the department of justice, Jack let the facts become known this morning.

The former actress accepted the alarming revelation bravely.

"Jack," she said, "I'm not afraid. Don't worry. But do take every precaution."

Assign More Agents.

Meanwhile, Hoover, following a telephone conference with Dempsey from the federal bureau of investigation headquarters in Washington, assigned additional agents to the investigation. An agent from the Trenton, N. J., office already had been detailed to protect Mrs. Dempsey and her baby. In addition, two Atlantic City detectives are maintaining a 24 hour a day watch in the lobby of the hotel.

Although Jack at times inclined to discount the warnings of a kidnap plot as either a hoax or the brainstorm of a crank, his whole attitude was one of serious concern. He admitted his hurried departure from New York early last Saturday was due to the fact that two of the warnings were mailed in Atlantic City Friday evening. He hired a local guard to accompany the little girl and her nurse on their boardwalk strolls.

The first postcard, signed "Just A Friend," was mailed to Dempsey's New York business address The other two, both postmarked Atlantic City, 5:30 p. m., March 6, were very similar in wording, but were printed instead of written in long hand.

Sends Warning to Hoover.

Dempsey, who tomorrow or Wednesday expects to conduct his wife and baby back to their apartment in Manhattan, declared he had sent the latest warning along to Hoover.

"Mr. Hoover called me this morning and said not to worry, that he'd do the worrying for me. He said to tell Mrs. Dempsey, so she'd be careful. But we've always been careful," Dempsey said.

Dr. Clarence Andrews, house physician, was called in to attend Dempsey last night, and again prescribed for him this morning. He described Dempsey's ailment as "nervous indigestion," believed due mainly to mental stress.

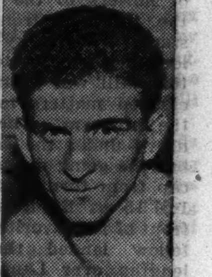
20,000 WATCH BOUTS; CROWD SETS RECORD

Eastern Team Meets Chicago March 23.

BY ARCH WARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—The tenth annual edition of the world famous New York Golden Gloves tournament was what Mae Tinee would call a four star production. More than 20,000 jammed into Madison Square Garden tonight to see sixteen young men of Manhattan battle for the right to meet Chicago's representatives in the same arena March 23.



MURRAY KRAVITZ.

The attendance and receipts of $46,526 set new records for the event. Everybody who was anybody and a lot who weren't turned out to cheer their favorites. Dowagers and debutants mingled soprano screams with the gutteral "Moider him, Joe" from the east side boys who packed the upper reaches of the Garden. Politicians and plutocrats, stars of stage and radio, the colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady all were there when the first pair entered the ring.

All Seats Sold.

The Garden probably never has handled as large a fight crowd. Standing room was permitted for the first time in the history of the tournament. All seats were sold several days ago. The demand for tickets almost equaled the rush attending Chicago's finals last Friday night.

The first surprise of the program occurred in the second bout when George Coyle, Radio City music hall usher, who whipped Patsy Urso in the inter-city bouts a year ago, lost a decision to Pete Scalzo in as brilliant a battle as you will find in any ring. Coyle, flyweight champion in 1935, moved up to the 118 pound class this year. Added weight cost some of his 1935 speed and he wasn't able to keep pace with his tireless foe.

Joe Wall, a 25 year old porter, succeeded to Coyle's flyweight throne by defeating Tony Palmara, a 23 year old PWA worker in the opening contest of the evening. Wall, who appeared to have left the Congo only recently, gave his opponent a terrific beating around the body.

Kravitz Beats Resinol.

The featherweight championship went to a lanky Irish kid named Austin McCann, who outlasted Mario Roberto, a jobless printing press operator in three dull rounds. The Garden was as quiet as a country churchyard during this bout.

The fans whooped it up again when Murray Kravitz, who won a decision from Lorenzo Lovings at Chicago Stadium a year ago, polished off Sal Resinal, captain of the Manhattan college boxing team, for the lightweight crown. Kravitz opened a cut over Resinol's eye in the first round and gave him a sound trimming in the second, but he was on the receiving end in the third nursing a badly cut right eye himself.

Vincent Pimpinella whipped Gus Balbach, a St. Mary's High school student, to win the welterweight title, but the margin was so close that it reminded this department of Chester Rutecki's victory over Johnny Barbara in the Chicago finals of the same division. The battles at this weight promise to produce the major thrills of the inter-city bouts two weeks from tonight.

Columbia Student Wins.

Columbia was the gem of the 160 pound class. Robert Burke, Columbia university student, gave Johnny Tate of Maris Stella K. of C., a sound drubbing in a match that was uninteresting to watch because both fought from a southpaw stance. Tate, a counter puncher, was too exhausted to offer real resistance in the final round.

Phil Ragozzino, who was knocked out by Clinton Bridges in the 1935 intercity show, dropped a decision to George Brothers, a colored boy from the Salem Crescent club, in the 175 pound finals. Brothers scored heavily in the first two rounds with devastating left hooks to the jaw, but was outpointed in the last session.

The decision was unpopular with the fans who hooted so loudly it was impossible to announce the following bout. Ragozzino is one of the oldest Golden Glovers in point of experience either New York or Chicago has had. He was New York's welterweight champion in 1931 and fought on the combined New York-Chicago team that defeated France in first international Golden Gloves match at Soldiers' field the same year.

The final bout of the evening brought together Jim Howell, 1935 heavyweight champion, who was whipped by Lorenzo Pack in last year's intercity, and Howard Baylor, both colored. Howell, showing more class than marked his work last year, knocked out his opponent in the second round with a right to the jaw.

NET $50,000 FOR CHARITY ON LAST CARD AT HIALEAH

Tropical Park Meeting to Start Today.

Miami, Fla., March 9.—[Special.]—With A. W. Abbott's Nightcap winner of the featured Hibiscus purse, the Hialeah meeting came to an end today with a benefit program which realized approximately $50,000 for charity, according to an estimate of Joseph E. Widener, president of the Miami Jocky club. Nightcap began a consecutive triple for Jocky Nick Wall, whose other winners were Mrs. W. E. Martin's Race Craft and W. H. Furst's The Hare.

Tomorrow at Tropical Park the 23 day session of the Gables Racing association will get under way with the Pan-American purse as the feature.

Women Sponsor Program.

Today's eight race program at Hialeah was sponsored by women active in society or on the turf. The sponsors were Mrs. Edgar A. Iglehart, Mrs. P. A. B. Widener II., Miss Mollie Cullum, Mrs. Dewitt Page, Mrs. John C. Clark, Mrs. Warren Wright, Mrs. Charles S. Romley, and Mrs. H. Teller Archibald.

Each woman presented a bouquet of flowers to the winning rider on the track in front of the judges' stand. Thus Jacky Wall began a collection when Nightcap got home first that still was going on as the rain clouded matters toward the end of the program. The track was very heavy under the continued showers, but the going did not prevent Nightcap from turning in a keen mile in 1:37 3-5 as he finished a length in front of the favorite Rushaway. That fellow landed the place by six lengths over Lancewood.

Longden Leading Rider.

Johnny Longden, who earned the gold watch as the prize to the leading winning rider of the meeting, had the leg up on Rushaway but could not get him home in front. Rushaway is the Haste gelding which was sold recently by Mr. Widener to A. G. Tarn. Tarn, who trains his own horses, was the winner of the third of the $500 prizes which the Miami Jocky club put up for trainers. Tarn also won the first of these prizes.

Favorites were badly knocked about during the afternoon, the first seven losing in succession. The meeting has been marked by very poor form for public choices, the percentage of winning favorites being only .27. Taking racing as a whole throughout the country, it is usual for about 40 per cent of the favorites to win.

Tintagel to Make Debut.

The meeting which will begin tomorrow at Tropical Park will be featured by six stakes, the main one being the $5,000 added Consolation stakes. Marshall Field's Tintagel, which was kicked when preparing for the Florida Derby, is expected to make his 1936 debut in the Consolation.

MEADE IS SUSPENDED

Miami, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Don Meade, cheered by thousands as he guided Broker's Tip to victory in the 1933 Kentucky Derby, today was barred from riding in Florida.

Meade was found by the State Racing commission to have violated the rule prohibiting jockies from being interested financially in horses other than their mounts.

Just exactly what the round-faced 22-year-old rider—six years out of Plankington, S. D., and one of the country's leading jockies—had done, the commission did not reveal in its announcement of the revocation of his license.

Any one of four offenses listed in the general rule might have been the one that brought the extreme action.

Just what effect the ruling would have on the E. R. Bradley contract jocky's riding in other states was not immediately known. Some members of the commission privately said it was fast becoming the general rule for extreme punitive measures of one commission to be accepted, after review, in other states affiliated with the National Association of State Racing commissioners, of which Walter Donovan, secretary of the Florida commission, is the president.

Tippy Dye Named Captain of Ohio State Basket Team

Columbus, O., March 9.—[Special.]—William [Tippy] Dye of Pomeroy, O., three sport athlete at Ohio State university, was made captain of the 1937 basketball team today. Dye, the smallest guard in the Western conference, was one of the standouts of the recent Big Ten season.

BOWLERS GATHER FOR TOURNAMENT AT INDIANAPOLIS

Annual A.B.C. Opens with Parade and Celebration.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 9.—(AP)—With a fanfare worthy of a hot election or the visit of a President, Indianapolis tonight welcomed the start of the month long convention of the American Bowling congress.

Red fire was set in the streets, gayly clad Rotarian and Kiwanian bowlers got in shape to open the competition by staging a parade through downtown thoroughfares, and Gov. Paul V. McNutt prepared to try for a strike with the first ball down the slick alleys at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Large Field to Compete.

It was a big time for the Hoosiers, welcoming back to Indianapolis what is said to be the world's largest sports event from standpoint of competitors. It is the first time the city has played host to the A. B. C. since 1903, when it entertained the third annual convention.

Then there were only 78 teams. This year there are 2,853 five man teams, 4,571 two man combinations, and 9,131 singles entries, over half of them coming from 28 other states, Canada, and Hawaii. The other half of the entry list is made up of Indianans, the majority of them the co-called "booster" teams who will break-in the alleys for the crack bowlers who will start pouring in Saturday and Sunday.

15,000 to Bowl.

From tonight until the last pin is knocked down the evening of April 14 some 15,000 bowlers will parade to the line to keep the alleys busy from early in the morning until late at night, an average of 400 a day.

N. U. AND DE PAUL FIVES SEEDED IN OLYMPIC MEET

De Paul and Northwestern are the seeded teams in the six that will compete in the fifth district Olympic basketball tournament to be held at the 132d Regiment armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, according to an announcement yesterday by A. A. Schabinger, head of the collegiate tournament committee.

The six finalists all hail from Illinois and Indiana, although Michigan and Ohio teams also were members of the Fifth district field, which was reduced in preliminary games at Indianapolis last week.

In addition to Northwestern and De Paul, the teams competing here will be Augustana of Rock Island, Ill.; Ball Teachers of Muncie, Ind.; Indiana State of Terre Haute, and Central Normal of Danville, Ind. Indiana State will battle Augustana in the opening game Thursday night, after which Central Normal will meet Ball Teachers.

In the two games Friday night, De Paul will meet the winner of Thursday's first game, and Northwestern will be matched against the victor in the second. The two survivors of the first two games then will meet in the final Saturday.

BIG TEN COACHES PUT HAARLOW ON ALL-STAR TEAM

Capt. Bob Kessler of Purdue, leading individual scorer with 160 points in the season just closed, was the only unanimous choice for the Associated Press' annual all-star Western conference basketball team, which was announced yesterday. The ten coaches of the Big Ten made the selections.

Kessler and Capt. Bill Haarlow of Chicago, former individual scoring champion, were chosen as forwards. Haarlow received nine first place votes. John Townsend, Michigan's star, was placed at center, while Vernon Huffman of Indiana, which tied with Purdue for the championship, and Tippy Dye of Ohio State were awarded the guard berths.

First and second all star teams follow:

FIRST TEAM.		SECOND TEAM.
Kessler, Purdue	F	Whitlinger, Ohio S.
Haarlow, Chicago	F	Gunning, Indiana
Townsend, Michigan	C	Thomas, Ohio State
Dye, Ohio State	G	Combes, Illinois
Huffman, Indiana	G	Malaska, Purdue

AL TODD CLAIMS ANY CATCHER CAN LICK DIZZY DEAN

He Did It with Only One Punch Himself.

San Antonio, Tex., March 9.—(AP)—Take it from husky Al Todd—who did it with one punch—Virgil Davis or any other big league catcher can whip Dizzy Dean.

"I don't think Diz really wants any part of Davis," Todd said today about Davis' threat to punch the St. Louis Cardinal pitcher's nose the minute he appears in training camp.

Dean, a holdout, replied that he would welcome battle. The trouble started when Dean complained about Davis' receiving.

They're Tough Customers.

"Most of the major league catchers are pretty tough and don't mind being knocked about a bit," Todd, Pittsburgh Pirates' catcher, said.

He hastened to explain that his experience was limited. He flattened Dizzy with one punch. That was in 1931 in a Texas league game at Dallas. Todd, Dallas catcher, got mad when one of Diz's fireballs came too close to his head. He rushed Dean, then pitching for Houston.

Just Like Joe Louis.

"I merely walked out and gave him one punch. Down went Dean and the war was over," Todd recalled.

PAUL MAY BE A COP.

Dallas, Tex., March 9.—(AP)—If the St. Louis Cardinals don't hurry the Dallas police department may sign Paul Dean.

Paul and his brother Dizzy sent their original pitching contracts back to the Cardinals with a demand for more pay. But the Cardinals so far haven't been able to see it that way.

Today Police Chief Bob Jones offered Paul a job on the force.

"I'm not worried about getting my salary demand," said Paul. "But I'm serious about the police job if I don't get it."

NEW OFFER TO HANK.

Lakeland, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Detroit Tigers' officials forwarded a new contract to their only holdout, Hank Greenberg, at his New York home today, describing it as "probably the Tigers' last offer." Manager Mickey Cochrane indicated substantial concessions had been made to the first baseman. Greenberg is said to have received $15,000 last year, and was offered $25,000 for 1936. He is said to have demanded $35,000.

CHAPMAN RETURNS CONTRACT.

Montgomery, Ala., March 9.—(AP)—Ben Chapman, New York Yankee outfielder, today announced he had returned unsigned the fourth contract proffered him. Chapman wants his 1935 salary of $10,000 hiked by $2,000 plus a bonus. Chapman said Ed Barrow, club secretary, had told him if the fourth contract was returned it would be the last and the center fielder might as well not report.

LEE TO RETURN HOME.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—With Holdout Hal Lee sitting in the stands, the Boston Bees worked out for a half hour today before a heavy storm interrupted practice. Lee explained he was waiting for the first train out for his home in Ruston, La., where, he claimed, he could make as much money as the Bees offered him. President Bob Quinn appeared willing to let him go.

FRISCH IS PLEASED.

Bradentown, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Back with the team after four games in Cuba, Manager Frank Frisch said he believed the Cardinals were "far ahead of any other club in either league in condition." He was "especially pleased" with the work of Pitchers Leroy Parmelee, Nelson Potter, and Mike Ryba. The Cardinals meet their first major league opposition, the Athletics, on Wednesday.

REDS OFF TO TAMPA.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—The fourth game of their series with the Philadelphia Athletics postponed by rain, the Cincinnati Reds left today for Tampa, Fla., where they will continue the training started in Porto Rico. The second contingent of Reds will leave San Juan by airplane Tuesday to join the group at Tampa.

MACKS LACK POWER.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Back in their home training camp after the victoryless series with the Reds, the Athletics looked over their shortcomings today. Connie Mack found that his rookies are weak both at bat and afield and that the club lacks power. Not enough men get on base.

PHILS INFIELD SPARKLES.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—The Phillies training camp today buzzed with praise for the new second base combination of Rookie Leo Norris from Minneapolis at shortstop and the holdover Mexican, José Gomez, at second. Manager Jimmy Wilson is about convinced his infield problem is solved. Norris has been particularly impressive, both afield and at bat.

BOKINA LOOKS GOOD.

Orlando, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—It begins to appear as if Joe Bokina's boyhood dream may materialize. As a youngster, one of Bokina's friends was the old pitcher, Jack Chesbro, who took him to games and promised, when Joe grew up, he would take him to Clark Griffith and get him a job.

Chesbro passed on, but Bokina, who was picked up by Griffith's Albany farm, reported to the Washington camp two weeks ago. He has looked so good Manager Bucky Harris has nominated him as starting pitcher for the regulars in the first game against the yannigans Wednesday.

O'NEILL PRAISES INDIANS.

New Orleans, La., March 9.—(AP)—Manager Steve O'Neill, after his Cleveland Indians won two games from the New Orleans Pelicans, said today he has a team "more than pretty good" and believes he has the best outfield in the league. He also said he is not worried about his catching with Frankie Pytlak bolstered by Billy Sullivan, Joe Becker, and Bob Garbark.

BASEBALL'S OUT; GOLF ENOUGH FOR BABE RUTH NOW

Miami Beach, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Babe Ruth says he'll never go back to baseball as a player. He had just smacked a lusty 230 yard drive down the 15th fairway at the Lagorce Golf club when he made the assertion today.

"I was up there long enough—22 years," he said. "I'd be taking too many chances of getting hurt if I went back now."

Al Ciuci of Flushing, N. Y., and Dick and Jack Kennedy of St. Albans, N. Y., the latter the Babe's partner, drove, and the foursome legged it down the course.

Not Interested in Reds.

"Larry McPhail [general manager of the Cincinnati Reds] was down here to see me yesterday," the Babe said. "But he wanted to talk to me about playing. I told him I wasn't interested."

[At Fort Myers McPhail, who approached the former home run king apparently believing he might like to return to the game that once paid him $85,000 yearly, said Ruth told him Mrs. Ruth "convinced me that with all the weight I am carrying around it would be asking too much of my legs."]

"I haven't even been playing with the idea of getting back into active baseball," he said, leaving the impression, however, he would be interested in any managerial offers.

Follows Olympic Baseball.

At the 17th his tee shot was just at the base of a tree. He played out into the fairway, uncorked a mighty third, pitched up short and finished with a six, one over par.

"Just now," Ruth said, "I'm taking a lot of interest in this Olympics baseball program.

[As chairman of the world baseball congress, Ruth will take two squads of amateurs to Berlin this summer for exhibition games which he hopes will lead to inclusion of the sport in the 1940 games.]

"That's just the sort of thing the sport needs," he said. "There's a lot of baseball being played all over the world now—in England, and Australia, among other places. They've tried two or three times to get me to go to Australia. We ought to have 14 or 16 countries sending teams to the next Olympic games."

A thundering tee shot at the 400 yard 18th gave the Babe an excellent chance to get his par four, but again his irons were short and he needed five, for 81. Helped considerably by that score, Ruth and company won the match.

12 TEAMS NAMED FOR SIX DAY BIKE RACE AT STADIUM

Twelve evenly balanced teams will compete in Chicago's 35th International six day bicycle race which starts in the Stadium Sunday night at 9 o'clock. Five Chicago boys and four new riders will be among the contestants.

Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, the German riders, who won the last six day race here and who have captured first place in six races in a row, are going to have lots of competition. Alfred Letourner of France and Gerard Debaets of Belgium, who make up the Red Devil team, are looked upon as their strongest opposition while Torchy Peden and Jules Audy, the Canadian team, and Norman Hill and Charley Winter, the American team, can be counted upon to give the German riders a fight.

The complete list of teams for the race and where each rider comes from follows:

Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, Germany; Alfred Letourner, France, and Gerard Debaets, Belgium; William Peden, Victoria, B. C., and Jules Audy, Montreal; Fred Spencer, Nutley, N. ELLINWOOD TOPS NEW STAR LIST IN BIG TEN TRACK

Ray Ellinwood of the University of Chicago will lead a number of sophomores expected to figure prominently in the 26th annual Big Ten indoor track and field meet to be held on Friday and Saturday at the Midway fieldhouse.

Ellinwood, favorite to win the quarter mile event in which he already has been clocked in world record breaking time, is only one of the newcomers who are expected to win points in the conference meet. Two colored athletes, Dave Albritton of Ohio State, high jumper, and Jim Smith of Indiana, distance runner, are others being counted upon by their schools.

Lowell Spurgeon of Illinois is another sophomore expected to give Albritton plenty of competition in the high jump.

Golden Gloves Boxers Report to Open Drills

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Chicago Golden Gloves team, which will meet New York's champions March 23 in Madison Square Garden in the ninth annual intercity tournament, rapidly began to take form yesterday at the Illinois Athletic club. More than two-thirds of the group of 32 fighters reported to Coaches John Behr and Fred Caserio during the morning and afternoon.

No formal work was attempted. This vacation, which will extend through today, was ordered by Coach Behr, who believes the boys, having just completed a gruelling tournament, need rest more than they need an early start at their training duties. Several of the lads bore marks of their scraps Friday night at the Stadium. Joe Coussens, lightweight from South Bend, Ind., had a badly puffed eye to show for his fight with Carl Vinciquerra, of Omaha, the new 175 pound Golden Gloves champion.

Rutecki Out Several Days.

Bruce Ferro, Milwaukee bantamweight, also was battered about the face; Joe Drayer of Omaha, had a badly cut lip, and Ray Harris, Michigan City, and Joe Chizar, South Bend flyweight, possessed black eyes.

Chester Rutecki, Chicago welterweight champion, whose battle with Johnny Barbara was the best bout of the finals Friday night, will be excused from boxing for several days. Rutecki's left ear was badly swollen after the title match and yesterday it was punctured by Dr. J. V. Russell. Chester's left eye, which was cut, also will require several days in which to heal.

Fighters Check In.

Those checking in yesterday at the I. A. C. were: Sam Zaczek, Jesse Robinson, Chicago; Joe Chizar, South Bend, 112 pounds; Ray Harris, Michigan City; George Latka, Gary; Harry Peck, Joliet; Paul Spica, St. Louis, featherweights; Johnny Brown, Chicago; Bruce Ferro, Milwaukee, bantamweights; Pete Lello, Michigan City; Andy Scrivani and James Martin, Chicago, lightweights; Chester Rutecki, Chicago; John Barbara, South Bend, welterweights; Hiner Thomas, Chicago, and Joe Drayer, Omaha, middleweights; Paul Frazier, Chicago; Joe Couzzens, South Bend, and Herman West, Centralia, light heavyweights; John Washington, Chicago, heavyweight.

Ted Kara, Cleveland featherweight; Joe Kempenger, Kansas City heavyweight, and Milton Shivers, Detroit's champion middleweight are due here this morning.

Dooley Replaces Smith.

Bruno Dooley, Chicago heavyweight, yesterday was named on the intercity team to replace Tyrus Smith, Oklahoma City, who could not make the New York trip because of his school work.

The intercity boxers were the guests last night of Balaban & Katz theaters. The boys saw the pictures of Jack Dempsey's fights from the time of his championship battle with Jess Willard at Toledo up to the battle of the century with Gene Tunney on Chicago's lake front. The movie was pre-viewed at the Apollo theater. The film is called "Idol of Millions."

The boys reporting yesterday were measured for their intercity uniforms.

Real Work Opens Tomorrow.

The regular training schedule, road work in the morning, gymnasium work and boxing in the afternoon, will commence tomorrow morning. According to this, the Chicago team of 33 fighters will drill seven days at the I. A. C. The squad will leave for New York one week from today. On the next afternoon the team will work out at Stillman's gymnasium in New York and thus will not lose any time in their preparations for the intercity fights.

Chicago's eight champions will meet New York's eight champions who were chosen last night. The other eight positions will be filled by the best fighters and the test will be condition and ability as manifest in the drills.

Badgers May Bar Regents from Board

Madison, Wis., March 9.—[Special.]—Reorganization of the faculty athletic board to exclude any member of the board of regents appeared tonight to be the first step in assuring the Western conference that University of Wisconsin athletics are faculty controled.

In a four hour conference this afternoon, members of the university faculty-regent committee tentatively decided on this policy, it was learned from a reliable authority.

Regents Meet Today.

President Glenn Frank emerged from the meeting with the statement that there was nothing to announce. He declined to say whether he would submit his new faculty board appointments to the regents tomorrow, but from another source it was learned that the plan to revamp the faculty athletic board personnel probably will delay replacement of the four professors who resigned three weeks ago when the regents threw out their recommendation to fire Dr. Clarence W. Spears, head football coach, and retain Athletic Director Walter E. Meanwell.

The proposed setup also provides that the university committee, a standing faculty body, advise with President Frank relative to the selection of members of the new faculty athletic board. This change is considered significant in that it gives the faculty a direct voice in selection of the new board.

The regents will meet as a committee of the whole tomorrow. The plan to reorganize the faculty board then will be discussed and action taken. If it is favorable, the plan then will be submitted to the university faculty by President Frank. If the faculty approves, President Frank will submit five appointments to replace the four who resigned and Regent Harold M. Wilkie, ex-officio member of the faculty athletic board and chairman of its physical education committee.

From several sources it was learned that today's meeting was exceptionally harmonious. One of the regents said "the spirit was fine."

Confident of Solving Problem.

It also was known that regent members of the faculty - regent board made it plain that they felt no invasion of faculty control had been committed in ordering the "housecleaning" which swept out Spears, Meanwell and Trainer Bill Fallon several weeks ago. One of the regents explained that "faculty control" at Wisconsin implied the delegation of matters on procedure to the faculty board, but that final authority remained with the regents.

From both regent and faculty members of the joint board came expressions of confidence tonight that a setup satisfactory to the Western conference will be worked out. The conference faculty committee voted recently to oust Wisconsin from the Big Ten unless given assurance before July 1 that the faculty is in a measurable control of athletics.

Farmer [Whiskers] Tobin will wrestle Steve Nagy, and Bobby Bruns is paired with Don Koch in two bouts which top the mat program at Marigold Gardens Friday.

Joe Foley, promoter of the Joe Louis-King Levinsky bout at Comiskey park last August, has returned from a five months' vacation at Miami, Fla., ready to open negotiations for at least two major bouts here this year. He said he has conferred with Sheldon Clark, president of the Sporting club of Illinois, which assisted in the Louis-Levinsky promotion, regarding bouts involving Louis and Barney Ross and Jimmy McLarnin. Ross is in Vancouver, B. C., where he boxes Gordon Wallace in a nontitle match tomorrow.

MARCH PRESENTS SPRING PREVIEW, FLASH OF WINTER

Outdoorsman Makes a Study in Contrasts.

BY BOB BECKER.

The outdoorsman who gets into the country this week will find March staging a show that is quite confusing. The contrasts between the reminders of the severe winter and the approach of spring are especially noteworthy this season if one takes the time to tabulate them. After traveling through the Fox lake region and then on to Lake Geneva to catch a few ciscos we recorded this kind of a picture—one that shows how spring is competing with the "big noise" that winter made during the month of February.

1. Fly fishermen, perennial harbingers of spring and the run of the bluegills and crappies, tossing flies into open water in the Northern Illinois lake country. [No luck.]

2. Snowbanks, on which the fly fishermen stand, still several feet deep and serving as a reminder that winter still intrudes into the picture.

The Ice Is Still Thick.

3. A bluebird flying over us as we stand on the bank of a creek hoping to see the strikes of the first bluegill of the season. [They weren't there so we saw no strikes!]

4. Ice 24 to 26 inches thick on Fox lake, where we slid around to see how the ice fishermen were getting along.

5. A drive over the ice on Lake Geneva, where many shacks still house the cisco fishermen.

6. Wild geese [the migrating birds that keep close to a schedule calling for an average temperature of 35 degrees in the area they invade] filling the sky with their honkings and prophecies of spring.

Thus the picture that March provides for the outdoor fan is an especially interesting one this year, varying from the melodious call of the bluebird to snow banked highways and ice that is almost thick enough to hold up a passenger train.

With mild temperature prevailing over the week end we figured that a fellow could find some bluegills or crappies by tossing a few flies in the Fox lake region. So we joined Leo Rinal of Libertyville on a hunt for a few fish. But nary a panfish did we find in any of the creeks that connect some of the lakes in the Fox lake territory. We did see evidences of how the severe winter had killed many fish due to the fact that thick ice and a mantle of snow on top prevented the fish from getting an ample supply of oxygen. In one place at the edge of a shallow lake [where the ice cutters had been at work] we counted more than 300 dead bluegills, carp, pickerel, and other fish, including several black bass. Practically all of them were small. At another place in a creek we counted around 200 dead fish that had been "winter killed."

EX-GOV. CATTS, 'STORMY PETREL' OF FLORIDA, DIES

Succumbs at 72 After a Vivid Career.

De Funiak Springs, Fla., March 9.—[Special.]—Sidney Johnston Catts, 72, former governor of Florida and one of the state's most colorful characters, died here today. His wife and daughter were at the death bed.

SYDNEY J. CATTS.

Catts was Florida's chief executive from 1917 to 1921. Since his defeat in 1928, when he sought the Democratic nomination again, he had devoted his time to private business interests.

But before he settled down his life was filled with startling activities. At various times he was a preacher, lawyer, cowboy, mailman, merchant, and leader in the Ku Klux Klan movement. He frequently was referred to as the "stormy petrel" in Florida politics.

Called Self "Old One Eye."

In 1929 Catts, who often referred to himself as "Old One-eyed Catts" because he lost the sight of one eye early in life, was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of having financed a counterfeiting ring in Florida whose goal was to put into circulation a million dollars in bogus money.

During the long trial, which finally ended in a mistrial when the jury could not agree on a verdict, Catts testified that he and Julian Diaz, former Tampa attorney who was convicted of counterfeiting, had planned to reap $1,500 a month each through legal business arising from the appointment of Diaz's friends to political offices.

Arrested as Burglar.

In 1931 Catts was arrested as a burglar after he and five other men were charged with breaking into a café here. Catts, who assumed all the blame for the affair, said the café owner owed him money, so he obtained the help of others in removing numerous articles from the place. The owner said he owed Catts only $10 and that $240 worth of property had been taken.

Catts was the target of a barrage of eggs at Tallahassee when he delivered an address opposing Alfred E. Smith for the presidential candidacy. After being struck by the eggs when he took up the religious question, Catts challenged any man in the audience to fight him.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The waltz king has a crown prince now. A seven pound boy was born to Mrs. Wayne King at the Swedish Covenant hospital Sunday evening. The boy will probably be named plain Wayne King. His father's full name is Harold Wayne King. The Kings have a daughter, Penelope [they call her Penny], who will be 3 next August. Mrs. King is the former Dorothy Janis of the movies. You may remember seeing her in "The Pagan," with Ramon Navarro, the last picture in which she was featured.

Wayne King canceled all of his theatrical and dance engagements from March 5 to March 19 with the expectation that he might be on hand for the event. He played Thursday at Baltimore and returned to Chicago Friday evening. His radio engagements, of course, went on as usual. He was lucky in that his Sunday evening CBS show recently went off the air, leaving him free to be at the hospital. This Sunday series is to be restored April 26 over W-G-N and MBS.

First to offer Freeman Gosden [Amos] a Will Rogers autograph following a paragraph in this column yesterday was Mrs. Charles Gaylord, wife of the radio orchestra leader. Before her marriage Mrs. Gaylord was Beryl Williams, a Follies beauty. She appeared with Will in the Follies and also knew him as a neighbor in Santa Monica, Cal., her home town. Mrs. Gaylord used to serve Coles Phillips as a model for those hosiery ads. Other offers of Rogers' signatures came from George Olsen and Ethel Shutta, who used to work in Ziegfeld shows with Will, and from Frank Bering, hotel executive.

Maj. Bering recalled that a year or two ago he and Will were returning from a round of polo on the Rogers ranch when they were stopped by a couple of girls who asked Will for his autograph. They apologized for bothering him.

"No trouble at all," Will ventured. "The only time it will bother me will be when folks don't ask me for it anymore."

Xavier Cugat, the tango and rhumba expert, will bring his South American music to the Continental room of the Stevens and to CBS April 15, succeeding Harry Sosnik. With Cugat as soloist will be his wife, Carmen. Cugat has been on the air for several seasons from the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, and was on that five hour sponsored Saturday night "Let's Dance" series last season with Benny Goodman, the swing expert now at the Congress.

Jack Fulton Jr., the top tenor heard with Charlie Gaylord's orchestra on the late NBC Penthouse Serenade series, may be back on the air shortly on a new sponsored program. There are also some plans to have him lead a radio band.

First broadcast ever put on from the Yukon region was aired at 1:30 yesterday over NBC from a Pacific-Alaska airways plane roaring over the jagged peaks, glaciers, and deep gorges of the frozen north. There will be further relays from the tundra regions during the next few days, so watch your dials for a thrill.

Helen Keller admitted after her appearance on Rudy Vallee's program the other evening that "mike fright" had overcome her. Following the broadcast she confided to the technicians that fear of the little black box had gripped her when the opening musical number was transmitted to her through vibrations of the studio floor. Blind and deaf, Miss Keller has spoken on the radio at other times without becoming panicky.

CRISIS ABROAD SENDS STOCKS DOWN SHARPLY

Losses Range from 1 to 6 Points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—Selling wave of wide proportions swept over the stock market in the final hour today, leveling many prices 1 to more than 6 points. Closing prices generally were at or around their lowest marks of the day and no section escaped unscathed. A total of 713 issues declined, the largest number since midsummer, 1933.

With the exception of J. I. Case and Wright Aero not a single prominent issue finished more than a point higher. Even fractional advances were few. Nervous selling affected the market all day as speculative caution became pronounced following Saturday's uncertain swings and selling. Sales volume for the session was not large, amounting to 2,776,280 shares.

Await Market Effects.

The principal topic of conversation was Germany's challenge to Europe for its old position of central dominance and what the effect is likely to be on securities. It was generally conceded the outbreak of war would be a bear point, but would scarcely be the calamity it was in 1914 when the stock exchange had to be closed to slacken the heavy dumping of European owned securities. In this connection, it was pointed out that foreign investment now is much smaller than it was then.

Trade news continued to be favorable though it was more or less disregarded in view of the disquieting news from abroad. The steel industry continues to gain. Corporation reports on earnings and dividends also continued to favor the constructive element.

Trends Vary Early.

Until the last hour sales rush developed, the market was full of many cross currents. The list was under pressure at the opening, losses in high priced shares running to 2½ points before some support was encountered. Airplanes held well, as did some of the sugars and coppers. Considerable evening up occurred as the session progressed.

Trading had been dull most of the day, but picked up sharply as prices began to fall. The high speed ticker was unable to keep up with transactions on the floor and fell six minutes behind at one time.

Industrial issues suffered most from the liquidation with motors and rails following right behind. American Can lost 3⅛ points, Eastman Kodak slipped 4, International Business Machine dropped 9, Westinghouse dropped 3¾, and General Electric lost a point.

Carriers Decline.

Carrier issues opened a point or so lower and failed to develop rallying power. Atchison closed 2¾ points lower. New York Central lost an equal amount, New York, Chicago & St. Louis dipped over 3, Union Pacific was down 3⅛, Great Northern gave up 2¼, and Pennsylvania lost more than a point.

Even sugar shares, the only group uniformly higher in early dealings, blanched in the late unloading. Copper shares also gave up early gains.

Wright Aero withstood the pressure in the airplane division, closing with a gain of 4, bringing its advance for the week to over 30 points. At one time during the session it was up 9 points. Amerada Oil, another spectacular performer, dropped from a high mark of 112 to a closing figure of 102½, 6½ points below the previous close.

Chemical shares were hard hit. Allied dropped 5 points, United and Columbia Carbon each gave up over 2. Chrysler, General Motors, and Auburn sustained losses running from 2 to 4 points.

Silver mining shares, steels, and utilities followed the trend, as did the mail orders.

RESUME DIVIDEND ON BRUNSWICK SENIOR SHARES

The Brunswick-Balke-Collender company resumed dividends on the noncumulative preferred stock yesterday with the declaration of a $1.25 disbursement to be made April 1 to holders of record March 20. This is the first payment on the issue since October, 1931, when $1.75 was paid.

Lerner Stores corporation, which recently split its common stock two for one, placed the new issue on a $2 annual dividend basis, the same as paid yearly on the old issue. Directors declared an initial quarterly disbursement of 50 cents, payable April 15 to holders of record April 1.

Spang Chalfant & Co. declared another $1.50 dividend on the preferred stock, on which there is an accumulation. The dividend, similar to the one paid in January, is payable April 1 to holders of March 17.

Field Estate Takes Title to Hubbard Woods Block

County records disclosed yesterday that the one-story business block at the southwest corner of Linden avenue and Gage street, Hubbard Woods, Winnetka, title to which was taken recently by Middleton Miller, was purchased by him for the estate of Marshall Field. It was bought by Miller from the National Tea company for $125,000 according to the revenue stamps on the deed. Yesterday he conveyed it to the Field estate.

Taft Attacks Repudiation of Gold Clause

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—Abrogation of gold payment promises in government bonds was fought out in court again today, with Robert A. Taft, son of the former President, calling the action unconstitutional, and federal counsel contending he seeks to enforce a nonexistent "pound of flesh" provision.

R. A. TAFT.

Taft personally argued before the court of claims his suit to collect $1.07 in interest on a $50 Liberty bond which the treasury called before maturity but refused to pay in gold.

Quick Decision Expected.

The oral arguments were completed quickly and a decision within the next few weeks became a possibility. An appeal to the Supreme court, which held in a previous test that nullification of the gold clause in government bonds was invalid but that the plaintif had shown no actual damage, may be taken eventually.

Assistant Attorney General James W. Morris told the court the $50 bond involved had been purchased for the express purpose of bringing suit. He asked dismissal on grounds an important matter was not at issue.

Taft, president of the Dixie Terminal corporation of Cincinnati, insisted that despite the small amount the claim was a proper one for court action.

Defends Small Holder.

"Does the government contend that the holder of a $50 Liberty bond has any less right than the holder of a $100,000 bond?" he asked. "The government urged people to buy the $50 bond—some of them poor people."

Morris said the Supreme court had pointed out that payment in gold would be a useless step because the gold would be seized and replaced with devalued currency. He added that calling of Liberty bonds containing the gold clause had "saved the taxpayers of this country more than $53,000,000 annually."

Taft said the question in his case was:

"Can the government deliberately call bonds that provide payment in gold, not intending to pay in gold, and still intend to obtain all the benefits of paying in gold by shutting off the interest?"

Railroad Wins Reversal.

San Francisco, March 9.—(AP)—The Southern Pacific company won reversal on technical grounds of a declaratory judgment involving some $500,000 a year in its foreign currency clause bond case today in the United States Circuit court of Appeals.

The court reversed judgment in favor of Mrs. A. McAdoo, a bondholder, on the ground the case did not involve an amount in excess of $3,000, as required in the federal court. Mrs. McAdoo was a holder of one $1,000 bond in the San Francisco terminal first mortgage issue of which $24,822,500 is outstanding. The judgment was written by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley of Illinois in the District court here.

BINKS MFG. PLAN TO RECAPITALIZE GIVEN APPROVAL

HORNER ORDERS STATE SUPPORT FOR GUFFEY LAW

Washington, D. C., March 9.—(AP)—Illinois, the nation's third largest producer of bituminous coal, intervened today in the Supreme court in support of the constitutionality of the Guffey bituminous coal act.

The intervening petition was filed by Representative Kent E. Keller of Ava, Ill., Democrat, at the direction of Gov. Henry Horner and Attorney General Otto Kerner. Keller, in whose district are located many of the state's largest mines, was admitted so that he might file the action.

Keller conferred by telephone with Gov. Horner last Friday on the advisability of the action. The governor agreed the state should support the government in its fight to have the act held constitutional. The attorney general then wired Keller authority to proceed on behalf of the state.

Westinghouse Profits Soar; Best Since '29

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company yesterday reported 1935 earnings were the best since 1929, net income of $11,983,380 being slightly higher than in 1930 and contrasting with $189,562 in 1934 and losses in the three preceding years. The 1935 net was equal to $4.52 a share on the common, after preferred dividends, which were about two-thirds covered in 1934.

A. W. ROBERTSON.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, and F. A. Merrick, president, said in the annual report:

"Many strange elements have been introduced into our business life. A great many new laws which affect the business of the company have been enacted, and must be obeyed. On the other hand, litigation as to their constitutionality adds an element of uncertainty.

Economic Conditions Unsettled.

"General economic conditions are further complicated by world-wide unrest with war and threats of war on the horizon. Unforeseen events may change estimates for better or for worse; but to the best of our judgment, 1936 should be a fairly prosperous year. We are making plans accordingly.

"The tax problem as presented by new legislation adds a tremendous burden to the company, both with regard to the amount of tax to be paid and to the expense in administration of tax matters. Taxes for 1935 amounted to $1.85 per share of capital stock."

Of the 1935 net income, $1,606,625 was a nonrecurring item representing dividends received and profits realized from securities of Radio Corporation of America, which were sold in compliance with a court decree. Excluding this nonrecurring item, 1935 net equaled $3.90 a share on the common.

Sales Billed Show Increase.

Sales billed amounted to $122,588,555, or 33 per cent more than in 1934. Orders received were up 16 per cent to $123,473,226. Unfilled orders at the end of the year were down from $34,085,921 to $27,137,075.

Plants operated at a substantially higher rate than in 1934, the report said. Foreign business increased substantially, with profits from exports higher than in "a number of years."

Pay rolls amounted to $51,979,517, compared with $47,321,400 in 1934, and an average 5 per cent pay increase was given hourly workers on Sept. 1 last.

Chain Store, Mail Order Sales Above February, '35

Dollar sales of the first 20 chain store systems and mail order houses to report for February indicated a volume of $85,438,000, compared with $81,310,000 in the same period a year ago, an increase of 5 per cent.

MANDEL BROTHERS REPORT PROFIT FOR YEAR; HAD LOSS IN '34

Operations of Mandel Brothers, Inc., for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1936, resulted in a profit of $30,113 after depreciation and all charges, the largest since 1929, compared with a loss of $297,109 in the preceding fiscal year, Robert Mandel, chairman of the board, reported yesterday to stockholders.

Mandel said the company continued to show a strong liquid position, the ratio of current assets to current liabilities standing at 4.63 to 1. The company has no bank loans.

Net sales for the fiscal year totaled $16,247,084, compared with $15,518,511 for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1935. The cost of the goods sold was $10,608,902, compared with $10,142,343 for the preceding year.

Operating expenses totaled $5,565,501, compared with $5,567,405. Additional income from rentals, interest, and other sources amounted to $146,364, against $93,703.

Current assets as of Jan. 31, 1936, stood at $4,631,522, compared with $4,746,829 at the end of the preceding fiscal year, while current liabilities were $999,530, compared with $963,053.

L. Greenebaum, treasurer of the company, said yesterday that in February, the first month of the 1936 fiscal year, there was a substantial increase in sales and profit.

SANGAMO SHOWS INCOME NEARLY TRIPLED IN 1935

The Sangamo Electric company yesterday reported 1935 net profit of $583,942, or nearly triple 1934's net of $197,644. Net sales amounted to $4,886,208, or 45 per cent more than the $3,371,962 the preceding year.

R. C. Lanphier, president, announced that considerable is being given to retirement of the 6,910 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred stock outstanding after redemption of 1,079 preferred shares on Jan. 1. Looking to this end, stockholders will be asked at the annual meeting, March 21, to approve increasing authorized common stock from 125,000 to 150,000 shares.

"I look forward to a continuation and perhaps improvement of the business of the last year," said Lanphier in speaking of 1936 prospects. Total surplus now stands at $975,458, compared with $491,506 at the end of 1934. Current assets of $2,811,238 last Dec. 31 compare with current liabilities of $775,086. Dividend arrears of $11.75 a share were paid off last year."

Reject Offer for Holdings of Edith M'Cormick Estate

An offer of $133,000 for the entire holding of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick estate in the 3300 Sheridan Road Building corporation was ordered rejected yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell when 70 creditors of the estate objected to acceptance. The securities are carried by the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor of the estate, at a total value of $210,000. Attorneys for the title company said a fair market value for the securities would be $170,000. The offer was made by the law firm of Altheimer, Mayer, Woods & Smith.

WHEAT 'OFFERS' BID UP SHARPLY ON WAR 'SCARE'

Close at $1.01½, Well Above Market.

A brisk demand for "offers" developed yesterday in the Chicago wheat pit following the close of the regular market session. The excited selling of stocks on the New York exchange coupled with a break in the French franc in the foreign exchange market led speculators here to believe that the European situation was more threatening than had been represented.

Offers on May wheat, giving the buyer an option to purchase today at a specified price, rose to $1.01½ cents a bushel as compared with the final market price of 98⅞ cents a bushel.

Indicative of Trend.

Trading in bids and offers is carried on after the regular market session. Frequently the prices quoted on these options are indicative of the market trend on the following day, although overnight developments sometimes change the market picture completely.

The news received after the market's close was of an indefinite character. Traders were inclined to read great significance into the fall in the franc rate and bet on the possibility that overnight developments might lead to a genuine war "scare" with a resulting bullish effect on wheat.

During the regular session the market appeared to be little concerned over the European situation. Prices lost the gains that were recorded on Saturday.

Crop reports from over the winter wheat belt were the principal market influence. These indicated the condition of the crop was not a cause for immediate alarm.

In the Winnipeg market a decline of 1 cent a bushel occurred in the May futures while other contracts showed smaller losses. Export demand for Canadian wheat was slow, indicating that European buyers were not greatly concerned.

Comparative Prices.

Closing quotations on the May futures in Chicago, with comparative prices, were:

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$0.98⅞	$1.00	$0.99¾
Corn	.60¼	.61	.60⅝
Oats	.27⅛	.28⅛	.28⅜
Rye	.56¼	.56⅝	.57¼

There was no snap to the buying of corn futures. Some pressure was exerted on May futures as the result of hedging operations by local interests who were buying cash grain. No purchases of corn were reported for deferred shipments from the country, and interior elevators were said to be consigning rather than selling to arrive.

Oats developed independent weakness as the result of scattered liquidation, the July delivery selling equal to the lowest level of the season.

Rye weakened in sympathy with wheat.

Dollar Gains Value Against Other Moneys

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The French franc and other European currencies fluctuated violently today as the international money market strove to protect itself against the threat of a war raised by Germany's repudiation of the Locarno pact and invasion of the demilitarized Rhineland.

Foreign currencies at first fell sharply in terms of the dollar but later rallied almost as strongly to close with relatively small net losses.

The franc fell to 6.62½ cents, the lowest price since Jan. 2 but closed at 6.64⅝ cents, or more than a point above its parity and only ¼ point below Saturday's closing quotation. This raised the value of the dollar against francs to 99.81 cents from 99.77 Saturday.

Sterling Drops Fractionally.

Sterling dropped to $4.97 and closed at $4.98⅛, off ⅝ cent. The Netherlands guilder swung between 68.32 cents and 68.53 cents, closing at the latter figure, off 3 points net. Swiss francs were down to 32.79 cents, but closed at 32.89 cents, off 4 points net. Belgas dipped to 16.97 cents and closed at 17.01 cents, off 3 points. The German mark which due to stringent foreign exchange restrictions does not ordinarily move as freely as other currencies, dropped to 40.34 cents and closed off 12 points at 40.48 cents.

Early declines in foreign currencies were regarded by bankers as a normal response to the disturbing political news from Europe. The contradictory rally was ascribed to speculative short covering and to the desire of financial institutions to "even up" their positions.

War Would Aggravate Position.

Europe's present currency difficulties, it was pointed out, would be aggravated by war and the natural disposition of European nationals would be to seek safety in the dollar. Not all bankers shared this opinion, however. Some of them, recalling that in 1914 there had been a great rush on the part of Europe to call its money home at the outbreak of the war, thought that the same process might be expected this time if the tension in Europe increased.

Foreign short term balances in this market which could be suddenly called home are estimated at about 1 billion dollars. In addition Europe has made huge investments in our securities markets, the extent of which cannot be estimated accurately.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported no gold transactions here but listed the arrival in San Francisco of $110,000 gold from Australia.

Retail Advertising Exceeds Year Ago in Newspapers

For the week ended Feb. 29 retail advertising in newspapers of 66 major cities totaled 15,213,094 lines, or 1.9 per cent more than the 14,929,936 lines carried in the corresponding week of 1935, the magazine Advertising Age reported yesterday. The 1936 total thus far was 131,541,688 lines, compared to 129,448,300 last year, an increase of 1.6 per cent.

NEW DEAL RAIL 'PANACEAS' SEEN AS BIG FAILURE

Term Roosevelt Plea Good Politics.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 9.—President Roosevelt's letter to railroad officials proposing negotiation rather than legislation to solve problems in the industry was regarded today as an admission that the emergency railroad transportation act of 1933 had collapsed.

J. J. PELLEY.

This New Deal act, which had been publicized as a panacea for railroad ills, has accomplished little to date beyond scattered reports and recommendations that have been rejected as unworkable by executives and railroad brotherhoods.

Made public yesterday, the President's letter was a plea for harmony addressed to J. J. Pelley, president of the Association of American Railroads, and J. A. Phillips, vice chairman of the committee of railway labor executives.

Asked for Coöperation.

The President asked for coöperation in working out railroad unification proposals to eliminate waste. Labor has protested against the plans on the ground that men would be thrown out of work.

Pelley declined to discuss the letter. New Dealers, among them Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which has 390 million dollars in loans outstanding to railroads, would not say whether the administration would continue to apply the collectivist principle to the railroads.

The office of federal coördinator of transportation, held by Joseph B. Eastman, expires June 16 of this year, three years after its creation, unless congress extends its lifetime. The President's letter favoring negotiation rather than legislation was interpreted as sounding the death knell for the agency.

Regarded Political Move.

From the standpoint of New Deal politics, the President's move was a good one. The vexatious question of railroad consolidation that might result in increased unemployment will be passed back to railroad executives and representatives of labor.

While the New Deal held out hopes of eliminating waste and raising railroad revenues with one hand other policies increased railroad operating SEAMEN OF OLD, daring though they were, still felt a measure of comfort in knowing that there were sea anchors stowed aft, ready to hold her nose up in the strongest blow. Discretion is still the better part of valor.

This bank is abreast of all new things in the forward march of commerce and industry, and it takes an active part in them—but with good strong lines holding it to sound, conservative banking principles.

GENERAL MOTORS FEBRUARY SALES BEST SINCE 1929

Gain Made Over Year Ago Despite Weather.

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—The largest February sales since 1929 were reported today by the General Motors corporation. Total sales to retail buyers for the month were 96,134 units, compared with 102,034 in January and 77,297 in February last year. Sales in February, 1929, were 110,148 units.

The February sales exceeded those for a year ago despite the severe cold weather which adversely affected business over a large part of the country.

Sales to Dealers Higher.

Sales to dealers in the United States and Canada, together with overseas shipments, also were the best for the month since the banner year of 1929, totaling 144,874 units. In the preceding month comparable sales were 158,572, while sales in February, 1935, amounted to 121,146 units. Deliveries to dealers in the United States last month were 116,762, against 131,134 in January and 99,970 a year ago.

For the first two months this year retail sales in the United States have amounted to 198,168 units, compared with 131,402 in the same period of 1935.

Sales for Two Months.

Sales to dealers in the United States and Canada, plus overseas shipments, in the two months period were 303,443, compared with 219,414 in the corresponding months last year.

Monthly sales to dealers in the United States, Canada, and overseas for the last three years are shown in the following table:

MEMBER BANKS GAIN DEPOSITS, EXPAND LOANS

Member banks of the federal reserve system in 101 leading cities of the United States yesterday reported an increase of 94 million dollars in deposits and a rise of 200 millions in loans and investments during the week ended Feb. 4. Brokers' loans rose 129 millions, to a total of 1 billion 198 million.

New York commercial banks had a total gain of 248 millions in loans and investments, while Chicago banks had a decrease of 30 millions and the other 99 cities reported a decline of 18 millions. Declines of 37 millions in Chicago and 51 millions in the 99 cities in government bonds were principal factors in decreases of loans and investments there. New York banks, on the other hand, increased government bond holdings 55 millions. Comparative figures follow:

MORE MONEY PUT INTO CIRCULATION AS TRADE RISES

Treasury Cites Increase for Month and Year.

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.] — Continued improvement in business activity was indicated today by the treasury's figures on money in circulation, showing $5,846,231,715 in the hands of the public on Feb. 29, an increase of $109,161,000 in a month and $379,529,000 in a year.

The per capita circulation on Feb. 29 was $45.79, compared with $44.96 on Jan. 31, and $43.07 a year earlier. These figures were based on an estimated population of $127,670,000 at the end of February against 127,608,000 on Janu. 31 and 126,923,000 on Feb. 28, 1935.

Federal Spending Is Factor.

Treasury experts attributed the substantial rise in money circulation during the month and year to greater business activity and to large disbursement of funds by the government.

The country's total money stocks on Feb. 29 were $16,640,805,683, compared with $16,625,873,303 on Jan. 31 and $14,480,250,567 on Feb. 28, 1935.

Of all money stocks the treasury held $11,358,938,597, compared with $9,307,298,844 a year ago. The Federal Reserve banks had $2,613,509,858, compared with $1,247,529,884 on Feb. 28, 1935. The gain was due to the fact that the Federal Reserve banks have been taking possession of gold certificates owned by them but until recently held by the treasury.

Gold Certificates Still Out.

On Feb. 29 there were $105,893,269 in gold certificates outstanding, although their possession is unlawful. A year before, $125,511,349 in gold certificates were outstanding.

Silver certificates were in circulation in the amount of $840,915,652 on Feb. 29, compared with $598,926,988 on Feb. 28, 1935.

CONFIRM PLANS TO REORGANIZE 2 LOOP BUILDINGS

Court approval of the reorganization of two large loop properties—the 22 story Builders building and the Wabash-Harrison hotel—were announced yesterday by M. A. Rosenthal, secretary of the bondholders' committee for issues sold by S. W. Straus & Co.

The original reorganization plan of the Builders' building was amended under section 77B of the federal bankruptcy act in accordance with recommendations made by the District court of the United States. A new company will be organized with 41,591 shares of common capital stock, 24,995 shares, or 60 per cent, of which will be issued for the benefit of the first and second mortgage bondholders.

The remaining shares will be issued for the third mortgage holders, the unsecured creditors and owners of preferred and common stock of the owning corporation.

The reorganization plan calls for the holder of each $1,000 original bond to receive a new first mortgage income leasehold bond for $500 and a participating certificate for 5 shares of common stock in the new company.

In the Wabash-Harrison hotel reorganization 90 per cent of the common stock of the new company will be issued for the first mortgage bondholders at the rate of two shares for each $100 of the old bonds. The original financing consisted of $2,100,000 first mortgage bonds, all outstanding.

Buying by Munitions Makers Forces Export Copper Higher

New York, March 9.—[Special.]—Foreign buying attributed to munitions manufacturers today advanced the price of copper in the export market to 9⅛ cents, the highest price for the metal abroad in several months.

Demand from foreign consumers was extraordinarily active, resulting in a turnover estimated at not less than 3,000 tons. The latest European "scare" was believed to have stimulated the buying.

Rise Underway for Week.

The rise in price in foreign markets, which began about a week ago, amounts to nearly one-quarter cent a pound. The movement has gathered sufficient strength to attract general attention in the metal trade. It is believed in some quarters that if the rise continues the domestic market also will move up.

Two prices are quoted in the domestic market. The Phelps Dodge corporation raised the price from 9¼ cents to 9½ cents a pound about two weeks ago. While the Anaconda Copper Mining company followed that advance, Kennecott Copper corporation, third member of the "Big Three," refused to follow suit. The American Smelting and Refining company and the American Metal company also have continued to sell copper at 9¼ cents a pound.

May Force Advance.

However, metal men say that if foreign copper should go to 9¼ cents or better, the effect would be to stiffen the attitude of the producers which still sell at 9¼ cents and perhaps influence them to advance the domestic price to 9½ cents a pound.

Domestic buying of copper so far this month has been chiefly by company-owned copper fabricators but it is said that independent manufacturers were coming into the market in increased numbers. Sales have been moderate—about 1,500 tons a day.

A rise in the domestic price probably would be the signal for a rush to buy as much copper as possible at the 9¼ cent level before the advance went into effect.

ICKES REVEALS LACK OF FUNDS ENDS PWA LOANS

2½ Billions Asked for 6,801 Heavy Projects.

Washington, D. C., March 9.—[Special.]—PWA has received applications from states and localities calling for $2,659,077,265 in federal loans and grants for carrying out 6,801 permanent construction projects, but no funds are available for honoring these requests, Secretary Ickes informed the senate today in response to a request for information.

The projects listed would cost $3,118,798,400 to complete, the PWA administrator informed the senate, but local entities are willing to contribute $1,952,154,104, borrowing $1,492,332,722 of this latter amount from PWA and paying 4 per cent interest.

Heavy Building Not Included.

As far as can be learned, PWA heavy construction projects do not play any part in the administration's work relief plans for 1937, and whatever sum is obtained from congress for the next fiscal year is expected to go to Harry L. Hopkins' WPA for quick light construction undertakings.

Ickes has on several occasions narrowly missed a clash with Hopkins as to the type of projects which should form the basis of the administration's work program. Terms of the senate resolution requesting information gave him the opportunity to make public a list of "picked" projects, in case congress should decide to appropriate money for a reduced list of PWA projects.

Lists 1,476 Projects.

He listed 1,476 selected projects which have been given final approval by the Public Works administration, making clear that work on these projects could get under way almost at once if funds were available.

The projects listed in this category call for grants of $143,935,174 and loans of $83,112,488, a total of $227,047,662, which Ickes noted would make possible construction totaling $349,045,231 when outright cash contributions from localities were taken into account.

EGGS CONTINUE RECENT SLUMP; BUTTER CHEAPER

Mild Weather Expected to Boost Receipts.

The rapid decline in egg prices that began last week was extended further in the Chicago market yesterday. A drop of 2 cents a dozen in the principal grades in the cash market brought prices to a level more than 12 cents under the peak prices commanded last month during the severe cold spell.

Eggs grading extra firsts closed at 21 cents a dozen in car lots, a loss of two cents from Saturday and 4 cents under the quotation prevailing last Tuesday. Fresh firsts also fell 2 cents a dozen to close at 20½ cents.

Warm Weather Is Factor.

A continuation of the warm weather over the principal producing areas, which forecasts a heavier movement of eggs into the principal markets, was responsible for the weakness in prices.

The decline in the cash market was reflected in the prices of futures contracts on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The April contract dropped a half cent to 20¼ cents a dozen. Transaction in eggs on the exchange amounted to 16 cars.

Butter Also Declines.

March butter closed ⅝ of a cent a pound lower on the mercantile exchange, ending at 30⅛ cents. Sales of butter futures amounted to 53 cars.

NEW DEAL RAIL 'PANACEAS' SEEN AS BIG FAILURE

Roosevelt Plea Termed Good Politics.

expenses by approximately 250 million dollars a year, including restoration of wages.

The defunct NRA, for example, raised the average price paid by the railroads for coal from $1.54 per ton in the first six months of 1933 to $1.77 in the first half of 1934 and to $1.89 in the first half of 1935. Based on consumption the increase in cost was $12,500,000.

The NRA is dead, but it is estimated that the Guffey coal act will increase the railroad fuel bill from 7 to 10 million dollars a year. Railroad retirement acts will add about 60 million dollars annually.

The cost of the New Deal's experiment in railroad regimentation under the federal coördinator will be upward of $1,000,000 by June 16. The funds are obtained by assessment on the railroads on a mileage basis.

Costs Increase.

In the first year of its existence, ending June 16, 1934, the coördinator and his staf spent nearly $400,000. The second year the cost was $530,000.

The railroads attempted to coöperate with Eastman at the outset and then in the fall of 1934 organized a new Association of American Railroads to work out their problems without government "aid."

An example of how the railroads reacted to Eastman's recommendations is furnished in his plan for pooling all box car equipment under common ownership as a means of reducing cross and empty hauls.

This scheme had been discarded by the railroads ten years ago. The industry adopted its own plan, providing for the payment on the basis of the average number of foreign cars on a line under a formula that eliminated the old per diem basis. The result was a substantial reduction in the movement of empty cars and savings to the roads.

Eastman had recently ordered the consolidation of railroad terminal facilities in eleven cities, thereby stirring up labor opposition. The President's letter stated that he had asked the coördinator to defer the proposals "for a time."

EASTMAN CITES BENEFITS

Recent recommendations for the unification and consolidation of Chicago railroad terminal facilities and particularly the plan which calls for the Randolph street passenger station, present the most striking example of what the railroads can do to save money, Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator of transportation, yesterday told members and guests of the Trafic Club of Chicago at the Palmer House.

Stressing the continued need for the railroads to reduce their operating costs, Eastman said the roads must not let the present flurry in business lead them to believe that they are on their way out of their troubles.

"The railroads have a long way to go before they are out of the woods and in a condition for effective conduct by private enterprise and private capital," he declared. "I do not say that they will not reach this goal, but I do say that the path which they will find it necessary to take is the path of improved service and lower average rates, and that only maximum economy can make that path safe."

Problem Studied Since 1928.

Reviewing the Chicago terminal situation, Eastman said the problem has been under study since 1908, yet nothing has been done.

"The proposed plan of coördination, particularly if the supplemental plan for two passenger stations were included, would not only save money for the railroads but would be of great advantage to the civic and industrial development of the entire community," Eastman continued. "That is, undoubtedly, the most striking illustration which can be found of what can be done through railroad terminal unification, but on a smaller scale there are hundreds of similar opportunities throughout the country."

The supplement plan mentioned by Eastman provides for the use of the Union and North Western stations as one unit and for the housing of a large part of the passenger activities in a new terminal to be erected at Randolph street and Michigan avenue. V. V. Boatner, regional coördinator, recently submitted a report embracing the recommendations discussed.

PURE OIL PUTS SHARE EXCHANGE PLAN IN EFFECT

Will Clear Up Arrears on Preferred Stocks.

The plan of the Pure Oil company for an exchange of preferred stock to eliminate dividend arrears on the three preferred issues outstanding and to pave the way for resumption of dividends on the common stock yesterday was declared operative on March 25 by the directors.

H. M. DAWES.

More than 75 per cent of the preferred stock has been deposited in favor of the exchange plan, it was announced, and additional deposits are expected during the fifteen day extension period granted yesterday in connection with declaring the plan effective. Acceptance of the exchange offer to date means that a maximum of one-fourth of the $6,564,162 preferred dividend accumulations to April 1 must be met in cash.

Common Holders Benefited.

Common stock holders, President Henry M. Dawes pointed out, will benefit through the immediate removal of accumulated preferred dividends.

Officials of the company had no comment to make yesterday on when common dividends will be resumed. It was said that the directors probably will not take any action in that direction until after the preferred exchange plan is finally effective. The last payment made on the 3,308,370 common shares was 37½ cents a share on Sept. 1, 1930. Earnings last year of $8,150,000 were the best since 1929 and equal to $2.05 a share after allowance for a full year's preferred requirements.

Details of Exchange Offer.

The plan provides that each present 8 per cent preferred share may be exchanged for 1.34 shares of new 6 per cent preferred and $1.50 in cash, or one new 8 per cent preferred share, 24-100ths of one share of the new 6 per cent stock and $1.50 in cash.

For each present 6 per cent share would be given 1.18 shares of new 6 per cent preferred and $1.12½ in cash.

For each present 5¼ per cent preferred may be obtained 1.16 share of new 6 per cent preferred and 87½ cents in cash.

Steps are being taken to register the new shares with the securities and exchange commission and to list them on the New York Stock exchange, said Dawes, and little delay is expected in carrying out the exchange of stock.

INCOME DOUBLED BY PITTSBURGH PLATE GLASS CO.

Earnings for Last Year Highest Since 1929.

The Pittsburgh Plate Glass company nearly doubled its net income in 1935 as compared with 1934, bringing earnings to the highest level since 1929, according to the annual report issued yesterday. Net income of $11,398,739 in the year ended Dec. 31, last, was equivalent to $5.32 a share on the capital stock and compared with $5,763,684, or $2.69 a share, in 1934. In 1929 earnings were $11,664,833, or $5.37 a share.

C. M. BROWN.

During 1935 the company paid dividends of $2.90 a share, and taxes for the year increased 83 per cent to $3,208,243 from $1,758,232 in the preceding year. Pay rolls during the year increased 38 per cent over 1934. The average number of employés was 14,390, compared with 12,047 in 1934.

Current Assets Increase.

Current assets on Dec. 31, last, amounted to $45,013,998, including cash and marketable securities of $21,440,873, against current liabilities of $9,061,489. A year earlier current assets totaled $35,437,984, including cash and marketable securities of $15,965,530, and current liabilities were $4,875,665. Inventories amounted to $16,397,568 on Dec. 31, 1935, against $13,790,036 at the end of 1934.

The volume of business in 1935 was 36 per cent larger than in the preceding year and 89 per cent above that for 1932. Demands from the automobile trade accounted for the larger part of the increase in sales of polished plate glass, the report said, although gains were also made in sales to the mirror and the furniture and fixture industries, and for store front remodeling. "It is not unlikely," the report said, "that during the present year manufacturers will adopt safety glass as standard equipment for all automobiles."

Expects Gain in Sales.

"While no attempt is made to forecast business conditions over an extended period, it is believed that we are warranted in expecting total 1936 sales for the company's major products to exceed the volume for 1935," said Clarence M. Brown, chairman, in his statement to stockholders.

"Commercial building construction, when conducted on a large scale, is an important outlet for our glass and paint products. Such building is still far below normal and no extensive improvement is expected during 1936. However, the modernizing and maintenance of present structures, and the expected increase in the residential construction field offer encouraging opportunities for increased glass, paint, and brush business."

CATTLE, LAMBS PRICES DROP ON HEAVY RECEIPTS

A heavy influx of Colorado and Nebraska fed cattle and lambs swelled Chicago receipts yesterday and subjected prices to severe declines.

Sheep receipts totaled 21,000 head including 17,000 from feed lots of these two states, the largest total since Oct. 7. Most lambs slumped 25 to 50 cents. The top dipped to $9.75, the lowest since Feb. 28.

Reports from the wholesale market for lamb meat were encouraging. Packers sold lamb steady to 50 cents higher per 100 pounds than at the close of the week and 50 cents to $1.50 higher than last Monday.

Beef was also steady to 50 cents higher in wholesale channels, resulting in a good clearance for live cattle at the lower rates. Approximately 2,000 fed hefers, many from feed lots of Colorado and Nebraska, sold from $7.50 to $8.50, or 25 to 40 cents under the close of the week. Steers declined 25 cents.

Hogs and pork advanced, top light loins at Chicago gaining 50 cents to $1 per hundred pounds. It was highest mark since Feb. 21. Bulk of the hogs advanced 5 to 15 cents.

MANAGEMENT JOINS BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF FEDERAL ELECTRIC

The battle for control of the Federal Electric company became more intense yesterday when the committee soliciting proxies for the present management issued a reply to that of the committee seeking proxies to oust Charles Borland as president and replace him with William A. Keating, now vice president in charge of operations, at the annual meeting March 21.

The primary issue, the pro-management letter said yesterday, is whether the company shall acquire stock and notes now held by Commonwealth Subsidiary corporation at less than 50 cents on the dollar, or whether these shall be acquired by R. L. Parkinson, a former director, and his associates for "their personal profit" and still remain outstanding against Federal Electric.

The anti-management committee, supporting the Parkinson deal, asserts that the company is in no financial position to be able to purchase the 20,674 shares of stock and $915,920 in notes. It also states that Parkinson arranged the deal after Borland had failed in similar negotiations with Claude-Neon Lights company. In answer to charges that Borland is working for Claude-Neon interests and to put Federal Electric under its control, the pro-management committee said Claude-Neon would obtain no more than one-third of the Commonwealth holdings and is not a competitor of Federal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 9.—All classes of bonds suffered the sharpest reaction of the month today, but on a trading volume somewhat below the recent daily average. The advance of the last week or so carried prices to such a level that even a moderate amount of pressure proved sufficient to cause a substantial setback.

International news of a disturbing character also tended to dampen speculative enthusiasm in the bond market to an extent that many of the recent favorites were forced sharply lower. Transactions amounted to $13,871,000, compared with $14,365,000 last Friday.

Federal Issues React.

United States government loans, which felt the effect of some profit taking on last Saturday, were again in supply and experienced the sharpest reaction since the beginning of the latest upswing. Declines ranged from 1 to 9-32 point, with both the direct and guaranteed obligations proving vulnerable to the selling.

Similar price trends spread throughout the list of domestic corporate bonds, with secondary railroad liens leading in the decline. Losses ranging from fractions to several points ruled in the rail group, while more moderate declines were recorded among the industrial and public utility issues.

Several Sharp Declines.

Outstanding soft spots included Studebaker 6s, off 6½; Remington Rand 5½s, off 4¾; Warner Bros. 6s, off 2; Southern Pacific 4½s, off 1⅛; International Telephone 4½s, off 1⅜; Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, off 2⅛; Laclede Gas 5½s, off 1, and American and Foreign Power 5s, off 1¾.

The market for foreign dollar bonds was featured by declines of 3 to 4 points in French issues. German loans, which are in default, were unresponsive to the cables from abroad and held within narrow limits. Italian issues were firm to slightly higher.

Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating.

Investors' Guide: Will you please send me the latest financial report on Williams Oil-O-Matic?—Miss H. M. N.

Answer: Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation is a Bloomington, Ill., manufacturer of oil burners. It also produces electric refrigerators and air conditioning systems.

Earnings reached their low point in 1930, when a loss of $321,000 was sustained, the only loss during the last eight years. Since then operations have steadily improved. Unit shipments in the first half of January, 1936, were 50 per cent greater than in the corresponding 1935 period; December, 1935, shipments were 92 per cent larger than the year before, and November, 1935, shipments were 44 per cent ahead of November, 1934.

The four year record of earnings follows:

Year ended Oct. 31.	Net sales.	Net income.	Inc. per share.
1935	$2,060,000	$214,000	$ .50
1934	1,635,000	56,000	.13
1933	1,554,000	47,000	.11
1932	1,691,000	20,000	.05

On Oct. 31, 1935, current assets were $1,781,000 and current liabilities were $102,000. Capitalization consists of 430,000 shares of no par capital stock. On March 16 a 25 cent dividend will be paid. On Dec. 2, 1935, one of 50 cents a share, the first since 1927, was paid.

General Motors Dividend.

Investors' Guide: I bought some General Motors stock on record Dec. 2, 1935. Am I entitled to dividends on that stock? I got dividends on General Electric stock that I bought on record Dec. 11.—R. O. D.

Answer: You were not entitled to the $1 dividend paid Dec. 12, 1935, inasmuch as that was paid to holders of record Nov. 14, but you should receive the 50 cent a share dividend on March 12, which will be paid to stock of record Feb. 13.

Insull Utilities Stock.

Investors' Guide: I have a hundred shares of Insull Utilities. Can this be exchanged for any amount of Middle West corporation stock? I understood that the two companies were connected in some way.—P. M.

Answer: No, there is no provision for the exchange of stock of Insull Utilities Investment company for stock of the new Middle West corporation. Insull Utilities Investment stock is worthless.

NATIONAL DAIRY REVEALS DETAILS OF BOND FUNDING

Biggest Industrial Deal Under SEC Rule.

Details of the plan of the National Dairy Products company to refund $65,839,500 of 5¼ per cent debentures, due in 1948, were disclosed yesterday by Thomas H. McInnerney, president. The underwriting of $62,545,500 of new 3¾ per cent debentures in connection with the refunding is said to constitute the largest single financing operation of an industrial corporation under the securities act of 1935.

The new debenture issue, which is being underwritten by a banking group headed by Goldman, Sachs & Co., will carry warrants entitling the holder to purchase ten shares of common stock for each $1,000 of debentures held. The debentures will mature in fifteen years.

Plan Five Year Bank Loan.

The refinancing plan also provides for five year bank loans totaling $7,000,000 at 2½ per cent interest.

The price at which $60,000,000 of Shell Union corporation 3½ per cent debentures will be offered to the public is 99, it was disclosed yesterday. The underwriting group is headed by Dillon, Read & Co. and offering is to be made today.

Public offering is being made today of 62,500 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred, $20 par value stock carrying common stock warrants, of the Detroit Gasket and Manufacturing company, by Shields & Co. and F. Eberstadt & Co., Inc., at $20 a share and accrued dividends. The stock will be entitled to preferred dividends at the rate of $1.20 annually and will be preferred as to assets in liquidation.

Shawinigan to Redeem Bonds.

The Shawinigan Water and Power company has called for redemption on April 15 its $14,980,000 outstanding first mortgage and collateral trust sinking fund bonds, series C, 5 per cent. Since the redemption price is payable in sterling in London, the company has arranged that bondholders may obtain the benefit of the present sterling premium over the dollar without the necessity of sending their bonds to London. Bondholders may surrender their holdings to the agency of the Royal Bank of Canada in New York between March 26 and April 4 and receive the full redemption price plus accrued interest and an additional sum equal to the sterling premium at the prevailing rate.

COTTON FUTURES DECLINE AFTER A STRONG OPENING

Cotton markets made a strong start and an easy finish yesterday. Strong cables from Liverpool brought in commission house buying early but it was quickly satisfied. Later, weakness in stocks led to increased pressure and the close was around the bottom. Active deliveries in Chicago were off 1 to 3 points and other markets 1 to 6 points.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points lower with New Orleans and New York at 11.30 cents, Houston 11.25, and Galveston 11.25 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

THE BEST USED CAR BUY IN TOWN TODAY IS A
AUTOMOBILE
STUDEBAKER

SALES CO. OF CHICAGO offers cars that have been kept in steam-heated showrooms during the winter. Cars that are kept outside during the cold winter months cannot give you good performance now. The motors and parts deteriorate and rust.

During the slack winter season all Studebaker's mechanics were kept busy reconditioning, re-checking, and renewing these autos — so now they are all ready to go and give you new car satisfaction today. They are truly "WINTER-CURED" cars. See them today sure.

A Low Cost
Auto
Financing
Plan

Why make a good deal on a car, new or used, only to be penalized by high financing charges?

We have broken down the barriers of tradition and have ushered in a new era of sensible rates for cars bought on time payments. These new rates apply on used car sales, new car sales, or a loan on your present car.

No mystery charges, no extra fees. You simply make a reasonable down payment when you buy, and we finance the balance. Here are typical examples of the low cost under our plan:

Balance to be financed.	Total yearly charge.	Total amount of note.	12 monthly deposits.
$100	$12.08	$112.08	$ 9.34
$200	19.00	219.00	18.25
$300	23.04	323.04	26.92
$400	29.00	429.00	35.75
$500	35.08	535.08	44.59

Only Fire and Theft Insurance Required.
Buy It Through Your Own Broker and Include the Premium in the Loan.

YOUR CAR IS THE ONLY SECURITY REQUIRED. NO OTHER COLLATERAL—NO CO-SIGNERS. NO WAGE ASSIGNMENTS.
